Warning Of Russian Attack Issued Again

Easing Of Cold War Tensions Has Not Cut Dangers Of Red Aggression Upon Weak Neighbors, State Department Says In Statement

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The state department issued a new warning today of danger of a possible Russian attack on western Europe, despite the easing of cold war tensions brought by the end of the Berlin blockade.

A new power balance must be created in Europe, the department insisted, because present western defenses are so weak they actually "invite military aggression." Although Russia was not specifically named in this connection, there was no doubt Russia was meant.

The warning climaxed the first ocmplete official statement of administration plans—and arguments—for rearming western European nations in the Atlantic pact, beginning with a $1,130,000,000 military aid program this year.

The statement came in the form of a "peace paper." It was released at 8 a.m. Eastern Standard Time today, an hour favorable for "Voice of America" foreign broadcasts. As a foreign policy declaration the paper has great interest abroad.

Other papers in the state department series "building the peace" have dealt with the Atlantic treaty, European recovery and similar major developments in U. S. foreign policy.

Today's pronouncement outlined the six-point military aid plan for western European and non-Communist nations. It also gave a preview of the reasons to be advanced to congress for the plan's adoption.

President Truman, the state department said, will present the aid program to congress soon. His recom-

EISLER IS TAKEN OFF POLISH SHIP

British Police Arrest Escaped Communist On U. S. Extradition Warrant

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 14.—(AP)—Gerhart Eisler, fugitive Communist from the United States, was arrested and carried off the Polish ship Batory tonight by four beefy British policemen.

The squat, spectacled Communist who jumped $23,500 bail in the United States, where two prison sentences are hanging over him, was carried into the tiny cabin of the tender Romsey.

After a swift run from the Batory's anchorage to the Southampton docks, he was taken ashore without undue protest. Hatless and wearing a brown jacket, he was led down the gangplank by Inspector W. E. Bray of Scotland yard in an apparently resigned frame of mind.

He was hustled into a black limousine and sped away.

Earlier during a conference in the Batory captain's cabin prior to Eisler's arrest, a representative of the Polish embassy in London protested strongly.

A Pole identifying himself as J. Panski of the embassy staff said he would report the incident to his chief.

"We are going to London to report all that has happened to the ambassador, Mr. Jerzy Michalowski," said. "Mr. Eisler has made a long and strong statement, which we must submit to the ambassador."

Newspaper reporters and photographers were able to view the arrival of the tender with Eisler, although the small vessel had changed docks in an apparent last minute effort to give them the slip.

Those who witnessed the transfer of Eisler from the Batory to the tender said four police picked him up—one at each arm and one at each leg—and carried him down three flights of stairs through the main lounge and down the gangway to the tender.

After that Eisler was described as having sat calmly in the small captain's cabin on the tender smoking a cigaret.

He was not handcuffed when brought off the tender, but Inspector Bray walked sideways holding both Eisler's wrists. Other policemen surrounded the Communist.

A U. S. embassy spokesman in London said the fugitive would be held in Southhampton overnight and then taken to the Bow Street jail and magistrate's court in London tomorrow to face extradition proceedings to the United States.

Southampton police reported a slightly different schedule. They said Eisler would spend the week-end in jail at the Southampton civic center and then appear in Southampton

DOLLAR DAY IS SET FOR MONDAY

Retail Merchants Division Will Offer Bargains In All Stores

"Dollar Day" Monday will be observed in the Twin Cities. This is announced by Chairman Herbert Fink, of the retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce.

He states that there will be bargains such as never seen before as merchant after merchant has overstocked his store and now wishes to clean out surplus stock and replace with goods suited to the summer season.

"I anticipate that our merchants will have bigger crowds in their stores on Monday, with good weather conditions existing, than has been the case for a long time, stated" Mr. Fink.

All merchants are agreed that this time they will surprise the buying public with the great variety of articles that a single dollar will purchase.

Many who live in adjacent parishes are expected to visit Monroe and West Monroe stores Monday in quest of bargains.

This will be next to the last dollar day that will be observed this year and the last one is months distant so that Monday will be the time to replenish many household supplies that will be needed in late spring and early summer, Mr. Fink advises.

Two Byrd High Seniors Win Ewing L. S. U. Scholarships

SHREVEPORT, La., May 14.—(Special)—Two Byrd High School seniors, who say they would have had to choose small colleges, have won the 1949 annual Robert Ewing L. S. U. scholarships offered by The Times which provide full four-year college education free at the state university.

The winners are Arnold Lincove, 16, son of Mrs. Manuel Lincove, 445 Prospect street, first place winner in the annual scholarship essay contest; and Lenora Armstrong, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Armstrong, 334 Gladstone boulevard, second place winner.

Arnold Lincove, as first-place winner, will receive a $2,000 cash grant from The Times for a full four-year education at the university, with the money payable at $500 a year.

Miss Armstrong's winning essay means she receives the cash grant of $1,400 payable at $350 a year for four years at L. S. U.

The university waives all general fees for scholarship winners, enhancing the value of The Times essay contest scholarships, most valuable offered for the state university since they were established in 1944.

This year's awards are the eleventh and twelfth. Both are seniors and will enter L. S. U. next fall. All previous winners still are at the university, Emogene Pliner, second-place winner in 1944 having returned this year on an assistantship in the government department to do post-graduate work. William Veal, first-place winner that year, will be graduated this spring, as will Gerald Rigby, first-place winner in 1945, and Patsy Sue Bentley, second place winner in 1945.

As a group, the scholarship committee of the university reports, The Times Robert Ewing essay scholarship winners continue to main grade averages of "B," the grades of several being above "B" averages.

The subject for this year's essay contest was:

"Alexander Hamilton: His Influence In Our Country."

Besides the scholarships, $400 in cash prizes were offered as special awards in small high schools for the best essays entered. Duplicate prizes for boys and girls in each classification will be awarded in this group, prizes for which rangs from $10 to $25 for first, second and third prizes in different categories.

The cash award categories are divided by student population and are as follows: Schools with 50 to 100 students, schools with 100 to 200 students and schools with 200 to 400 students.

Both young Lincove and Miss Armstrong have been outstanding in debate and extemporaneous speaking at Byrd High School, taking honors in out-of-city and invitational speech tournaments in other states. Both have grade averages for four years of high school which are near "A" scholastically than "B."

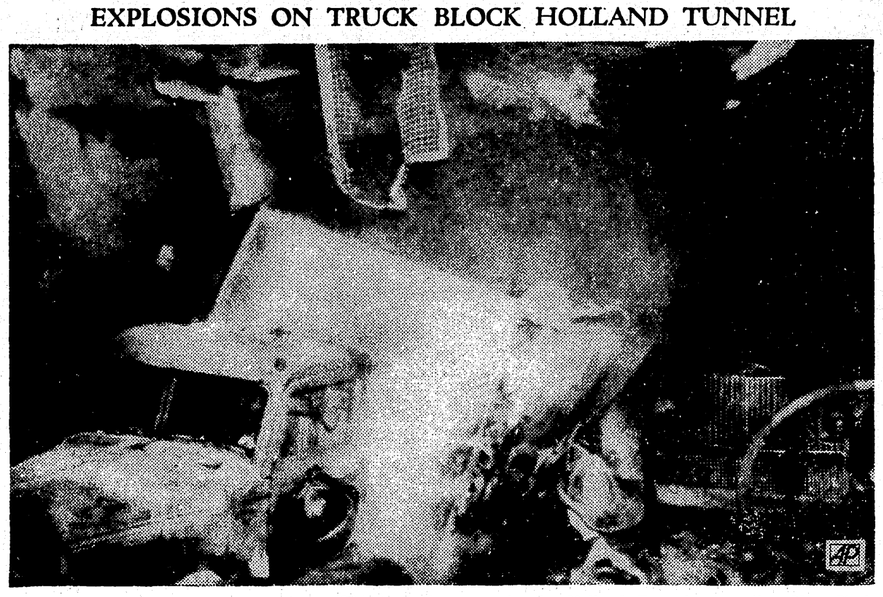
EXPLOSIONS ON TRUCK BLOCK HOLLAND TUNNEL



This was the scene in the Holland Tunnel connecting New York and Jersey City after drums of chemicals on a truck (left) exploded and filled the tube with carbon disulphide fumes. Several trucks caught fire from the blast which ripped out sections of the walls and ceilings. Thirty persons were overcome by the fumes and traffic was halted. The blast occurred near Jersey side.—(AP Wirephoto).

WRECKAGE TAKEN FROM BIG TUNNEL

Engineers Say Underwater Artery Hit By Explosion Basically Undamaged

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Steel-helmeted crews removed tons of rubble from the blast-seared Holland Tunnel today in efforts to reopen the two-mile long tunnel for its daily load of 46,000 cars and trucks.

The underwater artery, linking New York and New Jersey, was reported basically undamaged by the fire and blasts that ripped through it yesterday, shearing away 200 feet of its inner ceiling.

Normal vehicular traffic may be resumed tomorrow. Austin J. Tobin, executive director of the New York port authority, said after a trip through the New York-bound tube today that it would be returned to service tomorrow morning, or Monday, at the latest.

The New Jersey-bound tube, now handling two-way traffic, resumed operations yesterday afternoon, five hours after a big truck, loaded with a cargo of carbon disulphide, blew up in the east-bound shaft of the tunnel.

Sixty-six persons, mostly firemen and tunnel workers, were treated for injuries. Many of them were overcome by fumes that spewed from the blazing chemicals through both tubes of the tunnel.

Sprayed with the flaming chemical, other trucks caught fire and the accident area became a raging inferno of flames and poisonous gas. So intense was the heat, many of the trucks were fused together into an almost solid mass of molten wreckage.

The last of the trucks fired by the explosion was towed from the tunnel shortly before last midnight. Then workmen began the monumental task of clearing up the welter of concrete, tile and metal lath blown from the tunnel's inner skin by the series of explosions.

From time to time, sparks from the scraping blades of bulldozers set off pockets of volatile gases still in the tunnel. The flames were extinguished quickly and no new damage was reported.

The port authority estimated damage to the tunnel would range from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

The searing heat, estimated to have generated a 4,000-degree temperature, melted some 1,000 feet of telephone and telegraph cable in the tunnel. Communications officials called it the worst disruption in the history of long-lines circuits.

Partial service was restored but telephone company officials were uncertain when normal operations would be resumed.

Tobin said that when the east-bound tube is reopened tomorrow or Monday

Union Asks Federal Aid In Ford Strike

Intervention Is Sought After Peace Parley Fails; Cyrus Ching Urged To Have Representative At Negotiations On 10-Day Walkout

DETROIT, May 14.—(AP)—The federal government was asked by union officials to intervene in the 10-day Ford strike after another peace parley failed today.

The C. I. O. United Auto Workers asked Cyrus S. Ching, director of the federal mediation and conciliation service, to step into the production speedup dispute.

U. A. W. President Walter Reuther in a telegram to Ching said the dispute was "no nearer settlement than on the day the strike began."

"Your federal conciliation service can make a valuable contribution to this dispute by having a representative sit in on these negotiations so that he will be in a position to report the facts in the dispute to the government and the public, and make it clear which party is responsible for failure to make progress toward the settlement."

There was no immediate comment from Ford on the union request.

Virtually all the company's 106,000 production workers have been idled by the walkout of 65,000 at two plants May 5.

The negotiations were recessed until Monday, (10 a. m. E. S. T.).

Reuther said the company and union agreed to meet Sunday if desired by either side.

Reuther said the company had rejected two proposals both of which he said "represent a common-sense practical approach" for settling such disputes.

One U. A. W. proposal asked the company to maintain constant assembly line speed, "adequate and properly distributed manpower," and would not require workers to make up for production lost through "no fault of their own."

Company negotiators turned down the U. A. W. peace bid and presented a counter-proposal.

"We have given careful consideration to the union's proposal," said Ford Vice-President John S. Bugas, "and find we cannot accept it."

Then, presenting a company offer to the C. I. O.-United Auto Workers, Bugas said:

"Should this fail, we are prepared to continue negotiations until we reach a solution to this dispute."

Terms of Ford's offer were not made known.

Union negotiators said their pro-

Friday 13th. and a fisherman's luck! Ask Monsignor Marsh and his priest companion!

After Mass and with plans well made for a big day's catch the priest said to monsignor, "Friday 13th." "Unlucky for the fish—lucky for us." With high enthusiasm the two sallied forth to Wall's Lake well equipped with Fluger supreme reels and rods; tackle box; boat cushions, and thermos bottles. All went well until Monsignor Marsh asked, "Is there any water coming in"? "Why no," answered his companion, "none whatsoever."

No sooner said than both priests were swimming for dear life!!!!

(Who was it who said something about "little leaks"?????)

Principles of honesty apparently rank high with James Thatcher, a student of Crosley Grammar School in West Monroe. Police Chief Jeff Caldwell, of West Monroe, will vouch for that statement.

Last week James found an expensive man's wrist watch near his school. Later he marched up to the West Monroe police station and asked if anyone had reported a watch lost.

After Crief Caldwell informed him no such report had been made at the station, the youth left the watch in care of the police department and asked that the owner be found if possible.

At the present time the watch is being held at police headquarters in West Monroe. Chief Caldwell stated that the watch would be given to the owner upon identification. He also recommended a reward for the finder.

Water Works Finances . . .

Your Municipal Improvements

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of articles which will give a condensation of the engineers' report which recommends extensive additions and improvements to the water and electrical system).

The improvements made in 1923 were financed by a bond issue accompanied by a levy of ad velorum taxes and are therefore general obligation bonds of the city. New bonds to be issued for water works improvements will be revenue bonds, requiring no taxation to meet interest and bond retirement.

However, revenue from the sale of water is at present inadequate to meet interest and retirement of the new bonds to be issued. Except to the extent that meter slippage and wastage are eliminated, the financing of the water works improvement program will be dependent upon net income from the electrical utility. This is an unsatisfactory condition as each utility owned by the city should be self-supporting.

From 1940 to 1946 net revenue of water works averaged a little over $30,000 per year. The impact of increased cost of supplies, meters and wages in '47 reduced net income practically to the vanishing point. Revenue from increased usage in '47 and '48 has barely met the increased operating expenses incurred in those two years. Moreover, no depreciation or replacement fund has ever been set up for the water works. Repairs have been kept to a minimum because their cost would of necessity come from the general fund of the city.

The water works, therefore, has had to compete with all other departments of the city for funds which it actually needed for its proper maintenance. The net result has been the accrual of major deficiencies in the system.

A later article tells how a reserve fund will be set up for both water and electric utilities, intended to provide funds for replacement of worn-out or obsolete equipment.

REDS PENETRATE SHANGHAI LINES

COMMUNIST APPARENTLY TO HALT ALL EVACUATION

By Fred Hampson

SHANGHAI, May 14.—(AP)—The Chinese Communists, fighting toward Shanghai in confused and fluid attacks, appeared tonight to have penetrated the main defense ring, less than ten miles from the city at some places. (This dispatch did not mention locations).

The Nationalist garrison reported all penetrations were "beaten back" but acknowledged withdrawal from Kunshan, Taichang and Kiating, which, for th past week, had been the defense's advanced outposts northwest of Shanghai.

(The nearest, Kiating, is 14 miles northwest of Shanghai. The Communist radio said Red troops had captured all those points and also Lotien, only 13 miles from Shanghai and 10 miles west of Woosung.

(Woosung is the fortified mouth of the Whangpoo river, Shanghai's only outlet to the sea, via the Yangtze estuary.)

Woosung, one of the world's most vulnerable ship passageways, resounded to the roar of the nearby fighting.

The latest Nationalist communique said Red units had been beaten back around the villages of Shihtselin, Yuchpu and Yangchang, ten to 15 miles from Woosung. (None of these places shows on available maps of the Shanghai area.)

It was obvious that the Reds were aiming at the vital maritime gateway and that it was in great peril.

This drive towards Woosung seemed to betoken Red intentions to take Shanghai. They could maintain a siege and let the American economic cooperation administration feed this city of more than 5,000,000—But not if they block the Whangpoo. On the other hand, by blocking the river, they can halt Nationalist military evacuations.

There would not seem to be much point in taking Woosung unless the Reds intended to take Shanghai immediately.

All last night the big guns growled

Missouri Union Objects To Use Of Non-Union Worker On Truman's Home

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., May 14.—(AP)—An American Federation of Labor's Painters union protested to President Truman against the hiring of a non-union man to paint the summer White House here.

Jalk Cooke, business representative of the Painters District Council No. 3, AFL, said today a registered letter had been mailed the president making the protest.

"After all, Truman championed himself as the man of the hour in labor and you can't serve but one master—if you serve him right," he said.

The object of the union's ire, John H. Moler, 67, of Independence, said he could not understand "why the union is so upset."

"I've been painting in Independence for 20 years and I've painted for the Trumans before," he said. "Summer before last when I painted woodwork inside the house I said, 'Mrs. Truman, I'm not a union man.'

WEST MONROE MAN HELD IN SHOOTING

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 14.—(AP)—A 10-month-old baby was shot fatally while in his mother's arms today. Police are holding the father for questioning.

The father, Cpl. Charlie Dean Allen, 25, a military policeman at Las Vegas air base, was taken into custody after the child, Carolyn Delores was shot at the Allens' cabin here, police said.

A coroner's inquest was scheduled for Monday.

Allen is the son of Mrs. E. R. Ruston, and the stepson of E. R. Ruston, both of West Monroe.

Neither said they had been notified of the incident.

Allen's stepfather said the young man was born near Lemon, Miss., and had been a resident of West Monroe since 1933. He had been in the army for the past eight months.

While living here, Allen was employed by local bakeries, a freight company and railroad.

Cottingham Ousted As Tech President

Ropp, Northwestern Department Head, Named Temporary Executive At Ruston College; McGinty, Heard's Relative, Goes To Northwestern

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14.—(AP)—The Louisiana board of education today ousted a college president and adopted a formula for distribution of a special $8,000,000 teacher pay fund.

The board failed to re-appoint Dr. Claybrook Cottingham, president of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston since 1941. His term expires June 30.

LOSES POST

DR. COTTINGHAM

The vote, in executive session, was six to four to replace Dr. Cottingham temporarily with R. L. Ropp, professor of English and speech at Northwestern state college, Natchitoches. Board minutes showed only the total vote and did not include names. One member, Parrish Fuller of Oakdale, was absent.

Dr. Cottingham declined to comment.

A $167,500 allotment to Orleans parish was included in the distribution formula. Omission of the parish from a similar plan proposed earlier led to litigation, still pending, which tied up the $8,000,000 fund. It was appropriated by the 1948 legislature to cover any increases in a new teacher wage scale.

The Orleans school board filed suit against the state board of education and won an injunction prohibiting distribution except as provided in the state constitution. The constitutional formula would have given Orleans about $1,000,000 as its share.

A favorable district court ruling was reversed this week by the state supreme court, which held the fund was outside the formula fixed in the constitution. A possibility still exists, however, for further action by the high court.

In adopting the formula, the board instructed State Superintendent of Education S. M. Jackson to withhold actual distribution of the money until the supreme court suit "is finally decided."

The plan was offered by Raymond B. Heard, of Ruston, chairman of the board's finance committee. He said it was amended in committee to include Orleans because, for the past three years, the parish had "been forced to draw on other funds" to pay Negro teachers' salaries. He said these were "materially higher than in other parishes."

Heard emphasized that the formula would govern only funds for the current year. An additional $11,300,000 was earmarked by the 1948 legislature for teachers' salaries during 1949-40.

Besides Orleans' $167,500 share, the formula provides for original distribution of $7,588,634 to the 63 other parishes and three cities—Lake Charles, Monroe and Bogalusa—which have separate school boards.

Orleans' allotment would come from a $411,283 surplus designed to be spread among the parishes as adjustments on a percentage basis. The remaining $243,783 surplus is scheduled to be re-assigned here some time next week.

Allocations to parishes range from as high as $471,017 in Caddo to as low as $21,058 in St. Bernard.

In a six to four vote also, the board named Dr. G. W. McGinty acting president of Northwestern State College at Natchitoches. Dr. McGinty, head of the department of social sciences at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, succeeds Dr. Joe Gibson, who recently resigned.

Board Chairman George T. Madison, of Bastrop, said selection of permanent presidents at the Natchitoches and Ruston schools will be made by

SECOND RED GETS GRANT FOR STUDY

Atomic Scholarship From Federal Funds Given To Communists, Solon Says

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) charged today that another Communist has received a scholarship of the atomic energy commission—and that the commission let him have it after its own investigation showed what he was.

The Iowa senator told a reporter that it was a $3,600-a-year science scholarship and that he has protested to the commission. But he said that so far as he and other members of the senate-house atomic committee can learn the award has not been cancelled.

It is the second case cited by a member of congress of a commission scholarship going to a student described as a Communist.

On Thursday, Hans Freistadt, a physics student at the University of North Carolina who got a commission scholarship, acknowledged he was a Communist after this was disclosed to the house by Representative Cole (R-N. Y.). School officials said Freistadt's study will be relativity and that it is of non-secret nature.

Cole said that the commission had an F. B. I. report on Freistadt and the scholarship was granted him "in the face of the fact." Hickenlooper said, however, that his reference today was to another student.

Hickenlooper declined to identify

Warning Of Russian Attack Issued Again

Easing Of Cold War Tensions Has Not Cut Dangers Of Red Aggression Upon Weak Neighbors, State Department Says In Statement

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The state department issued a new warning today of danger of a possible Russian attack on western Europe, despite the easing of cold war tensions brought by the end of the Berlin blockade.

A new power balance must be created in Europe, the department insisted, because present western defenses are so weak they actually "invite military aggression." Although Russia was not specifically named in this connection, there was no doubt Russia was meant.

The warning climaxed the first complete official statement of administration plans—and arguments—for rearming western European nations in the Atlantic pact, beginning with a $1,130,000,000 military aid program this year.

The statement came in the form of a "peace paper." It was released at 8 a.m. Eastern Standard Time today, an hour favorable for "Voice of America" foreign broadcasts. As a foreign policy declaration the paper has great interest abroad.

Other papers in the state department series "building the peace" have dealt with the Atlantic treaty, European recovery and similar major developments in U. S. foreign policy.

Today's pronouncement outlined the six-point military aid plan for western European and non-Communist nations. It also gave a preview of the reasons to be advanced to congress for the plan's adoption.

EISLER IS TAKEN OFF POLISH SHIP

British Police Arrest Escaped Communist On U. S. Extradition Warrant

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 14.—(AP)—Gerhart Eisler, fugitive Communist from the United States, was arrested and carried off the Polish ship Batory tonight by four beefy British policemen.

The squat, spectacled Communist who jumped $23,500 bail in the United States, where two prison sentences are hanging over him, was carried into the tiny cabin of the tender Romsey.

After a swift run from the Batory's anchorage to the Southampton docks, he was taken ashore without undue protest. Hatless and wearing a brown jacket, he was led down the gangplank by Inspector W. E. Bray of Scotland yard in an apparently resigned frame of mind.

He was hustled into a black limousine and sped away.

Earlier during a conference in the Batory captain's cabin prior to Eisler's arrest, a representative of the Polish embassy in London protested strongly.

A Pole identifying himself as J. Panski of the embassy staff said he would report the incident to his chief.

"We are going to London to report all that has happened to the ambassador, Mr. Jerzy Michalowski," said. "Mr. Eisler has made a long and strong statement, which we must submit to the ambassador."

Newspaper reporters and photographers were able to view the arrival of the tender with Eisler, although the small vessel had changed docks in an apparent last minute effort to give them the slip.

Those who witnessed the transfer of Eisler from the Batory to the tender said four police picked him up—one at each arm and one at each leg—and carried him down three flights of stairs through the main lounge and down the gangway to the tender.

After that Eisler was described as having sat calmly in the small captain's cabin on the tender smoking a cigaret.

He was not handcuffed when brought off the tender, but Inspector Bray walked sideways holding both Eisler's wrists. Other policemen surrounded the Communist.

A U. S. embassy spokesman in London said the fugitive would be held in Southhampton overnight and then taken to the Bow Street jail and magistrate's court in London tomorrow to face extradition proceedings to the United States.

Southampton police reported a slightly different schedule. They said Eisler would spend the week-end in jail at the Southampton civic center and then appear in Southampton

DOLLAR DAY IS SET FOR MONDAY

Retail Merchants Division Will Offer Bargains In All Stores

"Dollar Day" Monday will be observed in the Twin Cities. This is announced by Chairman Herbert Fink, of the retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce.

He states that there will be bargains such as never seen before as merchant after merchant has overstocked his store and now wishes to clean out surplus stock and replace with goods suited to the summer season.

"I anticipate that our merchants will have bigger crowds in their stores on Monday, with good weather conditions existing, than has been the case for a long time, stated" Mr. Fink.

All merchants are agreed that this time they will surprise the buying public with the great variety of articles that a single dollar will purchase.

Many who live in adjacent parishes are expected to visit Monroe and West Monroe stores Monday in quest of bargains.

This will be next to the last dollar day that will be observed this year and the last one is months distant so that Monday will be the time to replenish many household supplies that will be needed in late spring and early summer, Mr. Fink advises.

Two Byrd High Seniors Win Ewing L. S. U. Scholarships

SHREVEPORT, La., May 14.—(Special)—Two Byrd High School seniors, who say they would have had to choose small colleges, have won the 1949 annual Robert Ewing L. S. U. scholarships offered by The Times which provide full four-year college education free at the state university.

The winners are Arnold Lincove, 16, son of Mrs. Manuel Lincove, 445 Prospect street, first place winner in the annual scholarship essay contest; and Lenora Armstrong, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Armstrong, 334 Gladstone boulevard, second place winner.

Arnold Lincove, as first-place winner, will receive a $2,000 cash grant from The Times for a full four-year education at the university, with the money payable at $500 a year.

Miss Armstrong's winning essay means she receives the cash grant of $1,400 payable at $350 a year for four years at L. S. U.

The university waives all general fees for scholarship winners, enhancing the value of The Times essay contest scholarships, most valuable offered for the state university since they were established in 1944.

This year's awards are the eleventh and twelfth. Both are seniors and will enter L. S. U. next fall. All previous winners still are at the university, Emogene Pliner, second-place winner in 1944 having returned this year on an assistantship in the government department to do post-graduate work. William Veal, first-place winner that year, will be graduated this spring, as will Gerald Rigby, first-place winner in 1945, and Patsy Sue Bentley, second place winner in 1945.

As a group, the scholarship committee of the university reports, The Times Robert Ewing essay scholarship winners continue to main grade averages of "B," the grades of several being above "B" averages.

The subject for this year's essay contest was:

"Alexander Hamilton: His Influence In Our Country."

Besides the scholarships, $400 in cash prizes were offered as special awards in small high schools for the best essays entered. Duplicate prizes for boys and girls in each classification will be awarded in this group, prizes for which rangs from $10 to $25 for first, second and third prizes in different categories.

The cash award categories are divided by student population and are as follows: Schools with 50 to 100 students, schools with 100 to 200 students and schools with 200 to 400 students.

Both young Lincove and Miss Armstrong have been outstanding in debate and extemporaneous speaking at Byrd High School, taking honors in out-of-city and invitational speech tournaments in other states. Both have grade averages for four years of high school which are near "A" scholastically than "B."

EXPLOSIONS ON TRUCK BLOCK HOLLAND TUNNEL

This was the scene in the Holland Tunnel connecting New York and Jersey City after drums of chemicals on a truck (left) exploded and filled the tube with carbon disulphide fumes. Several trucks caught fire from the blast which ripped out sections of the walls and ceilings. Thirty persons were overcome by the fumes and traffic was halted. The blast occurred near Jersey side.—(AP Wirephoto).

WRECKAGE TAKEN FROM BIG TUNNEL

Engineers Say Underwater Artery Hit By Explosion Basically Undamaged

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Steel-helmeted crews removed tons of rubble from the blast-seared Holland Tunnel today in efforts to reopen the two-mile long tunnel for its daily load of 46,000 cars and trucks.

The underwater artery, linking New York and New Jersey, was reported basically undamaged by the fire and blasts that ripped through it yesterday, shearing away 200 feet of its inner ceiling.

Normal vehicular traffic may be resumed tomorrow, Austin J. Tobin, executive director of the New York port authority, said after a trip through the New York-bound tube today that it would be returned to service tomorrow morning, or Monday, at the latest.

The New Jersey-bound tube, now handling two-way traffic, resumed operations yesterday afternoon, five hours after a big truck, loaded with a cargo of carbon disulphide, blew up in the east-bound shaft of the tunnel.

Sixty-six persons, mostly firemen and tunnel workers, were treated for injuries. Many of them were overcome by fumes that spewed from the blazing chemicals through both tubes of the tunnel.

Sprayed with the flaming chemical, other trucks caught fire and the accident area became a raging inferno of flames and poisonous gas. So intense was the heat, many of the trucks were fused together into an almost solid mass of molten wreckage.

The last of the trucks fired by the explosion was towed from the tunnel shortly before last midnight. Then workmen began the monumental task of clearing up the welter of concrete, tile and metal lath blown from the tunnel's inner skin by the series of explosions.

From time to time, sparks from the scraping blades of bulldozers set off pockets of volatile gases still in the tunnel. The flames were extinguished quickly and no new damage was reported.

The port authority estimated damage to the tunnel would range from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

The searing heat, estimated to have generated a 4,000-degree temperature, melted some 1,000 feet of telephone and telegraph cable in the tunnel. Communications officials called it the worst disruption in the history of long-lines circuits.

Partial service was restored but telephone company officials were uncertain when normal operations would be resumed.

Tobin said that when the east-bound tube is reopened tomorrow or Monday

Union Asks Federal Aid In Ford Strike

Intervention Is Sought After Peace Parley Fails; Cyrus Ching Urged To Have Representative At Negotiations On 10-Day Walkout

DETROIT, May 14.—(AP)—The federal government was asked by union officials to intervene in the 10-day Ford strike after another peace parley failed today.

The C. I. O. United Auto Workers asked Cyrus S. Ching, director of the federal mediation and conciliation service, to step into the production speedup dispute.

U. A. W. President Walter Reuther in a telegram to Ching said the dispute was "no nearer settlement than on the day the strike began."

"Your federal conciliation service can make a valuable contribution to this dispute by having a representative sit in on these negotiations so that he will be in a position to report the facts in the dispute to the government and the public, and make it clear which party is responsible for failure to make progress toward the settlement."

There was no immediate comment from Ford on the union request.

Virtually all the company's 106,000 production workers have been idled by the walkout of 65,000 at two plants May 5.

The negotiations were recessed until Monday, (10 a. m. E. S. T.).

Reuther said the company and union agreed to meet Sunday if desired by either side.

Reuther said the company had rejected two proposals both of which he said "represent a common-sense practical approach" for settling such disputes.

One U. A. W. proposal asked the company to maintain constant assembly line speed, "adequate and properly distributed manpower," and would not require workers to make up for production lost through "no fault of their own."

Company negotiators turned down the U. A. W. peace bid and presented a counter-proposal.

"We have given careful consideration to the union's proposal," said Ford Vice-President John S. Bugas, "and find we cannot accept it."

Then, presenting a company offer to the C. I. O.-United Auto Workers, Bugas said:

"Should this fail, we are prepared to continue negotiations until we reach a solution to this dispute."

Terms of Ford's offer were not made known.

Union negotiators said their pro-

Friday 13th. and a fisherman's luck! Ask Monsignor Marsh and his priest companion!

After Mass and with plans well made for a big day's catch the priest said to monsignor, "Friday 13th." "Unlucky for the fish—lucky for us." With high enthusiasm the two sallied forth to Wall's Lake well equipped with Fluger supreme reels and rods; tackle box; boat cushions, and thermos bottles. All went well until Monsignor Marsh asked, "Is there any water coming in"? "Why no," answered his companion, "none whatsoever."

No sooner said than both priests were swimming for dear life!!!!

(Who was it who said something about "little leaks"????)

Principles of honesty apparently rank high with James Thatcher, a student of Crosley Grammar School in West Monroe. Police Chief Jeff Caldwell, of West Monroe, will vouch for that statement.

Last week James found an expensive man's wrist watch near his school. Later he marched up to the West Monroe police station and asked if anyone had reported a watch lost.

After Crief Caldwell informed him no such report had been made at the station, the youth left the watch in care of the police department and asked that the owner be found if possible.

At the present time the watch is being held at police headquarters in West Monroe. Chief Caldwell stated that the watch would be given to the owner upon identification. He also recommended a reward for the finder.

Water Works Finances . . .

Your Municipal Improvements

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of articles which will give a condensation of the engineers' report which recommends extensive additions and improvements to the water and electrical system).

The improvements made in 1923 were financed by a bond issue accompanied by a levy of ad velorum taxes and are therefore general obligation bonds of the city. New bonds to be issued for water works improvements will be revenue bonds, requiring no taxation to meet interest and bond retirement.

However, revenue from the sale of water is at present inadequate to meet interest and retirement of the new bonds to be issued. Except to the extent that meter slippage and wastage are eliminated, the financing of the water works improvement program will be dependent upon net income from the electrical utility. This is an unsatisfactory condition as each utility owned by the city should be self-supporting.

From 1940 to 1946 net revenue of water works averaged a little over $30,000 per year. The impact of increased cost of supplies, meters and wages in '47 reduced net income practically to the vanishing point. Revenue from increased usage in '47 and '48 has barely met the increased operating expenses incurred in those two years. Moreover, no depreciation or replacement fund has ever been set up for the water works. Repairs have been kept to a minimum because their cost would of necessity come from the general fund of the city.

The water works, therefore, has had to compete with all other departments of the city for funds which it actually needed for its proper maintenance. The net result has been the accrual of major deficiencies in the system.

A later article tells how a reserve fund will be set up for both water and electric utilities, intended to provide funds for replacement of worn-out or obsolete equipment.

REDS PENETRATE SHANGHAI LINES

By Fred Hampson

SHANGHAI, May 14.—(AP)—The Chinese Communists, fighting toward Shanghai in confused and fluid attacks, appeared tonight to have penetrated the main defense ring, less than ten miles from the city at some places. (This dispatch did not mention locations).

The Nationalist garrison reported all penetrations were "beaten back" but acknowledged withdrawal from Kunshan, Taichang and Kiating, which, for th past week, had been the defense's advanced outposts northwest of Shanghai.

(The nearest, Kiating, is 14 miles northwest of Shanghai. The Communist radio said Red troops had captured all those points and also Lotien, only 13 miles from Shanghai and 10 miles west of Woosung.

(Woosung is the fortified mouth of the Whangpoo river, Shanghai's only outlet to the sea, via the Yangtze estuary.)

Woosung, one of the world's most vulnerable ship passageways, resounded to the roar of the nearby fighting.

The latest Nationalist communique said Red units had been beaten back around the villages of Shihtselin, Yuchpu and Yangchang, ten to 15 miles from Woosung. (None of these places shows on available maps of the Shanghai area.)

It was obvious that the Reds were aiming at the vital maritime gateway and that it was in great peril.

This drive towards Woosung seemed to betoken Red intentions to take Shanghai. They could maintain a siege and let the American economic cooperation administration feed this city of more than 5,000,000—But not if they block the Whangpoo. On the other hand, by blocking the river, they can halt Nationalist military evacuations.

There would not seem to be much point in taking Woosung unless the Reds intended to take Shanghai immediately.

All last night the big guns growled

Missouri Union Objects To Use Of Non-Union Worker On Truman's Home

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., May 14.—(AP)—An American Federation of Labor's Painters union protested to President Truman against the hiring of a non-union man to paint the summer White House here.

Jalk Cooke, business representative of the Painters District Council No. 3, AFL, said today a registered letter had been mailed the president making the protest.

"After all, Truman championed himself as the man of the hour in labor and you can't serve but one master—if you serve him right," he said.

The object of the union's ire, John H. Moler, 67, of Independence, said he could not understand "why the union is so upset."

"I've been painting in Independence for 20 years and I've painted for the Trumans before," he said. "Summer before last when I painted woodwork inside the house I said, 'Mrs. Truman, I'm not a union man.'

"She said, 'That makes no differ-

WEST MONROE MAN HELD IN SHOOTING

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 14.—(AP)—A 10-month-old baby was shot fatally while in his mother's arms today. Police are holding the father for questioning.

The father, Cpl. Charlie Dean Allen, 25, a military policeman at Las Vegas air base, was taken into custody after the child, Carolyn Deiores was shot at the Allens' cabin here, police said.

A coroner's inquest was scheduled for Monday.

Allen is the son of Mrs. E. R. Ruston, and the stepson of E. R. Ruston, both of West Monroe.

Neither said they had been notified of the incident.

Allen's stepfather said the young man was born near Lemon, Miss., and had been a resident of West Monroe since 1933. He had been in the army for the past eight months.

While living here, Allen was employed by local bakeries, a freight company and railroad.

Cottingham Ousted As Tech President

Ropp, Northwestern Department Head, Named Temporary Executive At Ruston College; McGinty, Heard's Relative, Goes To Northwestern

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14.—(AP)—The Louisiana board of education today ousted a college president and adopted a formula for distribution of a special $8,000,000 teacher pay fund.

The board failed to re-appoint Dr. Claybrook Cottingham, president of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston since 1941. His term expires June 30.

The vote, in executive session, was six to four to replace Dr. Cottingham temporarily with R. L. Ropp, professor of English and speech at Northwestern state college, Natchitoches. Board minutes showed only the total vote and did not include names. One member, Parrish Fuller of Oakdale, was absent.

Dr. Cottingham declined to comment.

A $167,500 allotment to Orleans parish was included in the distribution formula. Omission of the parish from a similar plan proposed earlier led to litigation, still pending, which tied up the $8,000,000 fund. It was appropriated by the 1948 legislature to cover any increases in a new teacher wage scale.

The Orleans school board filed suit against the state board of education and won an injunction prohibiting distribution except as provided in the state constitution. The constitutional formula would have given Orleans about $1,000,000 as its share.

A favorable district court ruling was reversed this week by the state supreme court, which held the fund was outside the formula fixed in the constitution. A possibility still exists, however, for further action by the high court.

In adopting the formula, the board instructed State Superintendent of Education S. M. Jackson to withhold actual distribution of the money until the supreme court suit "is finally decided."

The plan was offered by Raymond B. Heard, of Ruston, chairman of the board's finance committee. He said it was amended in committee to include Orleans because, for the past three years, the parish had "been forced to draw on other funds" to pay Negro teachers' salaries. He said these were "materially higher than in other parishes."

Heard emphasized that the formula would govern only funds for the current year. An additional $11,300,000 was earmarked by the 1948 legislature for teachers' salaries during 1949-40.

Besides Orleans' $167,500 share, the formula provides for original distribution of $7,588,634 to the 63 other parishes and three cities—Lake Charles, Monroe and Bogalusa—which have separate school boards.

Orleans' allotment would come from a $411,283 surplus designed to be spread among the parishes as adjustments on a percentage basis. The remaining $243,783 surplus is scheduled to be re-assigned here some time next week.

Allocations to parishes range from as high as $471,017 in Caddo to as low as $21,058 in St. Bernard.

In a six to four vote also, the board named Dr. G. W. McGinty acting president of Northwestern State College at Natchitoches. Dr. McGinty, head of the department of social sciences at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, succeeds Dr. Joe Gibson, who recently resigned.

Board Chairman George T. Madison, of Bastrop, said selection of permanent presidents at the Natchitoches and Ruston schools will be made by

SECOND RED GETS GRANT FOR STUDY

Atomic Scholarship From Federal Funds Given To Communists, Solon Says

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) charged today that another Communist has received a scholarship of the atomic energy commission—and that the commission let him have it after its own investigation showed what he was.

The Iowa senator told a reporter that it was a $3,600-a-year science scholarship and that he has protested to the commission. But he said that so far as he and other members of the senate-house atomic committee can learn the award has not been cancelled.

It is the second case cited by a member of congress of a commission scholarship going to a student described as a Communist.

On Thursday, Hans Freistadt, a physics student at the University of North Carolina who got a commission scholarship, acknowledged he was a Communist after this was disclosed to the house by Representative Cole (R-N. Y.). School officials said Freistadt's study will be relativity and that it is of non-secret nature.

Cole said that the commission had an F. B. I. report on Freistadt and the scholarship was granted him "in the face of the fact." Hickenlooper said, however, that his reference today was to another student.

Hickenlooper declined to identify

Seventy-five cars of every description were offered free to Forrest Partridge, 27, the baby's father.

Patridge explained that little Becky recently underwent an operation for a malignant kidney tumor and receives daily X-ray treatment in an effort to save her life.

He said he advertised for the car because it took his wife, Audrey, two hours each day to go to the hospital on a bus.

NATCHITOCHES, May 14.—(Special)—Six Ouachita parish students are candidates for graduation at the spring commencement exercises of Northwestern State College on May 23, according to an announcement this week by Mrs. Estelle Roberts, registrar.

The Ouachita parish students are: Jeanne Harley, West Monroe; Malcolm E. Thomas, Robert Gryder, Dorothy Kinnison, Milton Kizer and Oneita Price Tillman, all of Monroe.

Reverend Thomas J. Shields, president of Loyola University of the South, New Orleans, will deliver the commencement address. Reverend Shields has been president of Loyola University and director of radio station WWL, which is operated by the university, since 1945.

Reverend A. M. Serex, minister of the First Methodist Church of Monroe, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon Sunday, May 22, the day preceeding commencement. Reverend Serex studied in Geneva, Switzerland, and Brussels, Belgium, prior to receiving his theological degree at Emory University. He received a master's degree from Tulane University and a doctor of philsophy degree from the University of Brussels, Belgium. Reverend Serex has been in the Louisiana conference for 25 years. While superintendent of the Shreveport district he taught philosophy at Southern Methodist University.

President Joseph E. Gibson of Northwestern State College will be presenting degrees to his last class at the college. He has resigned from the presidency of the college to accept a position as director of promotional activities at Tulane University in New Orleans.

CHARGES LODGED IN WATSON'S CASE

FERRIDAY, La., May 14.—(Special)—John Watson, of Vidalia, a Negro, is in the parish prison at Vidalia on a charge of attempted murder and for breaking and entering.

He was arrested in Tallulah and returned to Vidalia. The arrest in Tallulah was made by Chief of Police M. R. Massey.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Jimmie Harp said he was charged with the attempted murder of a white veteran's school instructor several months ago. He left the parish after the incident, and returned recently when he broke into the house of a Negro man in Vidalia and threatened to kill him.

The United States has almost doubled its pre-war output of peanuts. Production in India and China, the other two biggest producers, was greater last year than before the war.

CAMP KI-RO-LI ATTRACTS BOYS

Plans Underway To Make This Scouters Headquarters More Complete

All over America, Boy Scouts are packing their packs and hitting the trail for camp, as their thoughts turn from school activities to the great outdoors. In the Ouachita Valley Council, this means Camp Ri-Lo-Li, the council's summer camp, located five miles west of Monroe.

For many years, Camp Ki-Ro-Li has been the high point of adventure for thousands of scouts from troops of the fifteen-parish northeast Louisiana council. Ki-Ro-Li was first opened in 1925 and has continued to be developed into one of the finest camps of this region, as its program has been enriched throughout the years. Many prominent business and professional men in this area have attended Camp Ki-Ro-Li in years past and have participated in the outstanding scouting program that it has offered.

Plans are now underway to make this year's camp the most outstanding ever held. Members of the camping activities committee, led by D. C. Harper, of West Monroe, are busy making necessary preparations for camp by repairing all of the camp facilities and recruiting an experienced staff to operate the camp for the summer season.

The camp program at Ki-Ro-Li this summer will be directed by a staff of expert campers and administrators. Camp director will be Gerald B. Harrigill, field scout executive, who served in this capacity last year. Raymon Owens, also field scout executive for the council, will be activities director for the camp and in charge of all program activities. These men will be assisted by Hal Bynum, veteran waterfront director, and Leon Pratt, Louisiana Tech student, who will be in charge of all field sports. All of these men have either attended the national Boy Scout camp school, or will participate in this camp school the latter part of this month. The training which they have had makes them well qualified for their positions on the camp staff, and will enable them to present the finest available program for the scouts of the council when they attend Camp Ki-Ro-Li.

Ki-Ro-Li opens June 12 this year and troop reservations are already being submitted to the council office. The camp will operate for four one-week periods and scouts will camp with their troops. Members of the junior staff, made up of outstanding older scouts in the council, are now being recruited to assist troops in their camp program.

An excellent program of activities will be provided for all troops attending the camp. Some of these activities include woodcraft, axemanship, nature, mapping, first aid, swimming, swimming, life saving, pioneering, handicraft, tracking, stalking, marksmanship, archery. campcraft, outdoor cooking, campfires, compass, camp games, knots and splicing, star study and orientation.

John Zufall, representative of the National Rifle Association, has pledged his assistance in providing a fine marksmanship course at the camp this summer, and L. A. Rowland, District Five forester, has stated his entire staff will be on hand during the camp season to assist in all projects of nature and conservation.

Troops who are planning to come to Camp Ki-Ro-Li should make application immediately for the week that they want to come, if they have not already done so, as no applications will be taken after a week is full.

Girl Who Took Atomic Cocktails Dies

LONDON, May 14.—(AP)—Pretty Iris Davis died today of a brain cancer that science tried—and failed—to cure with a peaceful product of Tennessee's atom bomb factory.

Beside her bed when she died sat her father, Jack Davis, a New York newsreel theater operator.

He and his wife had taken turns for half a year, sitting there and watching death come slowly to their 24-year-old only daughter, an economics graduate of Barnard College, New York.

For months Davis has sought and got the help of newspapermen in a search for some doctor or some miracle medicine to halt the tumor.

He called newsmen in London at breakfast time today to tell them the search was over.

"Iris died this morning," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis both were prostrated.

Iris became ill last June with headaches and epileptic seizures.

Davis advertised in three nations—Britain, France and the United States—appealing for medical help.

He got more than 200 answers.

One man in New York offered his own brain, if it would help. It wouldn't. There was no way to transplant it.

Doctors said radioactive phosphate might prolong life.

Davis appealed to the U. S. Atomic Energy commission and the atomic chemical was sped from Oak Ridge, Tenn., to London by plane.

Iris lived under these radioactive chemical treatments for five more months, but failed to rally.

Hot kidney bean salad is delicious served with frankfurters. Add carrot sticks and celery wedges to the menu for good flavor and texture contrast.

MUSIC FACULTY RECITAL SLATED

Instructors At Northeast Junior College Invite Public Thursday Night

The music faculty of Northeast Junior College will be heard in joint recital Thursday, May 19, at 8:15 p. m. in Brown Hall auditorium on the campus. The public is invited to attend.

This will be the second annual recital to be presented by instructors of the music department. Although the members of this department are specifically engaged in music education, they also are considered highly skilled performers. The faculty recital series was inaugurated last year in order to afford students and friends an opportunity to hear them in the role of performing artists.

Miss Gertrude Sandrock, assistant professor of voice, will sing a group of songs including "I Will Extol Thee, O Lord" from the oratorio "Eli" by Michael Costa; "Praise of Tears" by Franz Schubert; "The Swan" by Edward Grieg, and "Life" by Pearl Curran.

Francis H. Burke, instructor in brasses, and Mrs. Florence Ziegler Allbritton, assistant professor of piano, will perform two movements of the "Sonata for Violin and Piano" by Cesar Franck.

Mrs. Eloise Calhoun Stanhope, assistant professor of piano, will present a group of piano compositions. Mrs. Stanhope will be heard in the "Prelude" opus 28, No. 1 and the "Etude" opus 10, No. 3 by Frederic Chopin; the "Rhapsody" opus 119, No. 4 by Johannes Brahams, and "Jeux D'Eau' by Maurice Ravel.

The fourth group on the recital program will feature a new composition by the contemporary Russian composer Aram Khachaturian-the "Trio for Clarinet, Violin and Piano" completed in 1948. Harry M. Lemert, head of the music department and clarinetist, James F. Monroe, assistant professor of piano, and Mr. Burke, violinist, will perform the first and third movements of the new "Trio."

Maine is known as the "pine tree state."

Threats Get Him Nowhere

Mr. Truman is the first president since Warren G. Harding to graduate to the White House from congress. And no president since Harding has been more familiar with the operations and traditions of that legislative body. Yet it sometimes seems that this familiarity breeds, if not contempt, at least a disregard for the pride and sensitivity of the lawmakers.

This congress, or any congress, is highly conscious of its prestige and dignity. Its members have their differences. But, like many quarrelsome families, they will unite to defend themselves against any attack from the outside.

Yet Mr. Truman seems to take periodic delight in rubbing his former colleagues the wrong way. He has cast aspersions at the Republican 80th congress and the Democratic 81st. He has stuck pins into the thin skins of individual members. He has demanded that congress think and act as he bids, on pain of loss of patronage.

And now, unless the national commander of the American Veterans Committee has deliberately misquoted him—which seems most unlikely—Mr. Truman has obliquely invited Virginians to oust their senior senator with the remark that there are too many Byrds in congress.

This is surprising for two reasons. One is that Mr. Truman surely knows the hazards of trying to purge a rebellious congress of its disobedient members. Mr. Roosevelt tried it at the height of his extravagant popularity, and failed. Purge attempts are not only considered an affront by the targets and many of their associates. They also are usually resented by the voters who send the potential purgees to congress.

The second reason is that Mr. Truman has seen that more congressmen are captured with sugar than with vinegar. The president has tried toughness with this congress, and he has also tried a little cajolery. The soft approach has produced more harmony and more accomplishment.

Somehow Mr. Truman just doesn't seem to be the tough type. He is apparently a down-to-earth, agreeable man whom his former colleagues on Capitol Hill instinctively want to like. He would probably come much closer to achieving his goals by cashing in on this asset than by being the cold and disapproving taskmaster.

President Truman accomplished the seemingly impossible last fall by winning the voters who seemed so surely committed to another candidate. He did it partly by excoriating the last congress and promising better things from the next one.

Now, to fulfill his promise, he must win the present congress to his way of thinking. However much he may disagree with individual members, he is certainly aware that the congress, as an institution, is the dignified equal of his own office. That is why his frequent fits of scolding seem so oddly unrealistic and out of character.

Rain Today; Dry Tomorrow

In any discussion of Louisiana weather the remark is likely to be made that Louisiana has plenty of moisture, mostly at the wrong time. Certainly, that has been true in a good many sections this spring. Frequent heavy rains over a long period have delayed seriously the planting of several important crops. And the growers who are getting their crops into the ground so lately are greatly worried lest they be hit by a drouth in late summer and early fall. Drouths are far from unknown in Louisiana, in spite of heavy annual rainfall. Here in North Louisiana, drouth is one of the worst enemies of the corn grower. Many other crops in various parts of the state are affected from time to time.

These conditions suggest that many Louisiana farmers might find it profitable to irrigate. Anyone who thinks that irrigation never is needed anywhere but in the semi-arid portions of the west is mistaken. The experience of a number of corn and truck crop growers right here in Louisiana has proven that irrigation can pay big dividends.

Of course, not every farmer needs to irrigate. Not all can irrigate. And irrigation is not needed for every crop. But those who are growing crops that need a good bit of water during the dry season might do well to look into the possibility of irrigation, especially if their farms are located so they can pump water at no excessive cost from some nearby lake or stream.

Even a simple irrigation system may not pay for itself the first year, or the second year, but on the third or fourth year when drouth comes it will pay off in a big way and will do the same thing every dry year thereafter.

Stifling Genius

Long ago Robert Burns wrote the famous lines:

A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
And faith he'll prent it.

For taking notes, a waiter in a restaurant near Rockefeller Center in New York City was dismissed. He had worked there for three years at night. During the day he studied for a Ph. D. at Columbia. The patrons of the restaurant are, in large degree, persons active in radio, television and the theater.

About a month ago the waiter decided to write a book called "The Trials and Tribulations of a Waiter." As soon as the owner heard about it, the waiter lost his job. His union came to his defense, and now an arbitrator of New York state's mediation board rules that he must be reinstated.

Said the owner of the restaurant:

"The waiter is behaving himself; he is courteous; he doesn't steal; he doesn't drink—but I want a waiter instead of a writer."

Said the mediator:

"Are we to deny him the necessary employment because his literary work might reflect his everyday experiences and the impression he receives from his surroundings and those with whom he cames in contact? To deny a would-be author employment for this reason might well stifle literary and creative genius."

Were this not true, Shakespeare might have been dismissed from the theater, Swift from the church, Whitman as a hospital aide and several thousand soldiers and sailors from the armed forces in World War II.

DOWN SOUTH

SOCIALISM WON'T WORK

LONDON, England—A scotsman said to me the other day, "I don't have any objection to the government trying new ways of doing things, but when they find the new ways won't work, then why can't they be honest enough to admit it and go back to the ways that will work."

The fact is, of course, that the so-called "welfare state" never admits it is wrong—it cannot afford to. Moreover, there is no way of making it admit it is wrong except by uprising of the people. The stockholders in a private industry, for instance, will very quickly call the management of their company on the carpet if losses occur but under nationalized industry the management has neither incentive to prosper nor responsibility for loss. The stockholders are the people and the management, in effect, are the people—so everybody's business is nobody's business. If losses occur, just pass them on the taxpayers; so long as the taxpayers hold out, there is no limit to which the losses must be held.

We could very easily agree with the socialist government of Great Britain in its stated aims to improve the standard of living of the people of Great Britain—but there is nothing in history or in present experience to make one believe socialism will bring this about. It is therefore difficult to understand why the British butt their socialistic heads against the stern facts of reality when the only possible result is a kick in the face. The people of the United States of America have attained the highest standard of living any people have ever known, and they have done so under private enterprise. The past accomplishments of the people of Great Britain have been made under the same system. In fact, the industries being "taken over" by the Socialist government were created by private enterprise; the Socialists have created nothing and propose to create nothing—they only say they will manage what private enterprise has created in the better interests of the people.

What too many of us in this world overlook is the fact that all governments, no matter what kind they are, are run by individuals. The people must protect themselves by law from usurpation of power by these individuals. It is entirely possible that the best sort of government is a dictatorship—provided the dictator were a very able man with nothing but the best interests of the people at heart. But we know we cannot count on this. The only alternate is a government by law and not by men, a government that regulates but does not operate, a government that sets up the rules of the game but does not attempt to play the game itself. In this manner is obtained a government based on the combined intelligence of all the people, and not depending upon the whims and fancies and decisions of a few men. We thus arrive at a constitutional republic, as in the United States of America, and may God rest the man who would attempt to tear it down!

For men to make progress in this world, they must have both hope and fear, they must have both incentive and penalty. All history tells us these emotions are fundamental, that it is useless to try to escape them. Since socialism provides neither incentive nor penalty, therefore, it cannot hope to succeed. All it does is to bumble ahead in a most inefficient manner and drag down the standard of living for all. It penalizes superior ability and subsidizes laziness.

Under the Socialist government of Great Britain, it has been the stated purpose to redistribute the wealth of the rich for the benefit of the poor. The wealth has been redistributed all right. Great estates are being taken over by the government to satisfy tax claims. Before the war there were 11,000 individuals earning more than $25,000 net annual income; now there are less than 250 such persons, and this number is rapidly dwindling. The cost of living continues to increase. Labor says it must have more wages. Taxes continue dangerously high. Government ownership and operation of industries have resulted in nothing but deficits. The diet of the people is poorer than during the war. Lack of goods in the shops and high taxation cause a large percentage of absenteeism in industry. The social benefits that have been provided are of doubtful value; they would not have been possible except for outside aid, and are therefore also of doubtful stability. These facts speak for themselves. The sooner the people of Great Britain realize that socialism just won't work, the better it will be for them and the whole world.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

AMERICAN PRIMER

For 25 cents you can get a remarkable pamphlet entitled "American Primer," published by the national industrial conference board, 247 Park Avenue, New York 17, New York.

If, back in the 1920's, education in this country had not been diverted from character building to functional training, we should not in the 1930's and 1940's have had so many persons in important centers of government and in the organizations and institutions of the people who failed to understand the United States. We should also not have lost the war at the conference table. We should not be faced by so many spies, saboteurs and traitors and we should not be forced to suspect everyone in government to the extent that a loyalty test becomes a matter of national necessity. It all goes back to taking American history and civics out of the schools as separate, compulsory courses.

Therefore, this pamphlet by Mrs. Agnes Morley Cleaveland is important and valuable. In catechism style, she deals not only with the organization of the American government but with its basic philosophy. She makes it possible for the reader to understand what America is about and why it is different from other countries.

Here are two examples of her objective treatment of two major subjects which trouble many people and which are generally not understood:

"Question: Along what lines must a nation show progress in order to justify itself?

"Answer: Political, social, economic, and spiritual.

"Question: How has America justified herself politically?

"Answer: America is the world's model for a successful United Nations. Forty-eight political units, held together by a common ideal of human rights, and cemented by the mutual acceptance of the constitution, have demonstrated that it is possible for communities of different interests, different racial origins, and different training to live in harmony without artificial barriers, either military or economc, being raised against one another.

"Question: How has America justified herself on the economic side?

"Answer: Yes. We have the highest average standard of living of any nation on earth and the widest diffusion of national wealth. Although we comprise but seven per cent of the world's population, we do about one half of the world's business. Our national income is allocated approximately as follows: Over two-thirds to salaries and wages and the rest to business, large and small. So-called "Big Business" clears less than 4 per cent net profit from 10 per cent of the national income. If profits from all large and

FEDERAL EDUCATION AID

A small majority of editors favors the $300,000,000 a year federal aid to education bill passed by the senate. But a very large minority fears that such a program would lead to increasing federal control over education. Many in the latter group argue that revisions in local and federal tax systems would make such aid unnecessary. Some specifically disapprove of collecting from and returning to even the wealthiest states a minimum of $5 a year per schoolage child.

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "The senate measure has maintained careful safeguards against federal control. The money goes to the states to be administered by them. . . . To qualify for federal grants, they must spend a minimum $55 a pupil and allot a minimum percentage of their income to schools. In the poorer states, where encouragement is most needed, the federal aid may be as much as $29 a child; no state will receive less than $5 a child."

Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram (Ind.-Dem.): "Even if congress initially took great pains to see that the aid program carried with it no element of federal control, there could be no guaranty that such a hands-off attitude would continue. . . . Once federal aid had become a part of the financial structure of the schools, the dependence of school districts upon funds from this source would make it difficult for them to refuse to bow to the requirements set up by federal administrators of the program."

Jacksonville (Fla.) Florida Times-Union (Ind.-Dem.): "Despite the fears that have been expressed by the oppositionist forces, the bill . . . appears headed for success in the eighthy-first congress. Whether its benefits will out-weigh its dangers can be judged only after it has been more clearly demonstrated if subsidized education will constitute a stepping stone which will lead to a long series of measures which ultimately will give government control over some of the most elementary functions of human life."

Portland (Ore.) Oregon Journal (Ind.): "The . . . bill will do much to iron out the inequities in our school systems. Its major aim is to give everyone, regardles of race, color or creed, an opportunity for a first-class elementary and secondary education. . . . In many areas such educational facilities have not been provided. . . . We can't afford to have educational slums."

Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer (Ind.-Dem.): "One of the strongest arguments against the bill . . . is the contention, backed up by impressive evidence, that the subsidy would have the effect of covering up and perpetuating indefensible discrepancies in the amount of local support for schools. . . . It has been strikingly brought out . . . that many areas which are crying for federal aid to education want it in order to escape the necessity of paying local school taxes on the basis of the reasonable economic value of the real properties in those areas."

Washington (D. C.) Post (Ind.): "The wealth of the nation and consequently the bulk of its taxable resources are concentrated in certain states. The residents of those states are consequently better provided for by their local governments than are their neighbors in poorer states. Only the federal government is in a position to reduce these inequities in services and benefits by using some of the tax funds collected from the richer states to supplement the inadequate resources of the poorer states."

Boston (Mass.) Herald (Ind.): "It should be understood that any state that has to have federal assistance for schools is actually a pauper state. . . . Is there any such pauper state? We doubt it, unless steep federal taxes have made it so. No, the real purpose of the education bill is to divert a larger proportion of the total tax take in every state into education. It is meant to make the local cost of schools look less than it really is. It is a kind of befuddling of the people for moral ends."

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.): "Some two-thirds of the full authorization would go to the states in proportion to their needs and their efforts, but every state would receive no less than $5 for each child of school age. If need and effort alone were made the basis for the grants, a considerable saving could be made, and the wealthier states which received no direct grants would benefit from the decreased costs of the federal program."

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson's plan to increase postal rates on second, third and fourth class mail seems to be doomed.

Whether the 81st congress reports out a substitute measure with less drastic increases is still in doubt, but there is little prospect of any postal action this year.

The house post office and civil service committee has scheduled hearings through May 20th, and the pre-adjournment log-jam is expected to postpone action on any bill until next year.

The senate post office and civil service committee has held and concluded rather desolutory hearings, but this time the burden of doing anything about postal rates is likely to be borne primarily by the hard-working house group.

The history of the legislation has been criss-crossed with subtle jockeying.

Donaldson, a postoffice career man, is credited with submitting his proposed increases because he got tired of hearing the postoffice department blamed for having a deficit.

The congress has a hot potato on its hands, and knows it. Users of second, third class and fourth class mail have brought heavy pressure on capitol hill to knock out the Donaldson schedule. And yet, for many years the halls of both houses have echoed to repeated attacks upon the postoffice department for going into the red.

If any legislation is enacted, it may be a face-saver for congress. Impressed by objections that increases will prove a hardship on newspapers, magazines, mailers of circulars, and mail order houses, congress will likely try to compute a schedule of rather mild increases, if it does anything at all.

One face saver which the 80th con-

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—Thinking out loud: A typewriter salon (or maybe it's a collection, after the manner of the ready-to-wear ladies' garment business in New York) has been showing a gold-plated standard size typewriter, which it is finishing in limited quantities for the de luxe trade. When a banquet is given in honor of somebody, it's chic to present him, by subscription among the employes or lodge members, with one of these gold-plated jobs. As for me, knowing typewriters as I do, I'll take an electric model, without the gold, please . . . and that reminds me that the gold piano that helped to lend the garish mood to the White House in the days from the elder Roosevelt onward (or downward, depending upon your politics), now rests in the Smithsonian Institution, and there may it find rest forever . . . I like to say a good word for that Missouri boy in the White House whenever I can, for fear that I might have to criticize him some time. Here's a credit mark for him and his nice family: There are no arty chamber concerts or artiste confections with long legs and long hair performing as pe-fawmahs in the White House or its un-white substitute these days. And Mr. and Mrs. Truman at least have the excuse that their daughter is a singer and Mr. can play the piano, with proper accompaniment on occasion. Well, H. T. makes mistakes like the rest of us, and we didn't inherit his background of Yalta, so I'm inclined to be patient . . . and I think the member of congress who suggests demolishing the White House altogether and rebuilding it, just as was, from basement up, has something practical, as well as cheaper and more durable.

One of the most powerful dog stories that has come my way is clipped from the Corpus Christi Caller by Mr. E. C. Turner, of Taft, Texas.

Butch, a terrier (a bit of a mutt, I suspect, belonging to seven-years-old Jon Bricker, saved his master and two other children from a rattlesnake by jumping in as the snake, coiled, was about to strike. He took the poisonous bite, which undoubtedly would have killed a child within a few hours, on his forehead. Greater love hath no man.

Butch, in the hands of a good veterinary surgeon, was cured. Perhaps the strong frontal bone stopped deep penetration of the fangs. The head swelled, Butch was fevered and very sick. But he recovered.

A big party, which included all the boys and girls and parents of the neighborhood, was given in honor of Butch's return home from hospital, and the neighbors all went to the hospital to thank the doctor for saving the brave dog. Butch wagged and yelped and kissed his young master worshipfully.

It was all in the day's work for Butch. A dog doesn't expect a plaque or a diploma in recognition of his doing his simple duty. He knows better than most people what the menace of a rattlesnake bite is. But his reaction is instantaneous.

Butch, I salute you. I wish you many happy days with your kid friends, and big beef bones and the love of all the people. You are a good doggie. Now, wag your tail.

BIBLE THOUGHTS

And he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit.—James 5:18.

A good man's prayers will from the deepest dungeon climb heaven's height, and bring a blessing down.—Joanna Baillie.

'Off The Record' Means Anything; Johnson Has Troubles

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(NEA)—Pentagon reporters say they have now identified five kinds of "off the record" remarks by Defense Secretary Louis Johnson. (1) "Completely off the record. You can't use anything. Okay boys?" (2) "Off the record, but you can use it if you don't attribute to any official source." (3) "Off the record, but you can say you got it from a high authority." (4)"Off the record, but you can say you learned it from me." (5) "Off the record!"

Press Relations Strained

Johnson is having plenty of trouble with his press relations in spite of his efforts to get to know every reporter by name and a series of luncheons with Washington bureau chiefs. On the stopping of construction of navy super-aircraft carrier, Johnson didn't say enough and could easily have made a statement. On appointment of Curtis Calder as secretary of the army, Johnson said too much. Calder next day denied he had accepted the job. One cause of trouble is that before Johnson's appointment there was heavy press editorial criticism against too much service rivalry and not enough unification. Now that Johnson has moved to end this bickering, reporters don't like it because officers are afraid to talk.

Rank Injustice?

WASHINGTON hostesses are all confused for lack of a ruling on who ranks whom in the armed forces. Before unification, an army officer had precedence over a naval officer of equal rank. After unification, it was assumed that army, navy and air force officers of same rank would have more or less equal status, with the social honors going to the one who had seniority. But protocol experts have refused to decide the isspe.

Both Barrels

American Medical Association apparently isn't doing as well as expected on getting $25 from every doctor to fight health insurance. It hoped to raise $4,000,000. First quarter collections were only a little over a million. In Washington, collections ran into a snag when invitations were sent to Negro doctors, who aren't admitted to District of Columbia Medical Society. One piece of A. M. A. literature now being left in doctors' offices misses no bets. It claims health insurance was invented by Bismarck, who was a German, was introduced into America by Communists, will lead to socialism.

Comes The Dawn

Why reclamation associations fight public power development has always been something of a mystery, since the power generated at dams pays the major cost of irrigation projects. Partial explanation is given by published financial statement of Washington State Reclamation Association. It shows receipts of $3,000 dues from its own members and $5,250 received from three big private power companies.

Little Black Book

Labor union lobbyists in Washington have been checking up on the votes against rent control and the votes against sending the Wood labor bill back to committee for redrafting. They find much similarity between the two votes. Against rent control were 61 Republicans and 52 Democrats. Against recommittal of the Wood bill were 146 Republicans and 71 Democrats. Names on both lists are being checked and will be watched on future important votes for compiling a list of congressmen against whom the unions will campaign in 1952.

Legion Turns 'Angel'

American Legion and Hollywood dance director LeRoy Prinz are now partners in show business. Prinz sold legion's national executive committee this bill of goods: Local legion posts are to sponsor talent contests. Prinz will travel around and be judge. From top winners, Prinz will assemble a musical show which will tour the country under legion sponsorship. Three hundred wealthy legionnaires were nicked for $1,000 each to finance the production. Prinz says show should net the legion three or four million dollars. If it pays out, the 300 angels will get their money back with no profit. If it doesn't, well—that's the show business.

Introduces Himself

Shortly after Defense Secretary Louis Johnson stopped construction on the navy's super-aircraft carrier, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, was invited out to dinner. He was seated at table next to a woman who immediately opened up on him with a broadside.

"I want you to know who I am," she began. The senator replied that he knew who she was, having seen her name on the place card. "But you don't know my background," the woman went on. "I am the wife of a vice-admiral and the daughter of an admiral. And on this day of infamy for the navy, I think you should do something to this man Johnson for what he has done in stopping work on the supercarrier."

Vandenberg broke in there with: "Wait a minute. I want you to know who I am." The woman said she knew perfectly well who he was. "But you don't know my background," said the senator. "I'm the uncle of the chief of staff of the United States air force."

Keep 'Em After School

As Speaker Sam Rayburn was leaving the house chamber after the bitter fight over labor legislation, he ran into Republican Congressman J. Harry McGregor, of Ohio. McGregor was formerly speaker of the Ohio house of representatives. Rayburn called him over. "Mac," he said, "What would you do with that bunch if you had 'em?" McGregor just laughed.

Couldn't Bear The Strain

Winthrop Brubaker, of Chance Vought Aircraft Corporation, tells the story of a "hump" pilot on the China-India run during the war. He had a pet Himalayan cub bear that he was hauling. When fighter craft came alongside to identify the plane, the transport flyer turned on the automatic pilot, strapped the bear in the pilot's seat and then ducked to a rear window to see what happened. The fighter pilot circled the transport several times to make sure of what he was seeing—a bear flying a C-47. When he reported this back to his base, he was immediately shipped back home. Extreme case of combat fatigue.

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The account of the "Last Judgment" in Matthew 25 is found only in that Gospel. One cannot but wonder why neither Mark, nor John, nor especially Luke, whose gospel enters into so much detail, refers to it. It presents some questions, also, that various commentators have sought to answer in their own way. One distinguished commentator, for instance, says that the judgment of which Jesus spoke was to be of professed disciples only, of those who in sincerity, or in insincerity, called Jesus "Lord," and the statement about all nations being gathered for the judgment he disposes of in a way to suit his strange interpretation.

However, the spectacle of all nations, and all generations of men, gathered for judgment in one time and place suggests such difficulties—at least to the materialistic mind—that one might question with what materialistic literalism the passage is to be taken. This is especially true as it appears in a chapter otherwise in the form of parables, which deal specifically with judgment, the Parable of the Wise and Foolish Virgins, and the Parable of the Talents.

The portrayal of the Last Judgment confirms the words of Jesus expressed elsewhere, "Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord,' shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of My Father, who is in Heaven." The judgment is not upon what one professes to believe, nor upon the church, or group, to which one belongs. It is upon obedience to the Master's teaching, and the following of His example in ministering to others, especially to those in need.

Nor is the judgment upon deeds, and outward acts, alone. Paul made a distinction (1 Corinthians 13) between bestowing all one's goods to feed the poor, and having love in one's heart.

Nor is the judgment even upon character, if we think of character in the outward content of one's life, or one's sense of worthiness.

I once heard a famous minister expounding the doctrine of salvation by character, and my mind and heart alike rebelled against the idea as he expressed it. "We are not suppliants," he said. I may have misunderstood the letter or spirit of his words, but I could not help thinking of the proud Pharisee, telling God how good he was, and the publican, in contrast, saying, "God be merciful to me, a sinner;" and of Christ's warning to us to consider ourselves unprofitable servants, even when we have done what it was our duty to do.

Character counts with God, as it does with men, but humility, the consciousness of something higher yet to be attained, is a deep mark of true character. How different in the judgment was what the "sheep" and the "goats" had to say!

Mr. Truman is the first president since Warren G. Harding to graduate to the White House from congress. And no president since Harding has been more familiar with the operations and traditions of that legislative body. Yet it sometimes seems that this familiarity breeds, if not contempt, at least a disregard for the pride and sensitivity of the lawmakers.

This congress, or any congress, is highly conscious of its prestige and dignity. Its members have their differences. But, like many quarrelsome families, they will unite to defend themselves against any attack from the outside.

Yet Mr. Truman seems to take periodic delight in rubbing his former colleagues the wrong way. He has cast aspersions at the Republican 80th congress and the Democratic 81st. He has stuck pins into the thin skins of individual members. He has demanded that congress think and act as he bids, on pain of loss of patronage.

And now, unless the national commander of the American Veterans Committee has deliberately misquoted him—which seems most unlikely—Mr. Truman has obliquely invited Virginians to oust their senior senator with the remark that there are too many Byrds in congress.

This is surprising for two reasons. One is that Mr. Truman surely knows the hazards of trying to purge a rebellious congress of its disobedient members. Mr. Roosevelt tried it at the height of his extravagant popularity, and failed. Purge attempts are not only considered an affront by the targets and many of their associates. They also are usually resented by the voters who send the potential purgees to congress.

The second reason is that Mr. Truman has seen that more congressmen are captured with sugar than with vinegar. The president has tried toughness with this congress, and he has also tried a little cajolery. The soft approach has produced more harmony and more accomplishment.

Somehow Mr. Truman just doesn't seem to be the tough type. He is apparently a down-to-earth, agreeable man whom his former colleagues on Capitol Hill instinctively want to like. He would probably come much closer to achieving his goals by cashing in on this asset than by being the cold and disapproving taskmaster.

President Truman accomplished the seemingly impossible last fall by winning the voters who seemed so surely committed to another candidate. He did it partly by excoriating the last congress and promising better things from the next one.

Now, to fulfill his promise, he must win the present congress to his way of thinking. However much he may disagree with individual members, he is certainly aware that the congress, as an institution, is the dignified equal of his own office. That is why his frequent fits of scolding seem so oddly unrealistic and out of character.

Rain Today; Dry Tomorrow

In any discussion of Louisiana weather the remark is likely to be made that Louisiana has plenty of moisture, mostly at the wrong time. Certainly, that has been true in a good many sections this spring. Frequent heavy rains over a long period have delayed seriously the planting of several important crops. And the growers who are getting their crops into the ground so lately are greatly worried lest they be hit by a drouth in late summer and early fall. Drouths are far from unknown in Louisiana, in spite of heavy annual rainfall. Here in North Louisiana, drouth is one of the worst enemies of the corn grower. Many other crops in various parts of the state are affected from time to time.

These conditions suggest that many Louisiana farmers might find it profitable to irrigate. Anyone who thinks that irrigation never is needed anywhere but in the semi-arid portions of the west is mistaken. The experience of a number of corn and truck crop growers right here in Louisiana has proven that irrigation can pay big dividends.

Of course, not every farmer needs to irrigate. Not all can irrigate. And irrigation is not needed for every crop. But those who are growing crops that need a good bit of water during the dry season might do well to look into the possibility of irrigation, especially if their farms are located so they can pump water at no excessive cost from some nearby lake or stream.

Even a simple irrigation system may not pay for itself the first year, or the second year, but on the third or fourth year when drouth comes it will pay off in a big way and will do the same thing every dry year thereafter.

Stifling Genius

Long ago Robert Burns wrote the famous lines:

A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
And faith he'll prent it.

For taking notes, a waiter in a restaurant near Rockefeller Center in New York City was dismissed. He had worked there for three years at night. During the day he studied for a Ph. D. at Columbia. The patrons of the restaurant are, in large degree, persons active in radio, television and the theater.

About a month ago the waiter decided to write a book called "The Trials and Tribulations of a Waiter." As soon as the owner heard about it, the waiter lost his job. His union came to his defense, and now an arbitrator of New York state's mediation board rules that he must be reinstated.

Said the owner of the restaurant:

"The waiter is behaving himself; he is courteous; he doesn't steal; he doesn't drink—but I want a waiter instead of a writer."

Said the mediator:

"Are we to deny him the necessary employment because his literary work might reflect his everyday experiences and the impression he receives from his surroundings and those with whom he cames in contact? To deny a would-be author employment for this reason might well stifle literary and creative genius."

Were this not true, Shakespeare might have been dismissed from the theater, Swift from the church, Whitman as a hospital aide and several thousand soldiers and sailors from the armed forces in World War II.

DOWN SOUTH

SOCIALISM WON'T WORK

LONDON, England—A scotsman said to me the other day, "I don't have any objection to the government trying new ways of doing things, but when they find the new ways won't work, then why can't they be honest enough to admit it and go back to the ways that will work."

The fact is, of course, that the so-called "welfare state" never admits it is wrong—it cannot afford to. Moreover, there is no way of making it admit it is wrong except by uprising of the people. The stockholders in a private industry, for instance, will very quickly call the management of their company on the carpet if losses occur but under nationalized industry the management has neither incentive to prosper nor responsibility for loss. The stockholders are the people and the management, in effect, are the people—so everybody's business is nobody's business. If losses occur, just pass them on the taxpayers; so long as the taxpayers hold out, there is no limit to which the losses must be held.

We could very easily agree with the socialist government of Great Britain in its stated aims to improve the standard of living of the people of Great Britain—but there is nothing in history or in present experience to make one believe socialism will bring this about. It is therefore difficult to understand why the British butt their socialistic heads against the stern facts of reality when the only possible result is a kick in the face. The people of the United States of America have attained the highest standard of living any people have ever known, and they have done so under private enterprise. The past accomplishments of the people of Great Britain have been made under the same system. In fact, the industries being "taken over" by the Socialist government were created by private enterprise; the Socialists have created nothing and propose to create nothing—they only say they will manage what private enterprise has created in the better interests of the people.

What too many of us in this world overlook is the fact that all governments, no matter what kind they are, are run by individuals. The people must protect themselves by law from usurpation of power by these individuals. It is entirely possible that the best sort of government is a dictatorship—provided the dictator were a very able man with nothing but the best interests of the people at heart. But we know we cannot count on this. The only alternate is a government by law and not by men, a government that regulates but does not operate, a government that sets up the rules of the game but does not attempt to play the game itself. In this manner is obtained a government based on the combined intelligence of all the people, and not depending upon the whims and fancies and decisions of a few men. We thus arrive at a constitutional republic, as in the United States of America, and may God rest the man who would attempt to tear it down!

For men to make progress in this world, they must have both hope and fear, they must have both incentive and penalty. All history tells us these emotions are fundamental, that it is useless to try to escape them. Since socialism provides neither incentive nor penalty, therefore, it cannot hope to succeed. All it does is to bumble ahead in a most inefficient manner and drag down the standard of living for all. It penalizes superior ability and subsidizes laziness.

Under the Socialist government of Great Britain, it has been the stated purpose to redistribute the wealth of the rich for the benefit of the poor. The wealth has been redistributed all right. Great estates are being taken over by the government to satisfy tax claims. Before the war there were 11,000 individuals earning more than $25,000 net annual income; now there are less than 250 such persons, and this number is rapidly dwindling. The cost of living continues to increase. Labor says it must have more wages. Taxes continue dangerously high. Government ownership and operation of industries have resulted in nothing but deficits. The diet of the people is poorer than during the war. Lack of goods in the shops and high taxation cause a large percentage of absenteeism in industry. The social benefits that have been provided are of doubtful value; they would not have been possible except for outside aid, and are therefore also of doubtful stability. These facts speak for themselves. The sooner the people of Great Britain realize that socialism just won't work, the better it will be for them and the whole world.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

AMERICAN PRIMER

For 25 cents you can get a remarkable pamphlet entitled "American Primer," published by the national industrial conference board, 247 Park Avenue, New York 17, New York.

If, back in the 1920's, education in this country had not been diverted from character building to functional training, we should not in the 1930's and 1940's have had so many persons in important centers of government and in the organizations and institutions of the people who failed to understand the United States. We should also not have lost the war at the conference table. We should not be faced by so many spies, saboteurs and traitors and we should not be forced to suspect everyone in government to the extent that a loyalty test becomes a matter of national necessity. It all goes back to taking American history and civics out of the schools as separate, compulsory courses.

Therefore, this pamphlet by Mrs. Agnes Morley Cleaveland is important and valuable. In catechism style, she deals not only with the organization of the American government but with its basic philosophy. She makes it possible for the reader to understand what America is about and why it is different from other countries.

Here are two examples of her objective treatment of two major subjects which trouble many people and which are generally not understood:

"Question: Along what lines must a nation show progress in order to justify itself?

"Answer: Political, social, economic, and spiritual.

"Question: How has America justified herself politically?

"Answer: America is the world's model for a successful United Nations. Forty-eight political units, held together by a common ideal of human rights, and cemented by the mutual acceptance of the constitution, have demonstrated that it is possible for communities of different interests, different racial origins, and different training to live in harmony without artificial barriers, either military or economc, being raised against one another.

"Question: How has America justified herself on the economic side?

"Answer: Yes. We have the highest average standard of living of any nation on earth and the widest diffusion of national wealth. Although we comprise but seven per cent of the world's population, we do about one half of the world's business. Our national income is allocated approximately as follows: Over two-thirds to salaries and wages and the rest to business, large and small. So-called "Big Business" clears less than 4 per cent net profit from 10 per cent of the national income. If profits from all large and

FEDERAL EDUCATION AID

A small majority of editors favors the $300,000,000 a year federal aid to education bill passed by the senate. But a very large minority fears that such a program would lead to increasing federal control over education. Many in the latter group argue that revisions in local and federal tax systems would make such aid unnecessary. Some specifically disapprove of collecting from and returning to even the wealthiest states a minimum of $5 a year per school-age child.

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "The senate measure has maintained careful safeguards against federal control. The money goes to the states to be administered by them. . . . To qualify for federal grants, they must spend a minimum $55 a pupil and allot a minimum percentage of their income to schools. In the poorer states, where encouragement is most needed, the federal aid may be as much as $29 a child; no state will receive less than $5 a child."

Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram (Ind.-Dem.): "Even if congress initially took great pains to see that the aid program carried with it no element of federal control, there could be no guaranty that such a hands-off attitude would continue. . . . Once federal aid had become a part of the financial structure of the schools, the dependence of school districts upon funds from this source would make it difficult for them to refuse to bow to the requirements set up by federal administrators of the program."

Jacksonville (Fla.) Florida Times-Union (Ind.-Dem.): "Despite the fears that have been expressed by the oppositionist forces, the bill . . . appears headed for success in the eighthy-first congress. Whether its benefits will out-weigh its dangers can be judged only after it has been more clearly demonstrated if subsidized education will constitute a stepping stone which will lead to a long series of measures which ultimately will give government control over some of the most elementary functions of human life."

Portland (Ore.) Oregon Journal (Ind.): "The . . . bill will do much to iron out the inequities in our school systems. Its major aim is to give everyone, regardles of race, color or creed, an opportunity for a first-class elementary and secondary education. . . . In many areas such educational facilities have not been provided. . . . We can't afford to have educational slums."

Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer (Ind.-Dem.): "One of the strongest arguments against the bill . . . is the contention, backed up by impressive evidence, that the subsidy would have the effect of covering up and perpetuating indefensible discrepancies in the amount of local support for schools. . . . It has been strikingly brought out . . . that many areas which are crying for federal aid to education want it in order to escape the necessity of paying local school taxes on the basis of the reasonable economic value of the real properties in those areas."

Washington (D. C.) Post (Ind.): "The wealth of the nation and consequently the bulk of its taxable resources are concentrated in certain states. The residents of those states are consequently better provided for by their local governments than are their neighbors in poorer states. Only the federal government is in a position to reduce these inequities in services and benefits by using some of the tax funds collected from the richer states to supplement the inadequate resources of the poorer states."

Boston (Mass.) Herald (Ind.): "It should be understood that any state that has to have federal assistance for schools is actually a pauper state. . . . Is there any such pauper state? We doubt it, unless steep federal taxes have made it so. No, the real purpose of the education bill is to divert a larger proportion of the total tax take in every state into education. It is meant to make the local cost of schools look less than it really is. It is a kind of befuddling of the people for moral ends."

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.): "Some two-thirds of the full authorization would go to the states in proportion to their needs and their efforts, but every state would receive no less than $5 for each child of school age. If need and effort alone were made the basis for the grants, a considerable saving could be made, and the wealthier states which received no direct grants would benefit from the decreased costs of the federal program."

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson's plan to increase postal rates on second, third and fourth class mail seems to be doomed.

Whether the 81st congress reports out a substitute measure with less drastic increases is still in doubt, but there is little prospect of any postal action this year.

The house post office and civil service committee has scheduled hearings through May 20th, and the pre-adjournment log-jam is expected to postpone action on any bill until next year.

The senate post office and civil service committee has held and concluded rather desolutory hearings, but this time the burden of doing anything about postal rates is likely to be borne primarily by the hard-working house group.

The history of the legislation has been criss-crossed with subtle jockeying.

Donaldson, a postoffice career man, is credited with submitting his proposed increases because he got tired of hearing the postoffice department blamed for having a deficit.

The congress has a hot potato on its hands, and knows it. Users of second, third class and fourth class mail have brought heavy pressure on capitol hill to knock out the Donaldson schedule. And yet, for many years the halls of both houses have echoed to repeated attacks upon the postoffice department for going into the red.

If any legislation is enacted, it may be a face-saver for congress. Impressed by objections that increases will prove a hardship on newspapers, magazines, mailers of circulars, and mail order houses, congress will likely try to compute a schedule of rather mild increases, if it does anything at all.

One face saver which the 80th con-

'Off The Record' Means Anything; Johnson Has Troubles

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(NEA)—Pentagon reporters say they have now identified five kinds of "off the record" remarks by Defense Secretary Louis Johnson. (1) "Completely off the record. You can't use anything. Okay boys?" (2) "Off the record, but you can use it if you don't attribute to any official source." (3) "Off the record, but you can say you got it from a high authority." (4)"Off the record, but you can say you learned it from me." (5) "Off the record!"

Press Relations Strained

Johnson is having plenty of trouble with his press relations in spite of his efforts to get to know every reporter by name and a series of luncheons with Washington bureau chiefs. On the stopping of construction of navy super-aircraft carrier, Johnson didn't say enough and could easily have made a statement. On appointment of Curtis Calder as secretary of the army, Johnson said too much. Calder next day denied he had accepted the job. One cause of trouble is that before Johnson's appointment there was heavy press editorial criticism against too much service rivalry and not enough unification. Now that Johnson has moved to end this bickering, reporters don't like it because officers are afraid to talk.

Rank Injustice?

WASHINGTON hostesses are all confused for lack of a ruling on who ranks whom in the armed forces. Before unification, an army officer had precedence over a naval officer of equal rank. After unification, it was assumed that army, navy and air force officers of same rank would have more or less equal status, with the social honors going to the one who had seniority. But protocol experts have refused to decide the isspe.

Both Barrels

American Medical Association apparently isn't doing as well as expected on getting $25 from every doctor to fight health insurance. It hoped to raise $4,000,000. First quarter collections were only a little over a million. In Washington, collections ran into a snag when invitations were sent to Negro doctors, who aren't admitted to District of Columbia Medical Society. One piece of A. M. A. literature now being left in doctors' offices misses no bets. It claims health insurance was invented by Bismarck, who was a German, was introduced into America by Communists, will lead to socialism.

Comes The Dawn

Why reclamation associations fight public power development has always been something of a mystery, since the power generated at dams pays the major cost of irrigation projects. Partial explanation is given by published financial statement of Washington State Reclamation Association. It shows receipts of $3,000 dues from its own members and $5,250 received from three big private power companies.

Little Black Book

Labor union lobbyists in Washington have been checking up on the votes against rent control and the votes against sending the Wood labor bill back to committee for redrafting. They find much similarity between the two votes. Against rent control were 61 Republicans and 52 Democrats. Against recommittal of the Wood bill were 146 Republicans and 71 Democrats. Names on both lists are being checked and will be watched on future important votes for compiling a list of congressmen against whom the unions will campaign in 1952.

Legion Turns 'Angel'

American Legion and Hollywood dance director LeRoy Prinz are now partners in show business. Prinz sold legion's national executive committee this bill of goods: Local legion posts are to sponsor talent contests. Prinz will travel around and be judge. From top winners, Prinz will assemble a musical show which will tour the country under legion sponsorship. Three hundred wealthy legionnaires were nicked for $1,000 each to finance the production. Prinz says show should net the legion three or four million dollars. If it pays out, the 300 angels will get their money back with no profit. If it doesn't, well—that's the show business.

Introduces Himself

Shortly after Defense Secretary Louis Johnson stopped construction on the navy's super-aircraft carrier, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, was invited out to dinner. He was seated at table next to a woman who immediately opened up on him with a broadside.

"I want you to know who I am," she began. The senator replied that he knew who she was, having seen her name on the place card. "But you don't know my background," the woman went on. "I am the wife of a vice-admiral and the daughter of an admiral. And on this day of infamy for the navy, I think you should do something to this man Johnson for what he has done in stopping work on the supercarrier."

Vandenberg broke in there with: "Wait a minute. I want you to know who I am." The woman said she knew perfectly well who he was. "But you don't know my background," said the senator. "I'm the uncle of the chief of staff of the United States air force."

Keep 'Em After School

As Speaker Sam Rayburn was leaving the house chamber after the bitter fight over labor legislation, he ran into Republican Congressman J. Harry McGregor, of Ohio. McGregor was formerly speaker of the Ohio house of representatives. Rayburn called him over. "Mac," he said, "What would you do with that bunch if you had 'em?" McGregor just laughed.

Couldn't Bear The Strain

Winthrop Brubaker, of Chance Vought Aircraft Corporation, tells the story of a "hump" pilot on the China-India run during the war. He had a pet Himalayan cub bear that he was hauling. When fighter craft came alongside to identify the plane, the transport flyer turned on the automatic pilot, strapped the bear in the pilot's seat and then ducked to a rear window to see what happened. The fighter pilot circled the transport several times to make sure of what he was seeing—a bear flying a C-47. When he reported this back to his base, he was immediately shipped back home. Extreme case of combat fatigue.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—Thinking out loud: A typewriter salon (or maybe it's a collection, after the manner of the ready-to-wear ladies' garment business in New York) has been showing a gold-plated standard size typewriter, which it is finishing in limited quantities for the de luxe trade. When a banquet is given in honor of somebody, it's chic to present him, by subscription among the employes or lodge members, with one of these gold-plated jobs. As for me, knowing typewriters as I do, I'll take an electric model, without the gold, please . . . and that reminds me that the gold piano that helped to lend the garish mood to the White House in the days from the elder Roosevelt onward (or downward, depending upon your politics), now rests in the Smithsonian Institution, and there may it find rest forever . . . I like to say a good word for that Missouri boy in the White House whenever I can, for fear that I might have to criticize him some time. Here's a credit mark for him and his nice family: There are no arty chamber concerts or artiste confections with long legs and long hair performing as pe-fawmahs in the White House or its un-white substitute these days. And Mr. and Mrs. Truman at least have the excuse that their daughter is a singer and Mr. can play the piano, with proper accompaniment on occasion. Well, H. T. makes mistakes like the rest of us, and we didn't inherit his background of Yalta, so I'm inclined to be patient . . . and I think the member of congress who suggests demolishing the White House altogether and rebuilding it, just as was, from basement up, has something practical, as well as cheaper and more durable.

One of the most powerful dog stories that has come my way is clipped from the Corpus Christi Caller by Mr. E. C. Turner, of Taft, Texas.

Butch, a terrier (a bit of a mutt, I suspect, belonging to seven-years-old Jon Bricker, saved his master and two other children from a rattlesnake by jumping in as the snake, coiled, was about to strike. He took the poisonous bite, which undoubtedly would have killed a child within a few hours, on his forehead. Greater love hath no man.

Butch, in the hands of a good veterinary surgeon, was cured. Perhaps the strong frontal bone stopped deep penetration of the fangs. The head swelled, Butch was fevered and very sick. But he recovered.

A big party, which included all the boys and girls and parents of the neighborhood, was given in honor of Butch's return home from hospital, and the neighbors all went to the hospital to thank the doctor for saving the brave dog. Butch wagged and yelped and kissed his young master worshipfully.

It was all in the day's work for Butch. A dog doesn't expect a plaque or a diploma in recognition of his doing his simple duty. He knows better than most people what the menace of a rattlesnake bite is. But his reaction is instantaneous.

Butch, I salute you. I wish you many happy days with your kid friends, and big beef bones and the love of all the people. You are a good doggie. Now, wag your tail.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The account of the "Last Judgment" in Matthew 25 is found only in that Gospel. One cannot but wonder why neither Mark, nor John, nor especially Luke, whose gospel enters into so much detail, refers to it. It presents some questions, also, that various commentators have sought to answer in their own way. One distinguished commentator, for instance, says that the judgment of which Jesus spoke was to be of professed disciples only, of those who in sincerity, or in insincerity, called Jesus "Lord," and the statement about all nations being gathered for the judgment he disposes of in a way to suit his strange interpretation.

However, the spectacle of all nations, and all generations of men, gathered for judgment in one time and place suggests such difficulties—at least to the materialistic mind—that one might question with what materialistic literalism the passage is to be taken. This is especially true as it appears in a chapter otherwise in the form of parables, which deal specifically with judgment, the Parable of the Wise and Foolish Virgins, and the Parable of the Talents.

The portrayal of the Last Judgment confirms the words of Jesus expressed elsewhere, "Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord,' shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of My Father, who is in Heaven." The judgment is not upon what one professes to believe, nor upon the church, or group, to which one belongs. It is upon obedience to the Master's teaching, and the following of His example in ministering to others, especially to those in need.

Nor is the judgment upon deeds, and outward acts, alone. Paul made a distinction (1 Corinthians 13) between bestowing all one's goods to feed the poor, and having love in one's heart.

Nor is the judgment even upon character, if we think of character in the outward content of one's life, or one's sense of worthiness.

I once heard a famous minister expounding the doctrine of salvation by character, and my mind and heart alike rebelled against the idea as he expressed it. "We are not suppliants," he said. I may have misunderstood the letter or spirit of his words, but I could not help thinking of the proud Pharisee, telling God how good he was, and the publican, in contrast, saying, "God be merciful to me, a sinner;" and of Christ's warning to us to consider ourselves unprofitable servants, even when we have done what it was our duty to do.

Character counts with God, as it does with men, but humility, the consciousness of something higher yet to be attained, is a deep mark of true character. How different in the judgment was what the "sheep" and the "goats" had to say!

The Nation Today
JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, whose scowl and tactics may have made him seem sort of set in his ways, isn't too old to learn.

At 69 he's trying something new: a smoother way of getting along with the public and the coal mine owners, his old antagonists.

Lewis has been a famous labor leader at least 30 years. He's moved from strike to strike and crisis to crisis in the coal fields.

He has roared at and denounced —roundly, publicly and loudly—the mine owners with whom he's had to bargain for his miners.

And year by year, whether or not you liked his tactics, he's won new and greater benefits for them.

But there's always been a question in people's minds:

Could he have done the same for his miners without the great strikes that cost the nation coal, the owners profits, and the miners wages?

The question will never be answered, of course, but Lewis' tactics have won him a lot of public criticism.

Maybe the bad reviews he's been getting in recent years every time he has come thundering into public view have disturbed him.

At any rate, he's not so set in his ways that he's not willing to learn something new. And he's willing to pay to learn.

On his payroll now he has Allied Syndicates, Inc., to help him out in his public relations.

And a friend of long standing, George Creel, who headed Woodrow Wilson's committee on public information in World War I, has slipped into town for a month to give Lewis a hand.

Creel at 73 is four years older than Lewis. He's an old-time newspaperman, author and magazine writer. And he feels this way about labor-management relations:

If labor and management are going to do decent bargaining when they sit down together, it's a good idea for them not to build up ill-will beforehand by name-calling.

This week Lewis' publicity firm, Allied Syndicates, Inc., got out a 5/12 page sketch of Lewis. You can be sure it's favorable to him.

It pictures him as a pretty genial man, which he probably is in spite of the times he's roared and scowled. It says:

"In private life, Mr. Lewis is by no means the 'gruff sourpuss' that many cartoonists and writers have endeavored to depict. He is one of the most affable, big-hearted men on the American scene."

And tomorrow Creel will distribute a report on the miners' health and welfare fund which Lewis won from the mine owners.

Trusting Creel, Lewis had many times asked him to come work with him a bit.

But some time ago Creel got sick in China, went to Baltimore for treatment, and stopped off here a month on his way back to California to help his friend, Lewis.

In the past few years Lewis has been explosive, has called big strikes, has been fined for contempt of court, and has gone roaring on his way.

Now suddenly—probably under the soft-stroking of his publicity advisers —his mood and approach seem to have changed, and softened.

In other springtimes when his contract with the mine owners was coming to an end, Lewis rumbled and hit the war drums.

This year it was different. He has started dealings with the owners on a new contract in a quiet and peaceful mood.

But you'll have to wait to learn how long that will last if the mine owners don't see things Big John's way.

Billy Rose:
PITCHING HORSESHOES

Twenty-one years ago, General MacArthur took a small army to Europe and beat the bejabbers out of fifty nations in less than a month. In this campaign, one of the general's soldiers was a goodlooking school kid from Brooklyn who, to hear the newspaper boys tell it, did right well on the battlefield.

Well, ten years ago I married the good-looking kid, and ten weeks ago she and I lunched with this same MacArthur at his residence in Tokyo.

All of which is my backhanded way of informing you that in 1928 the present bossman of Nippon was president of the American Olympic committee, and that one of the athletes he shepherded to Amsterdam was the baby backstroke wonder the record books respectfully refer to as Eleanor Holm.

At the luncheon party, I naturally expected to meet the MacArthur I had been reading about in recent years—a pontifical gent, given to posturing and thunderous phrases. But instead, I found myself across the table from a rather elegant old boy whose conversational gambits would have given a good account of themselves at Lindy's or in the bleachers at the Yankee Stadium. He talked easily, laughed from the belt up at the jokes which hadn't reached Tokyo yet, and gossiped expertly with Eleanor about the new crop of swimmers and "what ever became of" this and that athlete . . . .

Ever since the itinerary man at Thomas Cook's had said, "And then you go to Tokyo," I had been mind-massaging a question I intended to ask the supreme commander if I ever got within interviewing distance. And so, over the coffee I popped it.

"General," I said, "you, of course, know that a big hero's welcome has been waiting for you in the United States since 1945—the same sort of heart-warming whooptidoo that greeted Eisenhower. How come you've passed it up so far?"

MacArthur grinned, and it was a grin I had never seen in the newsreels. Then he started to talk and, when he had finished five minutes later, his eyes were moist, so were Eleanor's, and mine weren't exactly dust bowls.

"Too bad I didn't have a pad and pencil handy," I said as we got up from the table. "I'd like to run that answer verbatim in my column."

"I don't think anybody would especially care," said the general, and I got the impression he'd rather I let the matter drop.

Of course, I didn't. A few days after our Pan-Am sky-buggy deposited us back in New York, I wrote him, repeated my question and pointed out that his statement would appear in an impressive string of papers. This morning I got the following from Tokyo:

"Dear Mr. Rose:

"I have just received your note of April 24th and am delighted to learn from it that Eleanor and you returned safely after such a long and interest-packed trip. Mrs. MacArthur and I enjoyed immensely seeing you here and only wish that your stay could have been more prolonged.

"I recall your asking the question to which you make reference, but could not possibly now reconstruct the reply I then made. But no matter. The answer lies in the conscience of all good Americans who are entrusted with the public interest and one can find no more faithful explanation than in the one simple word, DUTY.

"The American public, however, is predominantly concerned with happenings and events, and I doubt its interest in the personal details concerning an individual public servant.

"With cordial regards to you both,

Very faithfully,

DOUGLAS MACARTHUR."

Well, the above is a nice enough letter but, unfortunately, it has none of the moving ad libs of the general's off-the-cuff answer. And, for his sake, I wish it weren't so, because it's my hunch that his full coffee time reply would have endeared him to a lot of people who think of him as nothing but a stuffed shirt with five stars on the collar.

I could write another finish to this column, of course, and tell you about the geisha girl I met, but MacArthur; my syndicate boss tells me, is a lot more newsworthy. And so, relying on what was once a good trick memory, I'm going to try to reconstruct part of his answer for you . . .

"There hasn't been a day in the past 13 years, Mr. Rose, that I haven't yearned to return to my country. My son, now 11 years old, has never been out of the Orient, and many's the night I've listened to his sainted mother try to explain to him what the United States is like . . .

"Certainly, I'd like to go home and take it easy—sit behind third base with a couple of old friends, eat a hot dog, drink a bottle of pop and rib the umpire on the close decisions. Yes, even drop in at your cabaret once in a while and make eyes at the pretty girls.

"But, as I see it, my job in Japan isn't finished. For centuries, one single person, rather than an organization, has been the symbol of authority to the Oriential mind and, during our occupation, I have become that symbol. and were I to return home—even for a few weeks—word would undoubtedly spread throughout the Orient that the United States was scuttling the Pacific. This, of course, mustn't happen.

"As of this afternoon, we have neither won nor lost the Battle of Japan. Our military victory is only part of the greater task, and what remains to be done is equally important. And I don't intend to walk out on this job until I die or am removed by my government.

"It may be a cup of ashes, but it's my drink."

small businesses were thrown into the total income and it was reallocated equally to all the people, the average raise to the wage earners would be very slight. This proves that, notwithstanding all manifest inequalities in distribution, it is not the very rich who hold the national wealth in their hands and away from the masses. To redistribute the total wealth with any degree of equality would be to levy upon the higher wage earners for the benefit of the lower wage earners. The relative amount contributed by the so-called very wealthy would raise the total average almost imperceptibly."

Two weaknesses are obvious in our approach to many problems: One is that we do not analyze them from a pro-American standpoint; the other is that we do not understand the basic philosophy of the enemies of America. Thus we have a "gray" approach, a sort of "anything goes" which is often called liberalism for want of an accurate description. We deal with individual situations on the basis of temporary improvisations, expecting that in the long run something will come out of it.

But the United States is not an accident. It is not a mere geographical expression. It is a way of life that has developed in this area over three centuries and which has justified itself by unparalleled accomplishments. Its philosophy needs to be shouted from the housetops because it has proved itself in the present world situation superior to that of any European or Asiatic nation. Our children —and we ourselves—need to understand it and we need to fight for it at home as much as abroad. Therefore, this pamphlet "American Primer" by Mrs. Cleaveland is offered as a guide.

Angelo Patri:
OUR CHILDREN

CURSING

The English language is a rich, full, and expressive tongue, and it can be made to say anything we want to say in clear-cut, beautiful words. There is no need for cursing and obscenity. Such talk indicates a mind undisciplined and untaught, a lack of refinement and often of common decency.

The worst of the matter is that the talk adults use becomes the standard of speech for the younger ones. The younger they are the more impressive dramatic language, colorful words that are seldom heard in their lives at home, becomes. They learn to talk by imitating the talk they hear, and they pick up these bad words, these ugly, irreverent, indecent words, as soon as they begin to talk.

Mothers are shocked when a sweet-faced child comes in at noon and demands in swaggering style where his blankety-blank lunch is. This is likely to bring on a dramatic scene and that again impresses the little one. It makes him the star of a performance and he loves it.

In my experience the best thing to do with such a demonstration is to look scornfully down one's nose and say, "You know where the bathroom is. Go wash your mouth clean before you eat the clean lunch I have for you." Then see that he does a thorough job of the rinsing. The less talk about it the better. Doing something like this is better than speech and the stern silence that accompanies the performance is very effective.

There is little mothers can do to spare their children's ears such language, prevent their hearing it, because too many people are so poverty-stricken in vocabulary that they have to fall back on the few expressive—expressive for them—words they know, and keep repeating them.

The dirty words and the curses are bad enough but when the name of God is used slightingly, coarsely, irreverently, it is beyond all limits of good behavior, propor speech, good taste. Sin is a good word that has lost its force in many families but it can never lose its meaning, nor its logical consequences, when expressed in action. Using the name of the Diety irreverently is a sin and children should be taught just that, taught religiously to honor that name.

The best speech possible, the clearest and cleanest, is none to good for the children to hear and to learn. When they bring home the wrong words the atmosphere should be heavy with disapproval. There are few children who will persist in wrongdoing when the home atmosphere is right.

A child who likes his food is a joy to his mother. Learn how to plan your child's feeding so he will enjoy eating. Dr. Patri explains in a helpful booklet, No. 303, "Eating." gress employed was the so-called St. George bill, introduced by Mrs. Katherine St. George (Rep. N. Y.). It would set up a commission to set rates subject to congressional veto. It was approved by the house committee in the 80th congress.

Mrs. St. George has reintroduced the measure in the 81st congress. If congress wants to avoid taking the responsibility for any increases, it could thus pass the buck to a commission.

There is heavy doubt, however, that postal users will go for the commission idea. While it is argued on the one hand that this would remove the matter from the arena of congressional action, the objection is made that the matter belongs in the hands of congress.

Postal rates affect too many businesses too intimately to be put beyond the reach of the elected representatives of the people by the commission method, it is contended.

There was a lot of confusion over labor legislation in the house last week. but the prolonged, seemingly-futile wrangle did not make one fact clear: the congress wants the president to keep the right to take steps to protect the public interest in emergencies arising from strikes in key industries.

Whatever kind of labor bill the congress may pass in the future, it is certain to have a provision covering this point.

While many observers, oddly enough, failed to note it, union lobbyist on capitol hill last week for the first time showed a willingness to accept such a national emergency provision. They could not admit this publicly, for their top leaders are pledged to fight to the death against any strike injunction power, but they were realistic enough to accept the fact that the house would not accept any labor bill that did not have authorization for dealing with emergencies resulting from big strikes.

Just as the union lobbyists agreed tacitly to back the Sims substitute, granting these emergency powers, so will they make similar concessions in the future. They now know that the chances of going back to the hands-off policy of pre-Taft-Hartley Act are very slim indeed.

Another lesson learned from the labor bill war is that labor leaders and administration officials alike would do well to allow the house education and labor committee to perfom its normal function of working out what a majority of the committee can agree upon as a workable labor relations bill.

Largely because of this outside pressure, a number of younger members of the committee went along with Chairman Lesinski in simply rubberstaping a bill sent by the administration. This is not likely to happen again. In fact, the main factor in getting a sufficient number of votes changed to kill the Wood substitute for the administration bill was the promise of several committee members that next time they would take the time to really try to write a generally acceptable bill.

Indian Technicians

NEW DELHI, India.—(AP)—The government is building up an army of technicians to avoid a bottleneck in its industrialization program.

Needs are estimated at nearly 30,000 technicians a year. India produced only about one third that number the past two or three years. The government is now running 450 training centers.

The few remaining birds of the once numerous whooping crane flocks winter on the Texas coast.

DeWitt Mackenzie:
MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Paul G. Hoffman, director of the economic cooperation administration, told an Indiana University audience the other day that "our way of life will be secure if Europe is strong and free in 1952."

Mr. Hoffman's prediction of course is based on the fact that the Marshall plan is due to wind up its operations in 1952. He said the plan had "stopped the Kremlin cold" in western Europe, and that if recovery is accomplished by then "it is more than probable that the Kremlin will decide on a policy of 'live and let live.'"

That's a prophesy which invites analysis, and since the E. C. A. director isn't here to do it for us, let's take a look at it ourselves. As I see it the position is this:

It's true that the "cold war" aspect of the Communist offensive has been halted along the Stettin-Adriatic line through central Europe. However, the revolutionary tactics of Communists in western European countries—especially the powerful French and Italian parties—continue in full force. They will gain control of their governments if it is humanly possible.

Meantime, out in the far east Communist armies are sweeping southward across China. Northern Korea is Communistic, and is reaching for control of the southern half of that strategic land. Burma, Indonesia and other Asiatic countries are torn by Communistic uprisings. As the signs now read the Orient is likely to become increasingly a theater of conflict between communism and democracy.

This being so, what basis do we find for predicting that our way of life will be secure if Europe is strong and free in '52?

Well, for one thing, while the far east might in time become the decisive theater in the battle of the isms, the fact remains that the western world's greatest immediate threat comes from Europe. True, that threat has lessened measurably with the success of the Marshall plan and the signing of the Atlantic pact. But the danger still exists and will continue to exist, despite western Europe's recovery, until some further great development takes place.

What new development could alter this grim picture? There seems to be only one answer to that at this reading. It would be the failure of communism to hold the peoples of the various countries which have been absorbed into the Soviet bloc. That is to say, the rejection of communism by these peoples.

What reason is there to suppose they might reject it? The answer is that present day communism isn't the text-book brand of the ism which many folk had thought it to be. As Mr. Hoffman says: "Basically, communism is a rather idealistic concept, carrying with it connotations of sharing and universal brotherhood. In its pure form, almost the worst thing that can be said about communism is that it won't work."

However, times have changed. Today's communism isn't the old brand. It is totalitarian bolshevism. This fact gradually has become clear since the world war, as communism has taken over country after country in eastern Europe. There are plenty of indications that there is dissatisfaction among the peoples of the satellites.

Whether that dissatisfaction could develop to a point where those countries might reject communism remains to be seen. If and when that happens, the Democratic way of life may be secure. Pending that contingency, the security would seem to be doubtful.

Looking Ahead
IN WASHINGTON

(By The World Staff of Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Agricultural economists advise that you keep an eye on crop weather conditions this spring and summer if you want an advance idea on how business conditions may be next fall and winter.

Unusually favorable weather, they say, will mean big crops—surpluses of some—and lower farm prices and smaller farm income.

Farm buying of industrial products could be expected to drop off accordingly, these experts say, and naturally any lessening of rural demand for city products would be felt in reduced industrial production, employment and city spending.

These economists say that some of the current indications of weakening business conditions reflect a substantial reduction in farm prices from last year's peak. While farm income has not declined so much as prices, many farmers are spending cautiously because they fear further price drops.

Russian 'Miracle' Wheat?

Washington—Russia has given itself the opportunity to prove one of its fantastic scientific claims.

It has announced the development of a new variety of wheat, called "branched wheat." The announcement said it will produce 75 to 112 bushels an acre.

Average production in Russia has been 15 bushels an acre. Last year Russia produced 1,225,000,000 bushels. Thus if production were to be increased to just 75 per acre, Russia would produce more than 6,000,000,000 bushels—the total of world production in 1948.

Some grain experts may be watching next fall's production announcement on branched wheat with alarm, for if the prediction stands up Russia could upset world wheat markets. But U. S. agriculture department scientists aren't concerned.

They say: "We've had branched wheat for 30 or 40 years. If it is what we think it is, it isn't much good."

Strike Up The Band!

Washington—President Truman is concerned about the reception Washington will give President Eurico Gaspar Dutra of Brazil when Dutra arrives here May 18 for a 10-day tour of the U. S.

Mr. Truman was given a thunderous reception by almost a million persons when he went to Rio De Janeiro two years ago. He has told Stanley Woodward, chief protocol officer, he was afraid Washington's reception for Dutra might not compare with the one he got in Rio.

A special citizen's committee has gone to work planning a big affair, and Woodward is assuring Mr. Truman he need not worry.

Brazil is reputed the best U. S. friend in South America, has fought with Uncle Sam in two wars.

Come On In

Berlin—One happy result of lifting of the Russian blockade will be that people soon will be able to swim and fish in the three big lakes in the British-American zones again.

Sewage pumping was cut down because the blockade reduced fuel and power supplies. This polluted the lakes.

More Meat?

SYDNEY, Australia.—Government scientists say 250,000,000 pounds of mutton a year could be produced by adding small quantities of cobalt, copper and zinc sulphates to the soil of 90 miles desert.

Experiments showed these salts would make rich grass grow at a cost of about 80 cents an acre.

More Fun?

HARROGATE, England.—(AP)—Away with Britain's blue Sundays!

That's the way to bring more dollar-spending tourists, the Public Transportation Association was told at its convention.

James Amos, a Scottish delegate, said it was time "we took steps to play down the impression that touring Britain is synonymous with austere and comfortless conditions."

Grass Roots

WASHINGTON.—The first of that series of regional conferences the Republicans have been talking about will come off June 10-11 at Los Angeles. GOP state chairmen and vice chairmen and national committeemen from 11 coast and mountain states will attend. Reclamation and conservation policies may figure largely in the talks.

Democrats plan a conference of midwest chairmen and national committeemen at Des Moines, June 12 and 13.

Hal Boyle's
NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The poor man's philosopher asks:

Is mankind getting more cruel?

This is a question in many minds today. And many have decided in their own hearts that the answer is yes.

Such a conclusion is bad indeed for the world. For if a majority of people really believed mankind were getting more cruel, then mankind would soon actually be more cruel. For what men believe they are, they tend in time to become.

But most people just wonder about whether cruelty is dying or growing. Here is what a few have said to me:

A Negro steward—"People are more cruel, because they aren't as polite as they were even 20 years ago. And how about these stories in the papers of children killing other children? Isn't that a terrible sign of what's wrong?"

A combat veteran—"I don't know. But I do know we had more fellow feeling between men fighting overseas than we do now at home in peace."

A businessman—"People aren't getting more cruel. They're just being crowded harder—that's all."

An experienced editor—"The cussedness man was born with just has more chance to show itself now."

A salesgirl—"When I get up in the morning, I don't think people are getting any more cruel. But by 5 o'clock in the afternoon I'm not so sure. I guess how you feel about that depends on what's happened to you."

It is a mixed up question at best. Perhaps in no other generation in history have the devil and the angel in man's dual nature contended harder for the mastery of his soul.

In what other 35-year period have more people been starved to death, destroyed in warfare, executed in mass murders, or killed by accidents?

Yet in what other similar period have more people won or sustained political independence? In what other period has mankind made more social progress, achieved greater economic freedom, or made such startling conquests over disease?

The optimist says, "man is living longer."

And the cynic replies, "yes, but only to be miserable longer."

It is hard to decide whether many of mankind's steps are forward or backward. Life grinds people differently than it did a century ago.

Are the elderly better off now with old age pensions and the feeling they aren't wanted? Or were they better off in earlier generations when they had less money but a more secure place in the family household?

The dropping of the atom bombs can be regarded by most Japanese only as acts of cruelty. But the American soldier waiting to attack Japan is likely to feel it was insurance against his own death. And to him it was a kindness.

Who is more significant in our time and the history of our race—Adolf Hitler, who plunged the world into war and gassed six million captives, or Dr. Selman Waksman of Rutgers University, who discovered life-saving streptomycin?

It does appear that man is giving an odd answer to Cain's timeless query: "Am I my brother's keeper?" He is both his brother's keeper—and his brother's destroyer.

But as long as he keeps groping for something he hopes will be better than he has known it is impossible to say man is getting any crueler.

NEVILLE FACULTY MEN TO LA. TECH

D. W. Griffith and J. W. Hammett of Neville High School faculty will again join the mathematics faculty of Louisiana Tech for the 1949 summer session as acting assistant professor. Mr. Hammett received the B. S. degree from Louisiana Tech in 1922 and the M. A. degree from L. S. U. in 1929, and has served in a number of school systems of this state in the capacity of high school principal and teacher in various fields, and taught for two years in an outstanding junior college of Missouri prior to coming to Monroe where he has taught since 1930, as instructor in the science and math departments.

Mr. Griffith received the B. S. degree from North Texas State in 1925 and the M. A. degree from the University of Colorado in 1930. Prior to coming to Monroe in 1929, he served as high school principal, teacher of mathematics and science and athletic director in Texas high schools for a number of years. Since joining the Monroe city school faculty in 1929, he has except for time on military leave, been head of the mathematics department.

Governors and legislators will take part. Secretary of Agriculture Brannan will explain the administration's new farm program.

Gas-Saver

WARSAW, Poland. — (AP) — Poles claim a fluid called "BAB" will save on gasoline. They make their own mixture of 60 per cent petrol and equal parts of alcohol and benzol.

Illinois Politics

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Former congressman Everett M. Dirksen is expected to seek the Republican nomination next April for the senate seat now held by Democrat Scott Lucas.

Because of his Internationalist views, he probably will have strong primary opposition but so far is the only aspirant close to formal announcement. He has recovered from the eye ailment that forced him to retire from congress.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(AP)—Democratic Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson is "very disheartened" because in four months of the six-month legislature session he has achieved none of his major goals.

When Stevenson was elected he was heralded as a possible 1952 candidate for president. He said: "Better wait and see how I do as governor."

State Republican leaders meanwhile are keeping an eye on the man credited with forcing Stevenson to accept GOP substitutes for two of his major legislative goals.

He is Wallace Thompson, a rising newcomer who is leader of the Republican state senate majority. The GOP leaders see him as at least a possible entry for governor in 1952, perhaps even for the senate next year.

Through the new Palomar telescope, scientists could see a light the size of a candle 40,000 miles away.

In Hollywood With
JIMMIE FIDLER

HOLLYWOOD, May 14.—I hear that Doris Day will be starred by Warner Brothers in a story closely paralleling that of Margaret Truman; the picture will be laid in a mythical kingdom . . . Mrs. John Wayne, ill for months last winter, is bedded again—this time with ptomaine poisoning . . . Altar-bound: Screen Comic Allan Jenkins and Lillian Kinkela, a former flight nurse whom he met in England while he was entertaining troops during the war.

The reconciliation between Judy Garland and Vincent Minelli, engineeded by Louis B. Mayer, isn't working out; Judy tells pals that she'll definitely file for divorce . . . Bob Crosby has scheduled a major operation and will enter the hospital soon after he starts his summer "vacation." . . . Wotzis about Dane Clark being severely injured during a scene for his current picture when a revolver, loaded with blanks, was fired too close to his chest by fellow actor Raymond Massey? . . . Terry Kilburn, one time kid star featured in "Goodbye. Mr. Chips," will file for American citizenship.

Rumors are flying, again, about trouble 'twixt Ginger Rogers and her husband, Jack Briggs . . . Secretly married in Tijuana: Neila Hart, Robert Sterling's sister, and Rocky Mari, night club entertainer . . . Errol Flynn has hung "For Sale" signs on that famous hilitop mansion and instructed his Hollywood agent to find him suitable bachelor quarters . . . Time out for John (Shirley Temple's husband) Agar, ill with blood poisoning resulting from a hand injury.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of a lacklustre week: 20th Century-Fox's "It Happens Every Spring" (Ray Milland-Jean Peters-Paul Douglas). A new slant on the national pastime—and one that's good for a barrage of laughs . . . GOOD: Plymouth Productions' "Arctic Fury" (Del Cambre-Ava Miller-Gloria Petroff). Off-the-beaten-path screen fare based on the real-life adventures of an heroic doctor, and filmed entirely in northern Alaska . . . SO-SO: Republic's "Susanna Pass" (Roy Rogers-Dale Evans). Approximately par for the course . . . Warner Brothers' "The Younger Brothers" (Wayne Morris-Janis Paige-Bruce Bennett). Once again Hollywood glamorizes — and whitewashes—one of the old West's most villainous outlaw gangs . . . Columbia's "The Lost Tribe" (Johnny Weissmuller-Myrna Dell-Elena Verdugo). Comic book stuff, done in better than average fashion . . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Ray Milland in "It Happens Every Spring."

News that "Intermezzo," Ingrid Bergman's first American-made film, is being hastily dusted off for re-release, in an obvious effort to cash in on the sensation stirred up by her rumored romance with Director Roberto Rossellini, could quite logically be construed by theater-goers as an insulting comment on their intelligence. It demonstrates, on the part of Producer David O. Selznick, a cynical belief that American movie fans are so impressed by a headline scandal that they will rush to the box-office and plunk out their cash to see the lady who's making the headlines. The public, in my opinion, could do themselves a lasting favor by proving Mr. Selznick one hundred per cent wrong. It's high time to serve notice on American showmen that scandal is not good exploitation for screen stars.

For several days, a Hollywood trade paper, without any contradiction, has been printing stories about the amazing conditions which pertain in two major studios. It states, in so many words, that the big bosses of those two lots have tapped the telephones of all the studio executives, and that they are having records made of all their subordinates' conversations.

Think that one over for a moment and you'll begin to understand one of the prime reasons for the big percentage of punk pictures. Good movies can be made only through cooperative effort, and cooperation is certainly impossible in an atmosphere of constant distrust.

A Los Angeles society columnist really outdid herself the other day in reporting the marriage of a movie starlet to a wealthy L. A. business man. She ended her detailed account of the wedding ceremony with a gushy tribute to the bride's popularity in Hollywood, and the awed statement that she (the starlet) has had dates with Clark Gable, John Payne, Orson Welles, Tony Martin, Greg Bautzer and Van Johnson. Presumably, the columnist was trying to be complimentary, but it strikes me that by embellishing her wedding story with a long list of the bride's exboyfriends she sorta violated the rules of good taste. I can't help wondering if the groom felt flattered.

Getting back to the Bergman-Rossellini business for another moment, I note that four Hollywood stars, now planning trips to Italy, are including Stromboli in their itinerary. D'ya suppose the romance is a phony, cooked up, a la U. S. A., by the Stromboli Chamber of Commerce?

JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, whose scowl and tactics may have made him seem sort of set in his ways, isn't too old to learn.

At 69 he's trying something new: a smoother way of getting along with the public and the coal mine owners, his old antagonists.

Lewis has been a famous labor leader at least 30 years. He's moved from strike to strike and crisis to crisis in the coal fields.

He has roared at and denounced—roundly, publicly and loudly—the mine owners with whom he's had to bargain for his miners.

And year by year, whether or not you liked his tactics, he's won new and greater benefits for them.

But there's always been a question in people's minds:

Could he have done the same for his miners without the great strikes that cost the nation coal, the owners profits, and the miners wages?

The question will never be answered, of course, but Lewis' tactics have won him a lot of public criticism.

Maybe the bad reviews he's been getting in recent years every time he has come thundering into public view have disturbed him.

At any rate, he's not so set in his ways that he's not willing to learn something new. And he's willing to pay to learn.

On his payroll now he has Allied Syndicates, Inc., to help him out in his public relations.

And a friend of long standing, George Creel, who headed Woodrow Wilson's committee on public information in World War I, has slipped into town for a month to give Lewis a hand.

Creel at 73 is four years older than Lewis. He's an old-time newspaperman, author and magazine writer. And he feels this way about labor-management relations:

If labor and management are going to do decent bargaining when they sit down together, it's a good idea for them not to build up ill-will beforehand by name-calling.

This week Lewis' publicity firm, Allied Syndicates, Inc., got out a 5/12 page sketch of Lewis. You can be sure it's favorable to him.

It pictures him as a pretty genial man, which he probably is in spite of the times he's roared and scowled. It says:

"In private life, Mr. Lewis is by no means the 'gruff sourpuss' that many cartoonists and writers have endeavored to depict. He is one of the most affable, big-hearted men on the American scene."

And tomorrow Creel will distribute a report on the miners' health and welfare fund which Lewis won from the mine owners.

Trusting Creel, Lewis had many times asked him to come work with him a bit.

But some time ago Creel got sick in China, went to Baltimore for treatment, and stopped off here a month on his way back to California to help his friend, Lewis.

In the past few years Lewis has been explosive, has called big strikes, has been fined for contempt of court, and has gone roaring on his way.

Now suddenly—probably under the soft-stroking of his publicity advisers—his mood and approach seem to have changed, and softened.

In other springtimes when his contract with the mine owners was coming to an end, Lewis rumbled and hit the war drums.

This year it was different. He has started dealings with the owners on a new contract in a quiet and peaceful mood.

But you'll have to wait to learn how long that will last if the mine owners don't see things Big John's way.

Billy Rose:

PITCHING HORSESHOES

Twenty-one years ago, General MacArthur took a small army to Europe and beat the bejabbers out of fifty nations in less than a month. In this campaign, one of the general's soldiers was a goodlooking school kid from Brooklyn who, to hear the newspaper boys tell it, did right well on the battlefield.

Well, ten years ago I married the good-looking kid, and ten weeks ago she and I lunched with this same MacArthur at his residence in Tokyo.

All of which is my backhanded way of informing you that in 1928 the present bossman of Nippon was president of the American Olympic committee, and that one of the athletes he shepherded to Amsterdam was the baby backstroke wonder the record books respectfully refer to as Eleanor Holm.

At the luncheon party, I naturally expected to meet the MacArthur I had been reading about in recent years—a pontifical gent, given to posturing and thunderous phrases. But instead, I found myself across the table from a rather elegant old boy whose conversational gambits would have given a good account of themselves at Lindy's or in the bleachers at the Yankee Stadium. He talked easily, laughed from the belt up at the jokes which hadn't reached Tokyo yet, and gossiped expertly with Eleanor about the new crop of swimmers and "what ever became of" this and that athlete . . . .

Ever since the itinerary man at Thomas Cook's had said, "And then you go to Tokyo," I had been mind-massaging a question I intended to ask the supreme commander if I ever got within interviewing distance. And so, over the coffee I popped it.

"General," I said, "you, of course, know that a big hero's welcome has been waiting for you in the United States since 1945—the same sort of heart-warming whooptidoo that greeted Eisenhower. How come you've passed it up so far?"

MacArthur grinned, and it was a grin I had never seen in the newsreels. Then he started to talk and, when he had finished five minutes later, his eyes were moist, so were Eleanor's, and mine weren't exactly dust bowls.

"Too bad I didn't have a pad and pencil handy," I said as we got up from the table. "I'd like to run that answer verbatim in my column."

"I don't think anybody would especially care," said the general, and I got the impression he'd rather I let the matter drop.

Of course, I didn't. A few days after our Pan-Am sky-buggy deposited us back in New York, I wrote him, repeated my question and pointed out that his statement would appear in an impressive string of papers. This morning I got the following from Tokyo:

"Dear Mr. Rose:

"I have just received your note of April 24th and am delighted to learn from it that Eleanor and you returned safely after such a long and interest-packed trip. Mrs. MacArthur and I enjoyed immensely seeing you here and only wish that your stay could have been more prolonged.

"I recall your asking the question to which you make reference, but could not possibly now reconstruct the reply I then made. But no matter. The answer lies in the conscience of all good Americans who are entrusted with the public interest and one can find no more faithful explanation than in the one simple word, DUTY.

"The American public, however, is predominantly concerned with happenings and events, and I doubt its interest in the personal details concerning an individual public servant.

"With cordial regards to you both,

Very faithfully,

DOUGLAS MACARTHUR."

Well, the above is a nice enough letter but, unfortunately, it has none of the moving ad libs of the general's off-the-cuff answer. And, for his sake, I wish it weren't so, because it's my hunch that his full coffee time reply would have endeared him to a lot of people who think of him as nothing but a stuffed shirt with five stars on the collar.

I could write another finish to this column, of course, and tell you about the geisha girl I met, but MacArthur, my syndicate boss tells me, is a lot more newsworthy. And so, relying on what was once a good trick memory, I'm going to try to reconstruct part of his answer for you . . .

"There hasn't been a day in the past 13 years, Mr. Rose, that I haven't yearned to return to my country. My son, now 11 years old, has never been out of the Orient, and many's the night I've listened to his sainted mother try to explain to him what the United States is like . . .

"Certainly, I'd like to go home and take it easy—sit behind third base with a couple of old friends, eat a hot dog, drink a bottle of pop and rib the umpire on the close decisions. Yes, even drop in at your cabaret once in a while and make eyes at the pretty girls.

"But, as I see it, my job in Japan isn't finished. For centuries, one single person, rather than an organization, has been the symbol of authority to the Oriential mind and, during our occupation, I have become that symbol, and were I to return home—even for a few weeks—word would undoubtedly spread throughout the Orient that the United States was scuttling the Pacific. This, of course, mustn't happen.

"As of this afternoon, we have neither won nor lost the Battle of Japan. Our military victory is only part of the greater task, and what remains to be done is equally important. And I don't intend to walk out on this job until I die or am removed by my government.

"It may be a cup of ashes, but it's my drink."

small businesses were thrown into the total income and it was reallocated equally to all the people, the average raise to the wage earners would be very slight. This proves that, notwithstanding all manifest inequalities in distribution, it is not the very rich who hold the national wealth in their hands and away from the masses. To redistribute the total wealth with any degree of equality would be to levy upon the higher wage earners for the benefit of the lower wage earners. The relative amount contributed by the so-called very wealthy would raise the total average almost imperceptibly."

Two weaknesses are obvious in our approach to many problems: One is that we do not analyze them from a pro-American standpoint; the other is that we do not understand the basic philosophy of the enemies of America. Thus we have a "gray" approach, a sort of "anything goes" which is often called liberalism for want of an accurate description. We deal with individual situations on the basis of temporary improvisations, expecting that in the long run something will come out of it.

But the United States is not an accident. It is not a mere geographical expression. It is a way of life that has developed in this area over three centuries and which has justified itself by unparalleled accomplishments. Its philosophy needs to be shouted from the housetops because it has proved itself in the present world situation superior to that of any European or Asiatic nation. Our children—and we ourselves—need to understand it and we need to fight for it at home as much as abroad. Therefore, this pamphlet "American Primer" by Mrs. Cleaveland is offered as a guide.

gress employed was the so-called St. George bill, introduced by Mrs. Katherine St. George (Rep. N. Y.). It would set up a commission to set rates subject to congressional veto. It was approved by the house committee in the 80th congress.

Mrs. St. George has reintroduced the measure in the 81st congress. If congress wants to avoid taking the responsibility for any increases, it could thus pass the buck to a commission.

There is heavy doubt, however, that postal users will go for the commission idea. While it is argued on the one hand that this would remove the matter from the arena of congressional action, the objection is made that the matter belongs in the hands of congress.

Postal rates affect too many businesses too intimately to be put beyond the reach of the elected representatives of the people by the commission method, it is contended.

There was a lot of confusion over labor legislation in the house last week, but the prolonged, seemingly-futile wrangle did not make one fact clear: the congress wants the president to keep the right to take steps to protect the public interest in emergencies arising from strikes in key industries.

Whatever kind of labor bill the congress may pass in the future, it is certain to have a provision covering this point.

While many observers, oddly enough, failed to note it, union lobbyist on capitol hill last week for the first time showed a willingness to accept such a national emergency provision. They could not admit this publicly, for their top leaders are pledged to fight to the death against any strike injunction power, but they were realistic enough to accept the fact that the house would not accept any labor bill that did not have authorization for dealing with emergencies resulting from big strikes.

Just as the union lobbyists agreed tacitly to back the Sims substitute, granting these emergency powers, so will they make similar concessions in the future. They now know that the chances of going back to the hands-off policy of pre-Taft-Hartley Act are very slim indeed.

Another lesson learned from the labor bill war is that labor leaders and administration officials alike would do well to allow the house education and labor committee to perfom its normal function of working out what a majority of the committee can agree upon as a workable labor relations bill.

Largely because of this outside pressure, a number of younger members of the committee went along with Chairman Lesinski in simply rubberstaping a bill sent by the administration. This is not likely to happen again. In fact, the main factor in getting a sufficient number of votes changed to kill the Wood substitute for the administration bill was the promise of several committee members that next time they would take the time to really try to write a generally acceptable bill.

Indian Technicians

NEW DELHI, India.—(AP)—The government is building up an army of technicians to avoid a bottleneck in its industrialization program.

Needs are estimated at nearly 30,000 technicians a year. India produced only about one third that number the past two or three years. The government is now running 450 training centers.

The few remaining birds of the once numerous whooping crane flocks winter on the Texas coast.

DeWitt Mackenzie:

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Paul G. Hoffman, director of the economic cooperation administration, told an Indiana University audience the other day that "our way of life will be secure if Europe is strong and free in 1952."

Mr. Hoffman's prediction of course is based on the fact that the Marshall plan is due to wind up its operations in 1952. He said the plan had "stopped the Kremlin cold" in western Europe, and that if recovery is accomplished by then "it is more than probable that the Kremlin will decide on a policy of 'live and let live.'"

That's a prophesy which invites analysis, and since the E. C. A. director isn't here to do it for us, let's take a look at it ourselves. As I see it the position is this:

It's true that the "cold war" aspect of the Communist offensive has been halted along the Stettin-Adriatic line through central Europe. However, the revolutionary tactics of Communists in western European countries—especially the powerful French and Italian parties—continue in full force. They will gain control of their governments if it is humanly possible.

Meantime, out in the far east Communist armies are sweeping southward across China. Northern Korea is Communistic, and is reaching for control of the southern half of that strategic land. Burma, Indonesia and other Asiatic countries are torn by Communistic uprisings. As the signs now read the Orient is likely to become increasingly a theater of conflict between communism and democracy.

This being so, what basis do we find for predicting that our way of life will be secure if Europe is strong and free in '52?

Well, for one thing, while the far east might in time become the decisive theater in the battle of the isms, the fact remains that the western world's greatest immediate threat comes from Europe. True, that threat has lessened measurably with the success of the Marshall plan and the signing of the Atlantic pact. But the danger still exists and will continue to exist, despite western Europe's recovery, until some further great development takes place.

What new development could alter this grim picture? There seems to be only one answer to that at this reading. It would be the failure of communism to hold the peoples of the various countries which have been absorbed into the Soviet bloc. That is to say, the rejection of communism by these peoples.

What reason is there to suppose they might reject it? The answer is that present day communism isn't the text-book brand of the ism which many folk had thought it to be. As Mr. Hoffman says: "Basically, communism is a rather idealistic concept, carrying with it connotations of sharing and universal brotherhood. In its pure form, almost the worst thing that can be said about communism is that it won't work."

However, times have changed. Today's communism isn't the old brand. It is totalitarian bolshevism. This fact gradually has become clear since the world war, as communism has taken over country after country in eastern Europe. There are plenty of indications that there is dissatisfaction among the peoples of the satellites.

Whether that dissatisfaction could develop to a point where those countries might reject communism remains to be seen. If and when that happens, the Democratic way of life may be secure. Pending that contingency, the security would seem to be doubtful.

Looking Ahead

IN WASHINGTON

(By The World Staff of Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Agricultural economists advise that you keep an eye on crop weather conditions this spring and summer if you want an advance idea on how business conditions may be next fall and winter.

Unusually favorable weather, they say, will mean big crops—surpluses of some—and lower farm prices and smaller farm income.

Farm buying of industrial products could be expected to drop off accordingly, these experts say, and naturally any lessening of rural demand for city products would be felt in reduced industrial production, employment and city spending.

These economists say that some of the current indications of weakening business conditions reflect a substantial reduction in farm prices from last year's peak. While farm income has not declined so much as prices, many farmers are spending cautiously because they fear further price drops.

Russian 'Miracle' Wheat?

Washington—Russia has given itself the opportunity to prove one of its fantastic scientific claims.

It has announced the development of a new variety of wheat, called "branched wheat." The announcement said it will produce 75 to 112 bushels an acre.

Average production in Russia has been 15 bushels an acre. Last year Russia produced 1,225,000,000 bushels. Thus if production were to be increased to just 75 per acre, Russia would produce more than 6,000,000,000 bushels—the total of world production in 1948.

Some grain experts may be watching next fall's production announcement on branched wheat with alarm, for if the prediction stands up Russia could upset world wheat markets. But U. S. agriculture department scientists aren't concerned.

They say: "We've had branched wheat for 30 or 40 years. If it is what we think it is, it isn't much good."

Strike Up The Band!

Washington—President Truman is concerned about the reception Washington will give President Eurico Gaspar Dutra of Brazil when Dutra arrives here May 18 for a 10-day tour of the U. S.

Mr. Truman was given a thunderous reception by almost a million persons when he went to Rio De Janeiro two years ago. He has told Stanley Woodward, chief protocol officer, he was afraid Washington's reception for Dutra might not compare with the one he got in Rio.

A special citizen's committee has gone to work planning a big affair, and Woodward is assuring Mr. Truman he need not worry.

Brazil is reputed the best U. S. friend in South America, has fought with Uncle Sam in two wars.

Come On In

Berlin—One happy result of lifting of the Russian blockade will be that people soon will be able to swim and fish in the three big lakes in the British-American zones again.

Sewage pumping was cut down because the blockade reduced fuel and power supplies. This polluted the lakes.

More Meat?

SYDNEY, Australia.—Government scientists say 250,000,000 pounds of mutton a year could be produced by adding small quantities of cobalt, copper and zinc sulphates to the soil of 90 miles desert.

Experiments showed these salts would make rich grass grow at a cost of about 80 cents an acre.

More Fun?

HARROGATE, England.—(AP)—Away with Britain's blue Sundays!

That's the way to bring more dollar-spending tourists, the Public Transportation Association was told at its convention.

James Amos, a Scottish delegate, said it was time "we took steps to play down the impression that touring Britain is synonymous with austere and comfortless conditions."

Grass Roots

WASHINGTON.—The first of that series of regional conferences the Republicans have been talking about will come off June 10-11 at Los Angeles. GOP state chairmen and vice chairmen and national committeemen from 11 coast and mountain states will attend. Reclamation and conservation policies may figure largely in the talks.

Democrats plan a conference of midwest chairmen and national committeemen at Des Moines, June 12 and 13.

Hal Boyle's

NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The poor man's philosopher asks:

Is mankind getting more cruel?

This is a question in many minds today. And many have decided in their own hearts that the answer is yes.

Such a conclusion is bad indeed for the world. For if a majority of people really believed mankind were getting more cruel, then mankind would soon actually be more cruel. For what men believe they are, they tend in time to become.

But most people just wonder about whether cruelty is dying or growing. Here is what a few have said to me:

A Negro steward—"People are more cruel, because they aren't as polite as they were even 20 years ago. And how about these stories in the papers of children killing other children? Isn't that a terrible sign of what's wrong?"

A combat veteran—"I don't know. But I do know we had more fellow feeling between men fighting overseas than we do now at home in peace."

A businessman—"People aren't getting more cruel. They're just being crowded harder—that's all."

An experienced editor—"The cussedness man was born with just has more chance to show itself now."

A salesgirl—"When I get up in the morning, I don't think people are getting any more cruel. But by 5 o'clock in the afternoon I'm not so sure. I guess how you feel about that depends on what's happened to you."

It is a mixed up question at best. Perhaps in no other generation in history have the devil and the angel in man's dual nature contended harder for the mastery of his soul.

In what other 35-year period have more people been starved to death, destroyed in warfare, executed in mass murders, or killed by accidents?

Yet in what other similar period have more people won or sustained political independence? In what other period has mankind made more social progress, achieved greater economic freedom, or made such startling conquests over disease?

The optimist says, "man is living longer."

And the cynic replies, "yes, but only to be miserable longer."

It is hard to decide whether many of mankind's steps are forward or backward. Life grinds people differently than it did a century ago.

Are the elderly better off now with old age pensions and the feeling they aren't wanted? Or were they better off in earlier generations when they had less money but a more secure place in the family household?

The dropping of the atom bombs can be regarded by most Japanese only as acts of cruelty. But the American soldier waiting to attack Japan is likely to feel it was insurance against his own death. And to him it was a kindness.

Who is more significant in our time and the history of our race—Adolf Hitler, who plunged the world into war and gassed six million captives, or Dr. Selman Waksman of Rutgers University, who discovered life-saving streptomycin?

It does appear that man is giving an odd answer to Cain's timeless query: "Am I my brother's keeper?" He is both his brother's keeper—and his brother's destroyer.

But as long as he keeps groping for something he hopes will be better than he has known it is impossible to say man is getting any crueler.

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

CURSING

The English language is a rich, full, and expressive tongue, and it can be made to say anything we want to say in clear-cut, beautiful words. There is no need for cursing and obscenity. Such talk indicates a mind undisciplined and untaught, a lack of refinement and often of common decency.

The worst of the matter is that the talk adults use becomes the standard of speech for the younger ones. The younger they are the more impressive dramatic language, colorful words that are seldom heard in their lives at home, becomes. They learn to talk by imitating the talk they hear, and they pick up these bad words, these ugly, irreverent, indecent words, as soon as they begin to talk.

Mothers are shocked when a sweet-faced child comes in at noon and demands in swaggering style where his blankety-blank lunch is. This is likely to bring on a dramatic scene and that again impresses the little one. It makes him the star of a performance and he loves it.

In my experience the best thing to do with such a demonstration is to look scornfully down one's nose and say, "You know where the bathroom is. Go wash your mouth clean before you eat the clean lunch I have for you." Then see that he does a thorough job of the rinsing. The less talk about it the better. Doing something like this is better than speech and the stern silence that accompanies the performance is very effective.

There is little mothers can do to spare their children's ears such language, prevent their hearing it, because too many people are so poverty-stricken in vocabulary that they have to fall back on the few expressive—expressive for them—words they know, and keep repeating them.

The dirty words and the curses are bad enough but when the name of God is used slightingly, coarsely, irreverently, it is beyond all limits of good behavior, propor speech, good taste. Sin is a good word that has lost its force in many families but it can never lose its meaning, nor its logical consequences, when expressed in action. Using the name of the Diety irreverently is a sin and children should be taught just that, taught religiously to honor that name.

The best speech possible, the clearest and cleanest, is none to good for the children to hear and to learn. When they bring home the wrong words the atmosphere should be heavy with disapproval. There are few children who will persist in wrongdoing when the home atmosphere is right.

A child who likes his food is a joy to his mother. Learn how to plan your child's feeding so he will enjoy eating. Dr. Patri explains in a helpful booklet, No. 303, "Eating." NEVILLE FACULTY MEN TO LA. TECH

D. W. Griffith and J. W. Hammett of Neville High School faculty will again join the mathematics faculty of Louisiana Tech for the 1949 summer session as acting assistant professor. Mr. Hammett received the B. S. degree from Louisiana Tech in 1922 and the M. A. degree from L. S. U. in 1929, and has served in a number of school systems of this state in the capacity of high school principal and teacher in various fields, and taught for two years in an outstanding junior college of Missouri prior to coming to Monroe where he has taught since 1930, as instructor in the science and math departments.

Mr. Griffith received the B. S. degree from North Texas State in 1925 and the M. A. degree from the University of Colorado in 1930. Prior to coming to Monroe in 1929, he served as high school principal, teacher of mathematics and science and athletic director in Texas high schools for a number of years. Since joining the Monroe city school faculty in 1929, he has except for time on military leave, been head of the mathematics department.

Governors and legislators will take part. Secretary of Agriculture Brannan will explain the administration's new farm program.

Gas-Saver

WARSAW, Poland. —(AP)— Poles claim a fluid called "BAB" will save on gasoline. They make their own mixture of 60 per cent petrol and equal parts of alcohol and benzol.

Illinois Politics

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Former congressman Everett M. Dirksen is expected to seek the Republican nomination next April for the senate seat now held by Democrat Scott Lucas.

Because of his Internationalist views, he probably will have strong primary opposition but so far is the only aspirant close to formal announcement. He has recovered from the eye ailment that forced him to retire from congress.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(AP)—Democratic Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson is "very disheartened" because in four months of the six-month legislature session he has achieved none of his major goals.

When Stevenson was elected he was heralded as a possible 1952 candidate for president. He said: "Better wait and see how I do as governor."

State Republican leaders meanwhile are keeping an eye on the man credited with forcing Stevenson to accept GOP substitutes for two of his major legislative goals.

He is Wallace Thompson, a rising newcomer who is leader of the Republican state senate majority. The GOP leaders see him as at least a possible entry for governor in 1952, perhaps even for the senate next year.

Through the new Palomar telescope, scientists could see a light the size of a candle 40,000 miles away.

JIMMIE FIDLER

HOLLYWOOD, May 14.—I hear that Doris Day will be starred by Warner Brothers in a story closely paralleling that of Margaret Truman; the picture will be laid in a mythical kingdom . . . Mrs. John Wayne, ill for months last winter, is bedded again—this time with ptomaine poisoning . . . Altar-bound: Screen Comic Allan Jenkins and Lillian Kinkela, a former flight nurse whom he met in England while he was entertaining troops during the war.

The reconciliation between Judy Garland and Vincent Minelli, engineeded by Louis B. Mayer, isn't working out; Judy telis pals that she'll definitely file for divorce . . . Bob Crosby has scheduled a major operation and will enter the hospital soon after he starts his summer "vacation." . . . Wotzis about Dane Clark being severely injured during a scene for his current picture when a revolver, loaded with blanks, was fired too close to his chest by fellow actor Raymond Massey? . . . Terry Kilburn, one time kid star featured in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," will file for American citizenship.

Rumors are flying, again, about trouble 'twixt Ginger Rogers and her husband, Jack Briggs . . . Secretly married in Tijuana: Neila Hart, Robert Sterling's sister, and Rocky Mari, night club entertainer . . . Errol Flynn has hung "For Sale" signs on that famous hilltop mansion and instructed his Hollywood agent to find him suitable bachelor quarters . . . Time out for John (Shirley Temple's husband) Agar, ill with blood poisoning resulting from a hand injury.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of a lackluster week: 20th Century-Fox's "It Happens Every Spring" (Ray Milland-Jean Peters-Paul Douglas). A new slant on the national pastime—and one that's good for a barrage of laughs . . . GOOD: Plymouth Productions' "Arctic Fury" (Del Cambre-Ava Miller-Gloria Petroff). Off-the-beaten-path screen fare based on the real-life adventures of an heroic doctor, and filmed entirely in northern Alaska . . . SO-SO: Republic's "Susanna Pass" (Roy Rogers-Dale Evans). Approximately par for the course . . . Warner Brothers' "The Younger Brothers" (Wayne Morris-Janis Paige-Bruce Bennett). Once again Hollywood glamorizes—and whitewashes—one of the old West's most villainous outlaw gangs . . . Columbia's "The Lost Tribe" (Johnny Weissmuller-Myrna Dell-Elena Verdugo). Comic book stuff, done in better than average fashion . . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Ray Milland in "It Happens Every Spring."

News that "Intermezzo," Ingrid Bergman's first American-made film, is being hastily dusted off for re-release, in an obvious effort to cash in on the sensation stirred up by her rumored romance with Director Roberto Rossellini, could quite logically be construed by theater-goers as an insulting comment on their intelligence. It demonstrates, on the part of Producer David O. Selznick, a cynical belief that American movie fans are so impressed by a headline scandal that they will rush to the box-office and plunk out their cash to see the lady who's making the headlines. The public, in my opinion, could do themselves a lasting favor by proving Mr. Selznick one hundred per cent wrong. It's high time to serve notice on American showmen that scandal is not good exploitation for screen stars.

For several days, a Hollywood trade paper, without any contradiction, has been printing stories about the amazing conditions which pertain in two major studios. It states, in so many words, that the big bosses of those two lots have tapped the telephones of all the studio executives, and that they are having records made of all their subordinates' conversations.

Think that one over for a moment and you'll begin to understand one of the prime reasons for the big percentage of punk pictures. Good movies can be made only through cooperative effort, and cooperation is certainly impossible in an atmosphere of constant distrust.

A Los Angeles society columnist really outdid herself the other day in reporting the marriage of a movie starlet to a wealthy L. A. business man. She ended her detailed account of the wedding ceremony with a gushy tribute to the bride's popularity in Hollywood, and the awed statement that she (the starlet) has had dates with Clark Gable, John Payne, Orson Welles, Tony Martin, Greg Bautzer and Van Johnson. Presumably, the columnist was trying to be complimentary, but it strikes me that by embellishing her wedding story with a long list of the bride's ex-boyfriends she sorta violated the rules of good taste. I can't help wondering if the groom felt flattered.

Getting back to the Bergman-Rossellini business for another moment, I note that four Hollywood stars, now planning trips to Italy, are including Stromboli in their itinerary. D'ya suppose the romance is a phony, cooked up, a la U. S. A., by the Stromboli Chamber of Commerce?

MEETING OF C.I.O. BOARD IS SLATED

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—C. I. O. Right and Left Wing leaders, resentful over recent internal clashes, were converging on Washington today for the first meeting of the 52-man C. I. O. executive board in six months.

Grvyds, table-thumping, and important decisions are expected. One important decision likely will be to yank the C. I. O. out of the World Federation of Trade Unions.

The board also may take some action toward organizing white-collar and government workers. C. I. O. President Philip Murray told the C. I. O. convention last November in Portland, Ore., that present C. I. O. unions have "failed" in those fields.

The C. I. O.'s top officers, 11 of them, meet Monday. The board itself meets Tuesday and Wednesday. In some respects the sessions may be a resumption of the Portland convention where Murray made C. I. O. history with his denunciations of the Communists. But unlike the convention the meetings will be held behind a thick door, and reporters must wait outside and find out later what happened.

During the last few weeks the C. I. O.'s internal warfare has been heated up by the following conflicts:

1. A fist fight in a Blessemer, Ala., radio studio. Maurice E. Travis, secretary-treasurer of the Left-Wing mine, mill and smelter workers, was beaten. His union blamed members of Phil Murray's own steelworkers union. A $100,000 damage suit was filed. Left-Wing unions have showered C. I. O. headquarters with bitter telegrams.

2. A revolt against the C. I. O. leadership by Harry Bridges and his Left-Wing longshoremen's union at their San Francisco convention. The union announced that the C. I. O. may try to split parts of its membership away. It resolved to resist such a move with its "full wrath and action." It instructed its officers to fight for "reforms" to make the C. I. O. more "democratic." It defended the W. F. T. U.

Bridges rarely attends an executive board meeting. But the latest word from San Francisco is that he is coming to this one.

3. Bitter disagreement among lobbyists for C. I. O. unions during the house debate on the Taft-Hartley act. Some Right-Wingers advised congressmen to vote for compromise amendments to the Truman administration labor bill. The Left-Wingers, along with John L. Lewis's independent United Mine Workers, cried aloud against any compromise.

No one doubts that the board will vote for C. I. O. withdrawal from the W. F. T. U. The C. I. O. and A. F. L. are planning to take part in the formation of a new world labor organization in Switzerland next month.

One vexing question, however, is what to do about C. I. O. union leaders who refuse to accept the C. I. O. withdrawal.

Bridges' union has already passed a resolution saying that "no individual or organization" is authorized to pull the longshoremen out of the W. F. T. U.

The resolution also demanded that the C. I. O. submit the question of C. I. O. withdrawal to a referendum vote of the 41 C. I. O. unions.

In addition, Bridges and Donald Henderson, president of the Food and Tobacco Workers Union, have shown signs of continuing to take part in W. F. T. U. activities regardless of whether the C. I. O. gets out.

What would—or could—the C. I. O. do then? Murray's position has been that in international matters, the C. I. O. must act as a unit, Left-Wing unions reject that idea and assert their autonomy.

EVE CAMILLE BRADFORD — A charter member of Little Theatre and one of its staunchest supporters and publicists, handled all of the organizations write-ups since its beginning up until last year. A very gracious lady who numbers her friends in the legions and for twenty-eight years society editor of the Monroe papers, was born in Manistee, Mich. and attended the Ursiline Academy in northern Michigan.

When your reporter visited her in her suite at the Frances Hotel where she has been a resident guest for the past fifteen years with her mother, Mrs. Daniel Bradford, it was her birthday, Friday, May 13th, but with a twinkle in her eyes she said that she wasn't the least bit superstitious about Friday 13th because she was born on Friday 13th. There amid a profusion of beautiful birthday gifts and remembrances, we spent a pleasant hour reviewing her thirty-nine years in Monroe. She recalled that her very first and only job was society editor for the Monroe paper and she said, "In those first crude beginnings to write, I owe much to Editor Dorch Campbell who sent me out to cover all sorts of assignments, even to police jury meetings. And he even had me doing proof reading."

There was deepest understanding in her voice when she said, "It took a prolonged illness for me to realize how wonderful people really are. It seems to be a sad fact in so many people's lives that they are so busy living they miss some of the greatest joy of appreciating people." She said that she had been deeply touched by the kindness, understanding and generosity of her publisher, Wilson Ewing.

One of the prides of her twenty-eight years of work that she cherishes most was the privilege of working with Monroe club women. She is an honorary member of the Business and Professional Women's club, a charter member of Little Theatre, honorary member of The Monroe Garden Club, a member of the Fine Arts Club and Civic Music Association and was an honorary member of the Lotus Club. Eve personally interviewed most of the guest artists brought here by the Civic Music Association.

Her chief hobbies are traveling and meeting people. In travel she prefers flying and holds the distinction of being the first and only passenger on the Delta Air Lines when it made its inaugural flight. She has traveled from coast to coast, vacationed in Canada and Mexico, gone by ship many times from New Orleans to New York, from Los Angeles to San Francisco, but the highlight of her travels came when she visited her nephew and "adopted son," Daniel Bradford, at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He is a member of the class of '50 and she is eagerly looking forward to making the trek up there to see him graduate.

She said that one of her dreams had been to see Monroe Little Theatre with its own play house. "Little Theatre is the cleanest, most wholesome type of entertainment in creative art. It brings people together in a spirit of Camaraderie, where they work together, become acquainted with an exchange of ideas and association that culminate in spiritual, mental and creative growth."

Grandstand Collapses As Racers Tune Up Vehicles

INDIANAPOLIS, May 14.—(AP)—A section of a grandstand collapsed beneath the weight of Indianapolis Motor speedway fans today, causing serious injury to one Indianapolis man and cuts and bruises to 28 others.

Approximately 5,000 of the more than 50,000 persons out to watch the opening of qualifications of the 500-mile race May 30 were crowded into the old wooden structure on the long southwest turn when the cave-in occurred.

The collapse took place in two boxes on the first level of the stands, and the other fans in the area were not affected by the accident.

One eyewitness said the floor "opened up like a zipper." Speedway officials blamed the collapse on overloading by fans seeking the best seats along the edge of the track.

Thirteen of the injured were taken to Indianapolis General Hospital. The other 16 injured were treated at the emergency hospital which is set up on the infield of the big two and a half mile oval.

The qualifications were interrupted briefly by the accident.

Joe Quinn, Speedway safety director, said the injured persons fell about 15 feet to the ground. He said the wooden stands had been inspected and approved before opening the grounds to the public.

General hospital listed the most seriously injured as Lesley Clark, 42, of route 17, Indianapolis. He suffered a possible concussion.

The other injured taken to the hospital were Kurt Mahrot, 14; Richard Mahan, 17; James Mahan, 8; Albert Turk, 22, Albin Turk, 26; Earl Moore, Sr., 37; Earl Moore, Jr., 17; Irwin Herdon, 44; Eddie Wetzel, 46, Harry Bennett, 37, Joe Moscrella, 30, and Mildred Moore, 33, all of Indianapolis.

Albert Bloemker, director of public relations for the Speedway, said the accident was caused by "overtaxing" the grandstand. There were as many as 15 to 18 persons crowded into boxes that were built to normally hold six to eight persons," he said.

YOUTH KILLS SMALL BROTHER WITH AUTO

SCOTTDALE, Pa., May 14.—(AP)—Richard Thorn drove down the driveway of his home and on to a baseball game yesterday.

His father looked out a window and saw the body of Richard's five-year-old brother, Arthur, lying in the driveway. Richard was called home from the ball game.

Coroner Joseph Check said Arthur, 18, apparently didn't realize the car had struck his brother on the rough driveway. "It was purely accidental," Check reported. "There will be no inquest."

TRIBUTE IS PAID AIRLIFT FLYERS

Men Who Died While Supplying Berlin Get Special Army Attention

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The armed forces today paid special tribute to the 28 Americans killed in the Berlin airlift who, says Defense Secretary Johnson, "gave their lives for their country in the same spirit as those in World War II."

Johnson announced that the national military establishment is sending special certificates of honor to the next of kin. These awards were authorized at the suggestion of Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.), a member of the foreign relations committee.

Since the start of the lift on June 26, 1948, 25 air force men, one army, one navy and one U. S. civilian have died.

The military establishment also said military decorations will be conferred for individual achievements or acts of heroism by military personnel assigned to the lift. In addition, the Occupation Medal and the "Berlin Airlift Device" decoration has been authorized for all personnel who participated in direct support of "operation vittles" for 90 consecutive days.

The special certificates are engraved, bear the seal of the national military establishment and the signature of the defense secretary. Titled "Honorable Service In The Armed Forces of The United States," the parchment contains the name of the individual, the date of death and the certification that he died "while in the service of our country as a member of the Berlin airlift."

A total of 29 planes have been wrecked in the airlift project—20 four-engined C-54s, eight twin-engined C-47s, one C-82 twin-engined cargo transport. Total value of the planes was about $7,522,000.

MEETING OF C.I.O. BOARD IS SLATED

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—C. I. O. Right and Left Wing leaders, resentful over recent internal clashes, were converging on Washington today for the first meeting of the 52-man C. I. O. executive board in six months.

Grvyds, table-thumping, and important decisions are expected. One important decision likely will be to yank the C. I. O. out of the World Federation of Trade Unions.

The board also may take some action toward organizing white-collar and government workers. C. I. O. President Philip Murray told the C. I. O. convention last November in Portland, Ore., that present C. I. O. unions have "failed" in those fields.

The C. I. O.'s top officers, 11 of them, meet Monday. The board itself meets Tuesday and Wednesday. In some respects the sessions may be a resumption of the Portland convention where Murray made C. I. O. history with his denunciations of the Communists. But unlike the convention the meetings will be held behind a thick door, and reporters must wait outside and find out later what happened.

During the last few weeks the C. I. O.'s internal warfare has been heated up by the following conflicts:

1. A fist fight in a Blessemer, Ala., radio studio. Maurice E. Travis, secretary-treasurer of the Left-Wing mine, mill and smelter workers, was beaten. His union blamed members of Phil Murray's own steelworkers union. A $100,000 damage suit was filed. Left-Wing unions have showered C. I. O. headquarters with bitter telegrams.

2. A revolt against the C. I. O. leadership by Harry Bridges and his Left-Wing longshoremen's union at their San Francisco convention. The union announced that the C. I. O. may try to split parts of its membership away. It resolved to resist such a move with its "full wrath and action." It instructed its officers to fight for "reforms" to make the C. I. O. more "democratic." It defended the W. F. T. U.

Bridges rarely attends an executive board meeting. But the latest word from San Francisco is that he is coming to this one.

3. Bitter disagreement among lobbyists for C. I. O. unions during the house debate on the Taft-Hartley act. Some Right-Wingers advised congressmen to vote for compromise amendments to the Truman administration labor bill. The Left-Wingers, along with John L. Lewis's independent United Mine Workers, cried aloud against any compromise.

No one doubts that the board will vote for C. I. O. withdrawal from the W. F. T. U. The C. I. O. and A. F. L. are planning to take part in the formation of a new world labor organization in Switzerland next month.

One vexing question, however, is what to do about C. I. O. union leaders who refuse to accept the C. I. O. withdrawal.

Bridges' union has already passed a resolution saying that "no individual or organization" is authorized to pull the longshoremen out of the W. F. T. U.

The resolution also demanded that the C. I. O. submit the question of C. I. O. withdrawal to a referendum vote of the 41 C. I. O. unions.

In addition, Bridges and Donald Henderson, president of the Food and Tobacco Workers Union, have shown signs of continuing to take part in W. F. T. U. activities regardless of whether the C. I. O. gets out.

What would—or could—the C. I. O. do then? Murray's position has been that in international matters, the C. I. O. must act as a unit, Left-Wing unions reject that idea and assert their autonomy.

Plans for receiving the retiring American commander in Germany upon his arrival at the capital were announced today by the national military establishment.

An honor guard, composed of men from all the armed forces, will be at National Airport when Clay's plane lands Tuesday morning. Secretary of Defense Johnson and other military leaders also will be there.

Following the military welcome, there will be a reception given by President and Mrs. Truman in the Rose Garden at the White House. Invited to join in that reception are all cabinet members and congressional leaders.

YOUTH KILLS SMALL BROTHER WITH AUTO

SCOTTDALE, Pa., May 14.—(AP)—Richard Thorn drove down the driveway of his home and on to a baseball game yesterday.

His father looked out a window and saw the body of Richard's five-year-old brother, Arthur, lying in the driveway. Richard was called home from the ball game.

Coroner Joseph Check said Arthur, 18, apparently didn't realize the car had struck his brother on the rough driveway. "It was purely accidential," Check reported. "There will be no inquest."

TRIBUTE IS PAID AIRLIFT FLYERS

Men Who Died While Supplying Berlin Get Special Army Attention

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The armed forces today paid special tribute to the 28 Americans killed in the Berlin airlift who, says Defense Secretary Johnson, "gave their lives for their country in the same spirit as those in World War II."

Johnson announced that the national military establishment is sending special certificates of honor to the next of kin. These awards were authorized at the suggestion of Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.), a member of the foreign relations committee.

Since the start of the lift on June 26, 1948, 25 air force men, one army, one navy and one U. S. civilian have died.

The military establishment also said military decorations will be conferred for individual achievements or acts of heroism by military personnel assigned to the lift. In addition, the Occupation Medal and the "Berlin Airlift Device" decoration has been authorized for all personnel who participated in direct support of "operation vittles" for 90 consecutive days.

The special certificates are engraved, bear the seal of the national military establishment and the signature of the defense secretary. Titled "Honorable Service In The Armed Forces of The United States," the parchment contains the name of the individual, the date of death and the certification that he died "while in the service of our country as a member of the Berlin airlift."

A total of 29 planes have been wrecked in the airlift project—20 four-engined C-54s, eight twin-engined C-47s, one C-82 twin-engined cargo transport. Total value of the planes was about $7,522,000.

NO. 13 IS NOT SO UNLUCKY AFTER ALL

PITTSBURGH, May 14.—(AP)—Robert Johnson, whose name counts up to 13 letters, was arrested, charged with drunkenness and lodged in cell 13.

His was the 13th case in police court yesterday, which was Friday the 13th.

Police Magistrate W. H. K. McDiarmid studied the evidence and announced:

"Case dismissed."

Those letters, of course, add up to 13.

Leading Figures Ribbed At Women Press Club Meeting

By Ruth Cowan

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Leading figures of the United States and other nations came in for a feminine ribbing tonight at the annual dinner of the women's national press club.

Defense Secretary Louis Johnson was handed a toy aircraft carrier, some 65,000 tons smaller than the giant flat-top he vetoed for the navy.

Winston Churchill was shown trying to sell King George the Pyramid Club plan to lift Britain out of its austerity.

Josef Stalin was offered one U. S. Communist a month—free.

Club members impersonated the statesmen in a series of skits at their annual award dinner attended by the president and Mrs. Truman.

During the evening Mr. Truman presented the club's six 1949 achievement awards.

The top award, that of "Woman of the Year" went to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in recognition of her work as chairman of the United Nations' human rights commission. The wife of the late president is a member of the Women's Press Club herself.

Art—"Grandma" Moses—More formally, Mrs. Anna Mary Robertson, Eagle Bridge, N. Y.—88-year-old painter who started her career at 76 without a single lesson.

Theatre—Madeline Carroll, Hollywood and Broadway actress.

Government—Mayor Dorothy McCullough Lee of Portland, Ore.

Author—Mary Jane Ward of Evanston, Ill., who wrote "The Snake Pit."

Business—Marjorie Child Huste, Minneapolis, Minn., executive.

More than 600 people were in the audience, including cabinet members, congressmen, socialites, prominent government officials and diplomats. Among the latter was the recently arrived Madame Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India, the first woman ambassador to the United States.

Mrs. Perle Mesta, one of the capital's leading hostesses, heard Ruth Montgomery of the New York Daily news assert in the course of the program "It takes Perle's ready-mix pleasure, dough and politics" to cook up one of her parties. Her prize was a year's supply of Mrs. Truman's "Ozark pudding ready mix."

Stalin, played by Mary Spargo of the Washington Post, declared that he had no idea the U. S. would start the Berlin airlift "or I never would have given you the air."

Throughout the skit ran a detective story theme on "Who Knocked Out the Elephant" finally amid an uproar. A battered up elephant appeared on stage and said he has spotted "the guy" right in the audience.

He waved his trunk toward the head table as the club president, Dorothy Williams of the United Press introduced:

"Ladies and gentlemen—the president of the United States."

KENTUCKY MYSTERY MAN IS IDENTIFIED

GREENUP, Ky., May 14.—(AP)—The 128-day mystery of the identity of a 24-year-old derelict has been cleared up.

William Logan, Greenup county jailer, announced that he received a telephone call from a Raleigh, N. C., man today, establishing definitely that the man held here is Russell Daniels, his son.

The mystery was solved after Bertram D. Daniels happened to read in his morning paper in Raleigh an Associated Press story about the nameless man.

The younger Daniels two days ago had spoken for the first time since he was picked up here Jan. 6, nearly dead from the cold and hunger.

His father, said to be a Raleigh postal worker, referred to the story, in which the younger man could do little more than recall his name, and say that he lived in either North or South Carolina.

Bertram Daniels said he could not understand how his son happened to be in Greenup, as he had thought him to be a patient in a Roanoke, Va., veterans hospital.

He had visited him there Jan. 3, he said, shortly before young Daniels, an army veteran, had left the institution.

IN MOVIELAND

HOLLYWOOD, May 14. —(AP)—To remain 20 years at one studio, you have to be either good—or a relative.

Producer Arthur reed claims to be unrelated to anyone in the higher echelons of MGM. Yet he is beginning his third decade at the Culver City lot. That—and box-office figures—seem to indicate that he is good.

Freed first went with MGM on a three-month contract to write the score of "Broadway Melody." It was the screen's first talkie musical hit, and Freed stayed on, writing such tunes as "Temptation," "Pagan Love Song," "I Cried For You."

He became a producer in 1939 by using the musical talents of Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in "Babes in Arms." Since then his musicals, such as "Ziegfeld Follies," "For Me and My Gal," "Til the Clouds Roll By," 'Words and Music" and his own favorite, 'Meet Me in St. Louis," have been among the studio's top grossers.

How does he do it?

"I agree that in pictures, as on the stage, the biggest attraction is the musical," he answered.

"That's why I try to get important stories and hire the greatest possible talent to do them."

But, the life of a movie producer is not always peaches and cream. Freed in particular seems to have been cursed with hard luck.

Such as this week when Judy Garland tossed a tantrum and was suspended in the middle of "Annie Get Your Gun." This meant a new leading lady and a $250,000 loss for the studio.

Freed's blow before that came when Gene Kelly broke his ankle just before starting "Easter Parade." It turned out to be a good break for the producer, because Astaire came out of retirement to substitute.

There was one bum break which didn't turn out so well. That was "Yolanda and the Thief," a gaudy hunk of chi-chi which he admits "just didn't come off." It helped send Astaire into retirement, and it was Freed's only film that failed to show a profit.

Try mixing fruits with vegetables for an interesting and attractive centerpiece for a supper party. Green artichokes look charming teamed with yellow bananas in a white compote, or use green peppers and oranges in a straw-colored bread basket.

HOLLYWOOD RISES FROM LOW START

Cafe On Northside Climbs From Tiny Building; Now Adds New Bar

From a cold-drink stand to one of Monroe's most modern drive-in restaurants—that's the story behind The Hollywood.

Monday, the end will be written to another chapter in the progress of this establishment: the formal opening of a new dining room capable of seating seventy-five satisfied customers.

But to begin with, J. C. "Fats" Tarrance, and his wife, Inez, purchased a small cold-drink stand on the corner of North Fourth street and Hudson Lane 'way back in 1940. The building itself measured about twenty feet by twenty-four feet.

Then in 1941, just a year later, the owners added a kitchen to the building and made it exclusive for drive-in service. Two years later, ten stools, a counter, table and two booths were installed for those customers who didn't like to sip pop or down a hamburger out in their car.

When Tarrance's brother, Reagan, and his wife, Dorothy, were made partners in the restaurant, The Hollywood got a thorough remodeling job in the form of a complete new building and accommodations for ninety "inside" customers.

So Monday, still marking progress with time, the Tarrances will formally open a new dining room and bar.

Decorations too have played an important part in the progress of The Hollywood. Reagan Tarrance personally directed a recent re-decoration program, which definitely made the restaurant one of the most attractive in the city.

Outstanding features about the "one-time" cold drink stand is that it is equipped with an indirect lighting system and air conditioning units.

The new dining room has built-in, movable partitions for private-party use.

In connection with the opening of the dining room and bar, owners of the restaurant have arranged a "smorgasbord" beginning at 2:30 p. m. Monday and lasting until 5:30 p. m.

Specializing in the best of foods, the establishment is opened from 10 a. m. through midnight daily except Tuesdays and Saturdays. On Saturdays, the restaurant is opened until 1:30 a. m. Sunday and is closed every Tuesday except for private parties.

The greatest depth in Lake Geneva, Switzerland, goes down more than 1,000 feet. The 984-foot Eiffel tower of Paris could stand at the lowest point with its top far submerged.

WILLING HANDS AID MAN WITHOUT ARMS

CHICAGO, May 13.—(AP)—Larry Borko has no arms, but he has many willing hands.

Borko, 27, a former seabee, was nearly killed by a mine explosion in the Pacific during the war.

His dream, and that of his wife, Anna, has been a home of their own. They found one, not too far from the hospital where he has to report regularly for medical attention. The price was shaved down by the owner, M/Sgt. Norman J. Still, who has to sell because the army has ordered him to Japan.

Joseph Schwartz, a real estate man and a wounded veteran, himself, talked things over with Frank M. Gierek, another veteran; John Hines, the neighborhood V. F. W. post commander, and George Linhardt, adjutant of the Oak Lawn American Legion post.

Now Schwartz and Gierek have the paint, thinner and brushes bought. It's white, with enough green for trim. And Hines and Linhardt have had to pass the word that no more volunteer painters are needed. The job will be done Sunday.

FULL AGREEMENT SOON ON BERLIN

Western Powers, Russia Reach Almost Complete Accord On Big Problem

BERLIN, May 14.—(AP)—American sources said the three western powers and Soviet Russia reached "almost complete agreement" today on the mechanics of restoring Germany's east-west trade and that a full agreement is likely next Wednesday.

From then on, said Lawrence F. Wilkinson, economic adviser to the U. S. military government, inter-zonal German commerce should start leaping. At the moment, despite the lifting of the blockade Thursday, it is merely a dribble.

Simultaneously the United States, Britain and France approved limited self rule for western Berlin, and the Russians declared their intention to resume reciprocal deliveries to members of the inter-allied reparations agency in return for reparations delivered to her from western Germany in the past.

The economic advisers of the big four military governments wound up three days of conferences late this afternoon. Wilkinson issued a statement saying:

'We are making very good progress. The position is that both sides give and take a little and we'll probably come out with a solution somewhere in the middle."

Russia seeks the revival of old east-west German trade agreements which were suspended when the Russians blockaded west Berlin last June. The western powers have contended the agreements are outmoded, violate the current supply-and-demand markets and are based on a single mark currency for all Germany, since supplanted by west marks and east marks for which there is no completely satisfactory exchange formula.

Wilkinson said the meetings would be suspended until Wednesday, to give all a chance to work out new trade charts. He said it is likely that the "full agreement" will be signed, sealed and delivered that day.

Military government authorities praised the atmosphere of the meetings, the first four-power talks held in Berlin since last spring. They said the post-blockade problems were vexing, but now appear solvable.

The western powers' new charter for west Berlin came in the form of an occupation statue, to become effective Monday. It defines how far the Germans can go in their government affairs. It is similar to the statue, or provisional peace treaty, drawn up for the projected west German federal republic.

The west Berlin city assembly plans a special session Thursday to act on it, Deputy Mayor Ferdinand Friedensburg said. Under the charter, the assembly will be able to make its own decisions in many fields, subject only to veto by the allies. If such a veto is not exercised within 21 days, an act becomes law.

The allies reserved control on basic international questions, such as disarmament, reparations, decartelization and control of convicts German war criminals.

REDS PENETRATE

to the northwest. From a Shanghai skyscraper, this correspondent could see flashes and flaring fires on the horizon.

While the artillery's deep-throated roar continued Saturday, one Norwegian and two American ships sailed down the Whangpoo and out to sea. Ironically, perhaps, a small Chinese merchant ship came in with E. C. A. rice.

The U. S. navy's infantry landing craft made its regular run out to the Yangtze anchorage of the U. S. destroyers John W. Thomason and Henry W. Tucker and a tank-landing ship. No departing citizens went along, however. U. S. Consul General John Cabot said all Americans wishing to leave had already done so.

The British consulate meanwhile issued a final evacuation notice to British subjects. It said the last opportunity to leave for Hong Kong "by air or sea" was being organized for "the next few days," with Sunday night as the deadline.

On the second Red front near Shanghai—the southwest—Communist progress appeared to be not so great as on the northwest.

A Nationalist communique acknowledged withdrawal from Sungkiang, 16 miles from the city and 12 miles southwest of Lunghwa Airfield.

Airlines still were operating at Lunghwa, but Chinese lines had planes standing by to take out key personnel when necessary.

Conditions in Shanghai were not much changed, except that brilliant weather succeeded Friday's warm rains.

On their southern front, the Communists had penetrated about one third of the 750-mile distance from their Yangtze river bridgeheads to Canton, Nationalist provisional capital.

Their advance forces, however, were already beginning to turn westward towards the Hankow-Canton railway. There they are expected to try to trap and eliminate the central China forces of Gen. Pai Chunghsi, Hankow commander.

The Shanghai paper Sin Wan Pao said a Red frontal attack on Hankow also had been resumed and that the situation was growing more serious.

The Communist radio, heard in San Francisco by the Associated Press, reported capture of Nancheng, 80 miles southeast of Nanchung, and Kienyang, 90 miles farther east. This would indicate gains of 25 and 30 miles since the previous day's reports. The broadcast said the Reds now controlled 350 miles of the east-west railway from the port of Hangchow westward to within 40 miles of Nanchang.

(The radio also boasted that Communist guerrillas totalling 46,000 full-time fighters and 100,000 irregulars were spread throughout south China clear down to the borders of Kwangtung province, in which Canton lies.)

UNION ASKS

posal would have set a constant speed on Ford assembly line production geared "to normal work practices."

This, said Bugas, was "similar to propositions the union has made across the bargaining table both before and after the strike began."

The walkout of 65,000 Ford workers was called 10 days ago over a union charge of a "speedup" on the assembly line at the Rouge plant. The union complained that production speeds were unfair. Ford denied the charge.

In a previous statement, Bugas told the U. A. W. it wants to start virtually from scratch when talks on a new contract for 1949 get under way.

The company called the union's attention to falling living costs in asikng for a "full re-opening of all economic matters" in the Ford-U. A. W. contract.

In the apparent reference to the current 65,000-man strike over alleged production "speed-ups", Ford also said it wanted the "rights and responsibilities of both the union and the company" more clearly defined.

The statements were made by Ford Vice-President John S. Bugas May 16, two months before the present agreement runs out.

The U. A. W. has counted on the Ford negotiations to spearhead its industry-wide 1949 demands for pensions, medical care plans and undisclosed wage boosts.

Bugas said the company "hopes to be able to start negotiations" on June 1.

"We question, however," he added, "the advisability of meeting at that time if the current strike of your union is still in progress.

"We most emphatically feel that the atmosphere of a major strike would not lend itself to an orderly and reasonable settlement of our contract problems."

Bugas' letter to U. A. W. National Ford Director Ken Bannon was made public as company and union officials went into an unusual Saturday session aimed at ending the strike. There was no immediate comment from the union.

Before Bugas and his associates at the peace parley was a "specific, detailed" union proposal for settling the speed-up dispute. It was the first formal proposal from either side since the walkout at Ford's big Rouge and Lincoln-Mercury plants May 5.

One reliable source said Friday the company had "flatly refused "to discuss pensions and the like as long as the strike continues. A June 1 opening of contract talks, however, would allow more than two weeks for a settlement.

Bugas suggested a "full re-opening" of all economic phases of the Ford-U. A. W. contrate "because of their relation to production costs."

Then he continued:

"In this connection, we draw your attention to the trend in living costs since our last agreement was signed, the restoration of strict competitive conditions in our industry, wage and other economic differentials between Ford Motor Co. and major competitors, and the resulting need to approach all economic matters from a standpoint of long-range company and employe security."

Ford has argued for several years that its wages have been above average for the industry. The average now is estimated at $1.64 an hour.

Of non-economic matters, Bugas said:

"We propose that provisions of the current agreement be modified to define clearly the rights and responsibilities of both the union and the company in the light of the experiences of the past year.

"We therefore serve notice of our intention to re-open all provisions of the existing agreement and to present supplementary subject matter which we believe will assist in bettering the relationship between the company and the union."

Bugas suggested that contract negotiations be confined to four-hour sessions on alternate days. He also suggested that company and union bargaining teams be cut from the normal 12 or 18 men to six for each side to speed the proceedings.

A combined total of about 25 men has taken part in the strike peace conferences.

'O' CLUB TO MEET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

A special meeting of the "O" Club has been called for 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in Ouachita parish district courtroom.

Purpose of the meeting is to appoint a committee to draw up the constitution and by-laws of the organization and to set dues and a fiscal year.

A movie of a Tulane football game will be shown at the meeting.

DECLINE SHOWN IN NUMBER OF JOBLESS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The number of workers drawing jobless insurance pay fell off 57,000 last week, the first drop in a month.

This decline brought the total down to 1,980.000 during the week ending May 7 as compared with 2,037,000 for the preceding period.

But the federal security agency said yesterday the number of newly laid-off workers filing claims for unemployment compensation rose from 322,100 to 354,000 in the same period.

Before last week's drop in jobless payments, the agency noted that for three weeks there had been a steady increase. Despite the decline the May 7 total still was 775,000 higher than in the same period last year.

On this point, the F. S. A. report said that more workers have been using up their jobless benefit rights this year than during 1948. In the first quarter of 1949, it said, 345,000 people exhausted these rights as compared with 239,000 in the same period last year.

Only 33,000,000 of the nation's workers are covered by the unemployment insurance which is administered by the states.

In the first persecutions of Christians in Rome, under Nero, the Apostles Peter and Paul were said to have been martyred.

junior and waited until the following year to enter the university, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Veal, 632 Kirby place. Miss Pliner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pliner, 909 Elmwood street. Rigby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rigby, 1945 winner who will graduate this year, has done outstanding work in speech at the university. His home is at 425 East 70th street.

Miss Bentley, who will graduate this spring, will be married in June, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Bentley, Jr., 2906 Elm street, disclose. She is a psychology major. Gene Lafitte, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Lafitte, 313 Washington avenue, was first-place winner in 1946. Marguery Lacey, daughter of Mrs. A. M. Lacey, 1039 Blanchard place, second-place winner in 1946, is continuing to win speech and debate honors at the university, as she did in high school.

Ellis Sandoz, son of Dr. and Mrs. George Ellis Sandoz, 711 Rutherford street, first-place winner in 1947, plays in the L. S. U. band. Last summer he toured the west and southwest with a school friend, working in wheat fields and later getting a job in California. He saved an amount he refused to disclose, which he sent to his mother for deposit. The second-place winner in 1947 was Ruther Marie Bradford, who will be a junior next year at the university, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bradford, 2639 Regent street.

James Howard Zinck, of Lake Charles, won first-place in 1948, and Anna Sackett, Fairbanks community in Ouachita parish, won second that year.

This year's scholarship winners are "all-round" student type. Their likes are diversified, Lenora Armstrong being as interested in music and languages as in speech and Arnold Lincove having ambitions to assume a career which will require knowledge of some foreign language. He will not study law, where his oratory and extemporaneous speaking could be a help.

The Ewing scholarships were established in memory of the late Col. Robert Ewing by his daughter and sons. At the time of his death in 1931, Colonel Ewing was owner and publisher of the New Orleans States and of The Shreveport Times and was founder of the Monroe World. A staunch advocate of constitutional government, and a strong public school system as a means of maintaining it, he was author of an amendment at a state constitutional convention which provided free text books in New Orleans schools and paved the way for the present state-wide system of free books.

He was the father of John D. Ewing, editor and publisher of The Shreveport Times; Wilson Ewing, publisher of the Monroe News-Star—World; Mrs. Esther Ewing Brown of New Orleans; Robert Ewing, Jr., and James L. Ewing, also of New Orleans. Another son, Toulmin Ewing, died several years ago.

The annual essay contest which decides the scholarship awards always has as its subject the life and work of an American famous for helping to establish or maintain constitutional government in the United States. Previous subjects were George Washington, James Madison, Andrew Jackson, Woodrow Wilson and Benjamin Franklin. The subjects are selected by an L. S. U. faculty committee, which also does the judging. The Times does no judging and the judges have no knowledge of the name or school of any contestant. All identification is removed from each essay by The Times and a key and number, with designation as to whether the writer is a boy or girl, is given each entry.

Under the rules of the contest, the second place winner must be the opposite sex of the winner of the first place scholarship, thus assuring that both a boy and a girl are sent to L. S. U. each year.

Scholarship contestants are limited to the upper fourth, scholastically, of senior and junior high school grades. They must be certified by their principals as worthy in character, intellectual capacity and in general background for prizes as valuable as the four-year scholarships. The Ewing scholarships are the most valuable offered at L. S. U.

The university committee which selects each year's subjects and judges the contest is made up of Dr. William O. S. Scroggs, dean of the graduate school, committee chairman; Prof. Harlan Linneus McCracken of the university school of economics and Prof. Benjamin Foster Mitchell of the school of education.

Following are winners of cash prizes offered to small high schools in the annual Robert Ewing essay contest: $25.00 for first; $15.00 for second and $10.00 for third, the prize being duplicated for boys and girls:

MRS. ALICE ROY IS REPORTED IMPROVING

Mrs. Alice Roy, nurse at the St. Francis Sanitarium, is reported to be improving following an accident in which her leg was broken last month.

She is still confined to her home, on the Jonesboro road in West Monroe, and is welcoming visitors.

Mrs. Roy received a broken leg while spending a vacation in southern Texas.

EISLER

magistrate's court Monday, when an application would be made for his removal to the Bow Street magistrate's court in London.

Bow Street is the only magistrate's court in England empowered to deal with applications for extradition.

The warrant on which Eisler was arrested, Police said, was issued under the extradition act of 1870. It was sworn out at the request of the United States.

There he faces two prison sentences, one for a year for contempt of a congressional committee, and the other for one to three years in a federal court conviction on passport frauds.

The 52-year-old prisoner was described in a citation for contempt by the American house of representatives in 1947 as the supreme Communist authority in the United States and "one of the most dangerous men ever to set foot on American soil."

In the federal court case his sister described him as an agent of the Soviet secret police and a "dangerous terrorist."

Eisler's bail bond, which authorities say he forfeited by leaving the country, was posted by the civil rights congress. The organization is listed as "subversive" by U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark.

Eisler slipped aboard the Batory as stowaway just before the ship left New York on her regular run to Gdynia, Poland, by way of Southampton and Copenhagen, Denmark.

After the ship sailed, Gdynia American Line officials said, he made himself known and paid his face to Gdynia. He was reported trying to reach Germany by way of Poland to take a job as a professor of social science in the University of Leipzig, in the Soviet zone.

American authorities asked Scotland Yard to arrest him and hold him for extradition.

The arrest was not made until after several hours of negotiation, to iron out what one American official described as "international complications."

The Batory dropped anchor off Cowes, isle of Wight, about 12 miles from Southampton's docks, at 11:30 Oha. M., British summer time (5:30 a.m. E. S. T.). A tender carrying Bray, another Scotland Yard inspector and immigration and port officials set out for the ship's side. Aboard were two American representatives, William Beck, Southampton consul general, and Felix Verity, assistant attache of the U. S. embassy.

It was not until 4:25 p.m. that the tender returned—without Eisler. It was understood that Eisler refused to leave the ship voluntarily, and the ship's master, Capt. Jan Cwiklinski, refused to surrender him on the grounds that he was a paid passenger.

A U. S. embassy spokesman then announced that Bray was returning to the Batory with a warrant for Eisler's arrest, presumably on the grounds that he was a fugitive who had jumped bail. The spokesman said no attempt would be made to serve the warrant immediately, however, if the ship's master would agree to stay anchored off Cowes until Monday evening.

He explained that the delay would permit "all parties concerned—Britain, Poland and the United States—a chance for further discussions of the case."

However, the master apparently refused to consider a further delay—the ship's sailing already had been delayed more than four hours—and Eisler was arrested.

ence to me'; that she knew I was a good painter and liked my work."

Cooke said the letter had been sent over the signature of C. A. Balding, council secretary. Balding's family said today he was ill and therefore could not be contacted. Cooke declined to disclose the text of the letter but described it as "notification" that Moler is doing the job.

"I don't even know whether the president is aware of it," Cooke said. "I understand Moler was hired by Mr. Truman's brother-in-law, George Wallace."

Cooke described Moler as "definitely non-union." Moler told newsmen he was not a union man, never had been one and didn't intend to be one but that he has no grudge against the union.

Moler said he had been called by Mize Peters, friend of the president, and asked to bid on the painting job.

Later, he said, Wallace called and told him to get ready; that Wallace would call Washington and notify the president or Mrs. Truman that Moler, with their permission, would paint the property.

Moler began the job May 3. He said he expects it will take about 20 days more to complete the job.

ron pilot of Oklatoma City. He admits he came out groggy yet victorious over a flock of ducks and geese.

When on a training flight all of a sudden a big explosion knocked Wynns unconscious for a moment.

When he recovered an instant later he started to bail out but finding the motor still running he headed back for the field, dropped the tip tanks and landed. An inspection of the plane disclosed that the "explosion" resulted when a goose broke through the cockpit and coming through the left side of the windshield made a hole big enough to stick a man's foot through. Inside the cockpit were found blood, feathers and pieces of a goose. Pilot's glasses were blood smeared. The right wing had a 10-inch hole. Another goose broke the gun camera. Ten pounds of meat and feathers were found inside a duct chamber.

It is reported that ducks and geese are a great hazard at Anchorage.

W. T. (Bill) Stephenson, prominent in his home city of Shreveport and also a frequent visitor to the Monroe Civitan club, recently got a record-breaking honor when in Dallas, Tex., where the Texas-Louisiana district convention of Civitan was held, he was re-elected for the third time as district governor. Civitan International has never before had a similar record, but those who know Bill regard it a well deserved honor. Incidentally he is to come to Monroe and deliver the principal address at the Monroe Civitan club's first anniversary party next Thursday night.

Here's how the Associated Press describes a newly-discovered young English painter:

Artist Thomas Warbis doesn't take a lot of trouble over his painting.

He splashes the colors—dozens of them—with a bold brush . . . or his bare finger . . . or an old stick with a chewed end.

He lets his cat pad over the fresh paint, sit on it and swish her tail over it.

And while turning out his master piece "Figure 8: Skegness" he spilled a saucer of paint on it by accident, smudged it, tried erasing, muttered "oh shucks" and let it ride.

But sponsors of a local art show thought "Figure 8: Skegness" was good enough to hang.

Critics praised it. Said the Leicester mail: "A fine specimen of medernism by the Borrow-on-Soam Artist Thomas Warbis."

The found later thta the Artist Warbis, said he "sent the picture as a joke and a test of people's knowledge of art."

Thomas D. Pearce, the organizer, wasn't blishing.

"It's no worse than a lot of stuff which poses as modern art," he said.

Mrs. Leon Atkins, 700 Oak street, is greatly distressed over the unexplained absence of her husband, an upholsterer, 36 years of age, who is missing from Port Arthur, Tex. where he went from Monroe to take a job. His employers there state that he left and said he would try to get a job in Shreveport. She last heard from him May 2, but has no word since and efforts in both Port Arthur and Shreveport have been in vain.

Why she is especially worried is the fact that he was not well, having suffered from heart trouble. Anyone who may aid in giving any information concerning him will be doing a great kindness, his wife assures for she is almost sick from worry and suspense.

mendations will total $1,450,000,000—the $1,130,000,000 for Europe in the fiscal year starting July 1, plus $320,000,000 for Greece, Turkey, Iran and a few other countries under Soviet-Communist pressure.

The arguments for the program developed officially the fact that Secretary Acheson and his state department aides do not yet find evidence of any basic change in the Soviet-Communist threat to Europe on which so much of this country's own foreign policy moves are based.

The situation created by the lifting of the Berlin blockade Thursday and the meeting of the big-four foreign ministers at Paris a week hence is being closely watched by Acheson for signs of Russia's real aims. Actually neither he nor his aides are believed to have any expectation that the need for continued firm development will be lessened in any important degree.

The state department summed up the European military situation, as it relates to American arms aid, this way:

At present the power of the western world is centered in the United States, 3,000 miles from Europe. The peoples of western Europe have been somewhat reassured by development of the north Atlantic treaty, but they are still worried about invasion dangers. The United States "must assist" the countries to develop the power needed to resist invasion.

"It must be perfectly clear to the people of the United States," the state department said, "that we cannot count on our friends in western Europe to resist if our strategy in the event of war is to abandon these friends to the enemy with a promise of later liberation."

Under the north Atlantic treaty "plans for the common defense of the free world must provide for the security of western Europe," the state department asserted. Meanwhile, it said, the situation must be regarded as out of balance and dangerous.

"As of now," the state department said, "thte inadequate defenses of western Europe invite military aggression, and increasing prosperity makes it a prize all the more tempting.

"Not until we share our strength on a common defensive front can we hope to replace this temptation with a real deterrent to war."

EISENHOWER IS BACK AT COLUMBIA POSITION

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was back on the job at Columbia University today after a tour of military duty in Washington and convalescence in the south from an illness.

The university president worked at his official residence for several hours. In the afternoon, he got in a round of golf.

Eisenhower was called to Washington in February to serve as temporary presiding officer of the joint chiefs of staff in working out a number of knotty problems confronting the armed forces.

He returned to Columbia briefly each week until his illness forced discontinuance of the visits.

the second student other than to say he is enrolled at an eastern university. But he said he is prepared to document his charge when the committee opens hearings May 23 on operations of the commission's fellowship fund.

"I think it is ominously dangerous to help educate people with public money who are subversive and are known to be subversive," Hickenlooper declared. "The investigation records of the commission show beyond any shadow of a doubt that the student is a Communist and was known to be a Communist when the fellowship award was made."

The commission has explained that it does not require advance security checkup of a student when the course involves no atomic secrets. It explained this would menace "freedom of inquiry and education." It said a full investigation is required if the program of study proposed by the applicant involves access to secret data.

The scholarship program, intended to combat the shortage of scientists, is administered by the national research council and the commission does not interfere with its selections, the commission explained. Hickenlooper said, however, that the final decision on awards is the commission's.

Chairman David E. Lilienthal had noted that all who are employed by the commission must pass security tests.

A commission spokesman today declined comment on Hickenlooper's remarks.

Hickenlooper said that some of those being aided by federal funds therefore could not be employed by the commission. He said that the student he refused to name fell in this class.

This, week, Hans Freistadt, North Carolina University student who was awarded a scholarship, acknowledged he was a Communist after this was disclosed to the house by Representative Cole (R-N. Y.). School officials said Freistadt's course is of non-secret nature.

The Iowa senator said that the commission first started its fellowship program—on which it plans to spend $23,378.000 in the year beginning July 1—that security checks were made of all applicants for aid funds.

About 40 such applicants were investigated by the F. B. I. and reports made to the commission before it changed its policy so as not to require future investigations of this sort, he said.

The student to whom he is objecting was included in this group of 40, Hickenlooped said, adding that he got the commission award despite the report on his background.

"The commission must accept the responsibility for this and other cases," the Iowan declared. "It cannot hide behind the fact that it has set up fellowship boards to make recommendations on the applicants. The final decision on who gets the awards is the commission's."

Senator Russell (D-Ga.) joined Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) in agreeing that it might be wise for the senate appropriations committee to limit the atomic commission's use of its fellowship funds unless it agrees to screen out Communists from the program.

Ruston Newspaperman Heads State Organization At 69th Convention

LAFAYETTE, La., May 14.—(AP)—Clarence E. Faulk, Jr., publisher of the Ruston Daily Leader, elected president of the Louisiana Press Association as the group closed its 69th annual convention here today.

He succeeds Rigby Owen, publisher of the Opelousas Daily World.

John B. Gordon of the Houma Courier, president of the L. P. A.'s southern group, and Jules Fogel of the Vivian Citizen, of the northern group, are state vice-presidents.

George T. Goodman of the Ponchatula Enterprise, absent because of illness, was re-elected secretary, treasurer.

Named to the board of directors were Nathan Bolton of the Bastrop Morehouse Enterprise, R. W. Wagner of the Jena Times and Olla-Tullos Signal, Mrs. W. A. Rosenbauer of the Minden Herald and Webster Review, Roland Huson of the Jonesville Booster and Catahoula News, Charles Wyly of the Delhi Dispatch, Eddie R. Jackson of the Thibodaux Lafourche Comet, Max Thomas of the Crowley Daily Signal, Matt Vernon of the New Iberia Daily Iberian, and Howard Goodwyn of the Covington St. Tammany Farmer.

In separate session this morning, the Louisiana Daily Newspapers Publishers Association named Thomas as their new president, to succeed C. P. Liter, general manager of the Baton Rouge State Times and Morning Advocate.

John D. Ewing, publisher of the Shreveport Times, was named vice-president, succeeding Owen, and John W. Fanz, business manager of the New Orleans Item, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

At their fourth annual meeting, the daily publishers heard a talk by C. W. Tabb, manager of the Dallas, Tex., offices of the Southern Newspapers Publishers Association, on the work of the Texas Newspaper Publishers Association. The publishers also discussed circulation problems.

Concurrently, the weekly newspapermen heard a clinic for news editors conducted by F. James Price of the Louisiana State University School of Journalism.

Other participants were Mrs. Kenneth Walker of the Colfax Chronicle and Gene Yoes, news editor of the Abbeville Meridiona.

In a resolution, the group noted the deaths of Thomas M. Callhan, late publisher of the Lafayette Daily Advertiser; Miss Helen Gray Gilkison, Baton Rouge and New Orleans newspaperwoman; Robert F. Faxon, former editor of the Lake Charles American Press; John B. Taylor, founder of the Lafourche Comet; Melvin Vernon Strother, Eunice Newsman; Ernie Roberts, Jr., of Houma, and Mrs. J. Val Brock, former editor of the Franklinton Era-Leader.

Another resolution expressed thanks to host organizations in Lafayette.

Choice of a site for the 1950 meeting was left for a decision at a later date. No action was taken on an invitation to the group to meet in New Orleans. This bid extended by letter by A. E. Hegewisch, president of international House.

Retiring President Owen said attempts are being made to arrange a joint meeting of the L. P. A. with Mississippi and Alabama associations for 1950.

it "will not be pretty" but will be completely safe to general traffic.

Even after its reopening, however, it will be closed from 10 to 12 hours each night to permit workmen to proceed with repairs, Tobin said.

The rugged cast-iron hide of the tunnel apparently was unscathed. Fireboats, patrolling the Hudson river above the fire area, could find no telltale bubbles that would indicate a leak in the tube.

New York fire officials theorized that atmospheric pressure may have touched off the truck's cargo of carbon disulphide. It was reported carrying 4,400 gallons in eighty 55-gallon drums.

Meanwhile, New Jersey authorities sought to determine if criminal negligence was involved. Port authority officials said tunnel regulations stipulated that no more than 100 gallons of the chemical could be carried in a single truck. The regulations also specify that the permitted load be transported in glass or carthenware containers of a gallon or less in capacity, or in metal drums of five gallons or smaller capacity.

The truck, driven by Edmund Tyndall, 40, of Wehawken, N. J., was owned by the Boyce Motor Lines, Inc., of Jersey City. Company officials declined comment. Tyndall was not hurt.

Carbon disulphide, described as toxic (poisonous) and inflammable, is used in vulcanizing rubber, in insecticides and in the manufacture of rayon.

FULL AGREEMENT SOON ON BERLIN

Western Powers, Russia Reach Almost Complete Accord On Big Problem

BERLIN, May 14.—(AP)—American sources said the three western powers and Soviet Russia reached "almost complete agreement" today on the mechanics of restoring Germany's east-west trade and that a full agreement is likely next Wednesday.

From then on, said Lawrence F. Wilkinson, economic adviser to the U. S. military government, inter-zonal German commerce should start leaping. At the moment, despite the lifting of the blockade Thursday, it is merely a dribble.

Simultaneously the United States, Britain and France approved limited self rule for western Berlin, and the Russians declared their intention to resume reciprocal deliveries to members of the inter-allied reparations agency in return for reparations delivered to her from western Germany in the past.

The economic advisers of the big four military governments wound up three days of conferences late this afternoon. Wilkinson issued a statement saying:

"We are making very good progress. The position is that both sides give and take a little and we'll probably come out with a solution somewhere in the middle."

Russia seeks the revival of old east-west German trade agreements which were suspended when the Russians blockaded west Berlin last June. The western powers have contended the agreements are outmoded, violate the current supply-and-demand markets and are based on a single mark currency for all Germany, since supplanted by west marks and east marks for which there is no completely satisfactory exchange formula.

Wilkinson said the meetings would be suspended until Wednesday, to give all a chance to work out new trade charts. He said it is likely that the "full agreement" will be signed, sealed and delivered that day.

Military government authorities praised the atmosphere of the meetings, the first four-power talks held in Berlin since last spring. They said the post-blockade problems were vexing, but now appear solvable.

The western powers' new charter for west Berlin came in the form of an occupation statue, to become effective Monday. It defines how far the Germans can go in their government affairs. It is similar to the statue, or provisional peace treaty, drawn up for the projected west German federal republic.

The west Berlin city assembly plans a special session Thursday to act on it, Deputy Mayor Ferdinand Friedensburg said. Under the charter, the assembly will be able to make its own decisions in many fields, subject only to veto by the allies. If such a veto is not exercised within 21 days, an act becomes law.

The allies reserved control on basic international questions, such as disarmament, reparations, decartelization and control of convicts German war criminals.

to the northwest. From a Shanghai skyscraper, this correspondent could see flashes and flaring fires on the horizon.

While the artillery's deep-throated roar continued Saturday, one Norwegian and two American ships sailed down the Whangpoo and out to sea. Ironically, perhaps, a small Chinese merchant ship came in with E. C. A. rice.

The U. S. navy's infantry landing craft made its regular run out to the Yangtze anchorage of the U. S. destroyers John W. Thomason and Henry W. Tucker and a tank-landing ship. No departing citizens went along, however. U. S. Consul General John Cabot said all Americans wishing to leave had already done so.

The British consulate meanwhile issued a final evacuation notice to British subjects. It said the last opportunity to leave for Hong Kong "by air or sea" was being organized for "the next few days," with Sunday night as the deadline.

On the second Red front near Shanghai—the southwest—Communist progress appeared to be not so great as on the northwest.

A Nationalist communique acknowledged withdrawal from Sungkiang, 16 miles from the city and 12 miles southwest of Lunghwa Airfield.

Airlines still were operating at Lunghwa, but Chinese lines had planes standing by to take out key personnel when necessary.

Conditions in Shanghai were not much changed, except that brilliant weather succeeded Friday's warm rains.

On their southern front, the Communists had penetrated about one third of the 750-mile distance from their Yangtze river bridgeheads to Canton, Nationalist provisional capital.

Their advance forces, however, were already beginning to turn westward towards the Hankow-Canton railway. There they are expected to try to trap and eliminate the central China forces of Gen. Pai Chunghsi, Hankow commander.

The Shanghai paper Sin Wan Pao said a Red frontal attack on Hankow also had been resumed and that the situation was growing more serious.

The Communist radio, heard in San Francisco by the Associated Press, reported capture of Nancheng, 80 miles southeast of Nanchung, and Kienyang, 90 miles farther east. This would indicate gains of 25 and 30 miles since the previous day's reports. The broadcast said the Reds now controlled 350 miles of the east-west railway from the port of Hangchow westward to within 40 miles of Nanchang.

(The radio also boasted that Communist guerrillas totalling 46,000 full-time fighters and 100,000 irregulars were spread throughout south China clear down to the borders of Kwangtung province, in which Canton lies.)

posal would have set a constant speed on Ford assembly line production geared "to normal work practices."

This, said Bugas, was "similar to propositions the union has made across the bargaining table both before and after the strike began."

The walkout of 65,000 Ford workers was called 10 days ago over a union charge of a "speedup" on the assembly line at the Rouge plant. The union complained that production speeds were unfair. Ford denied the charge.

In a previous statement, Bugas told the U. A. W. it wants to start virtually from scratch when talks on a new contract for 1949 get under way.

The company called the union's attention to falling living costs in asikng for a "full re-opening of all economic matters" in the Ford-U. A. W. contract.

In the apparent reference to the current 65,000-man strike over alleged production "speed-ups", Ford also said it wanted the "rights and responsibilities of both the union and the company" more clearly defined.

The statements were made by Ford Vice-President John S. Bugas May 16, two months before the present agreement runs out.

The U. A. W. has counted on the Ford negotiations to spearhead its industry-wide 1949 demands for pensions, medical care plans and undisclosed wage boosts.

Bugas said the company "hopes to be able to start negotiations" on June 1.

"We question, however," he added, "the advisability of meeting at that time if the current strike of your union is still in progress.

"We most emphatically feel that the atmosphere of a major strike would not lend itself to an orderly and reasonable settlement of our contract problems."

Bugas' letter to U. A. W. National Ford Director Ken Bannon was made public as company and union officials went into an unusual Saturday session aimed at ending the strike. There was no immediate comment from the union.

Before Bugas and his associates at the peace parley was a "specific, detailed" union proposal for settling the speed-up dispute. It was the first formal proposal from either side since the walkout at Ford's big Rouge and Lincoln-Mercury plants May 5.

One reliable source said Friday the company had "flatly refused "to discuss pensions and the like as long as the strike continues. A June 1 opening of contract talks, however, would allow more than two weeks for a settlement.

Bugas suggested a "full re-opening" of all economic phases of the Ford-U. A. W. contrate "because of their relation to production costs."

Then he continued:

"In this connection, we draw your attention to the trend in living costs since our last agreement was signed, the restoration of strict competitive conditions in our industry, wage and other economic differentials between Ford Motor Co. and major competitors, and the resulting need to approach all economic matters from a standpoint of long-range company and employe security."

Ford has argued for several years that its wages have been above average for the industry. The average now is estimated at $1.64 an hour.

Of non-economic matters, Bugas said:

"We propose that provisions of the current agreement be modified to define clearly the rights and responsibilities of both the union and the company in the light of the experiences of the past year.

"We therefore serve notice of our intention to re-open all provisions of the existing agreement and to present supplementary subject matter which we believe will assist in bettering the relationship between the company and the union."

Bugas suggested that contract negotiations be confined to four-hour sessions on alternate days. He also suggested that company and union bargaining teams be cut from the normal 12 or 18 men to six for each side to speed the proceedings.

A combined total of about 25 men has taken part in the strike peace conferences.

'O' CLUB TO MEET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

A special meeting of the "O" Club has been called for 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in Ouachita parish district courtroom.

Purpose of the meeting is to appoint a committee to draw up the constitution and by-laws of the organization and to set dues and a fiscal year.

A movie of a Tulane football game will be shown at the meeting.

Fire Alarms

Firemen of company four at 5:21 p. m. yesterday extinguished an automobile fire on the Columbia road. The blaze, firemen said, was set off by a short in the vehicle's wiring and caused only slight damage. The car was owned by Chester Cole, of Bosco, La.

O. P. H. S. ALUMNI TO HOLD BANQUET

The Ouachita Parish High School Alumni Association will hold its annual banquet with the 1949 graduating class at Hotel Frances roof, Friday, May 20 at 8 p. m.

The graduating class of 1949 consists of 60 members, and the smallness of the class is affording the alumni a better opportunity to see one another at the banquet. A large attendance is expected.

Tickets are on sale at the Palace, Peacock's Frances Hotel, Parish High School office, and at Calvert's Drug Store in West Monroe.

Ropp, 52, is a native of Ohio and has been on the Northwestern faculty for the past 26 years. He has served under five presidents during that time, including seven years when the school was headed by A. A. Fredericks, now a member of the state board of education and secretary to Gov. Earl K. Long.

In other actions, the board:

Authorized purchase of land in Jennings for $18,000 as the site of the proposed Jefferson Davis Parish Trade School.

Adopted a new schedule of textbooks.

Authorized Director J. W. Moore of the Shreveport Trades School to ask the board of liquidation of the state debt for $10,000 to complete a steel building at the school.

DECLINE SHOWN IN NUMBER OF JOBLESS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The number of workers drawing jobless insurance pay fell off 57,000 last week, the first drop in a month.

This decline brought the total down to 1,980,000 during the week ending May 7 as compared with 2,037,000 for the preceding period.

But the federal security agency said yesterday the number of newly laid-off workers filing claims for unemployment compensation rose from 322,100 to 354,000 in the same period.

Before last week's drop in jobless payments, the agency noted that for three weeks there had been a steady increase. Despite the decline the May 7 total still was 775,000 higher than in the same period last year.

On this point, the F. S. A. report said that more workers have been using up their jobless benefit rights this year than during 1948. In the first quarter of 1949, it said, 345,000 people exhausted these rights as compared with 239,000 in the same period last year.

Only 33,000,000 of the nation's workers are covered by the unemployment insurance which is administered by the states.

In the first persecutions of Christians in Rome, under Nero, the Apostles Peter and Paul were said to have been martyred.

junior and waited until the following year to enter the university, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Veal, 632 Kirby place. Miss Pliner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pliner, 909 Elmwood street. Rigby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rigby, 1945 winner who will graduate this year, has done outstanding work in speech at the university. His home is at 425 East 70th street.

Miss Bentley, who will graduate this spring, will be married in June, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Bentley, Jr., 2906 Elm street, disclose. She is a psychology major. Gene Lafitte, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Lafitte, 313 Washington avenue, was first-place winner in 1946. Marguery Lacey, daughter of Mrs. A. M. Lacey, 1039 Blanchard place, second-place winner in 1946, is continuing to win speech and debate honors at the university, as she did in high school.

Ellis Sandoz, son of Dr. and Mrs. George Ellis Sandoz, 711 Rutherford street, first-place winner in 1947, plays in the L. S. U. band. Last summer he toured the west and southwest with a school friend, working in wheat fields and later getting a job in California. He saved an amount he refused to disclose, which he sent to his mother for deposit. The second-place winner in 1947 was Ruther Marie Bradford, who will be a junior next year at the university, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bradford, 2639 Regent street.

James Howard Zinck, of Lake Charles, won first-place in 1948, and Anna Sackett, Fairbanks community in Ouachita parish, won second that year.

This year's scholarship winners are "all-round" student type. Their likes are diversified, Lenora Armstrong being as interested in music and languages as in speech and Arnold Lincove having ambitions to assume a career which will require knowledge of some foreign language. He will not study law, where his oratory and extemporaneous speaking could be a help.

The Ewing scholarships were established in memory of the late Col. Robert Ewing by his daughter and sons. At the time of his death in 1931, Colonel Ewing was owner and publisher of the New Orleans States and of The Shreveport Times and was founder of the Monroe World. A staunch advocate of constitutional government, and a strong public school system as a means of maintaining it, he was author of an amendment at a state constitutional convention which provided free text books in New Orleans schools and paved the way for the present state-wide system of free books.

He was the father of John D. Ewing, editor and publisher of The Shreveport Times; Wilson Ewing, publisher of the Monroe News-Star—World; Mrs. Esther Ewing Brown of New Orleans; Robert Ewing, Jr., and James L. Ewing, also of New Orleans. Another son, Toulmin Ewing, died several years ago.

The annual essay contest which decides the scholarship awards always has as its subject the life and work of an American famous for helping to establish or maintain constitutional government in the United States. Previous subjects were George Washington, James Madison, Andrew Jackson, Woodrow Wilson and Benjamin Franklin. The subjects are selected by an L. S. U. faculty committee, which also does the judging. The Times does no judging and the judges have no knowledge of the name or school of any contestant. All identification is removed from each essay by The Times and a key and number, with designation as to whether the writer is a boy or girl, is given each entry.

Under the rules of the contest, the second place winner must be the opposite sex of the winner of the first place scholarship, thus assuring that both a boy and a girl are sent to L. S. U. each year.

Scholarship contestants are limited to the upper fourth, scholastically, of senior and junior high school grades. They must be certified by their principals as worthy in character, intellectual capacity and in general background for prizes as valuable as the four-year scholarships. The Ewing scholarships are the most valuable offered at L. S. U.

The university committee which selects each year's subjects and judges the contest is made up of Dr. William O. S. Scroggs, dean of the graduate school, committee chairman; Prof. Harlan Linneus McCracken of the university school of economics and Prof. Benjamin Foster Mitchell of the school of education.

Following are winners of cash prizes offered to small high schools in the annual Robert Ewing essay contest: $25.00 for first; $15.00 for second and $10.00 for third, the prize being duplicated for boys and girls:

Schools under 50 students: Boys—first, David Ray Norsworthy, Mt. Carmel High School, Florien, La.; no second and third awards made. MRS. ALICE ROY IS REPORTED IMPROVING

Mrs. Alice Roy, nurse at the St. Francis Sanitarium, is reported to be improving following an accident in which her leg was broken last month.

She is still confined to her home, on the Jonesboro road in West Monroe, and is welcoming visitors.

Mrs. Roy received a broken leg while spending a vacation in southern Texas.

magistrate's court Monday, when an application would be made for his removal to the Bow Street magistrate's court in London.

Bow Street is the only magistrate's court in England empowered to deal with applications for extradition.

The warrant on which Eisler was arrested, Police said, was issued under the extradition act of 1870. It was sworn out at the request of the United States.

There he faces two prison sentences, one for a year for contempt of a congressional committee, and the other for one to three years in a federal court conviction on passport frauds.

The 52-year-old prisoner was described in a citation for contempt by the American house of representatives in 1947 as the supreme Communist authority in the United States and "one of the most dangerous men ever to set foot on American soil."

In the federal court case his sister described him as an agent of the Soviet secret police and a "dangerous terrorist."

Eisler's bail bond, which authorities say he forfeited by leaving the country, was posted by the civil rights congress. The organization is listed as "subversive" by U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark.

Eisler slipped aboard the Batory as stowaway just before the ship left New York on her regular run to Gdynia, Poland, by way of Southampton and Copenhagen, Denmark.

After the ship sailed, Gdynia American Line officials said, he made himself known and paid his face to Gdynia. He was reported trying to reach Germany by way of Poland to take a job as a professor of social science in the University of Leipzig, in the Soviet zone.

American authorities asked Scotland Yard to arrest him and hold him for extradition.

The arrest was not made until after several hours of negotiation, to iron out what one American official described as "international complications."

The Batory dropped anchor off Cowes, isle of Wight, about 12 miles from Southampton's docks, at 11:30 Oha. M., British summer time (5:30 a.m. E. S. T.). A tender carrying Bray, another Scotland Yard inspector and immigration and port officials set out for the ship's side. Aboard were two American representatives, William Beck, Southampton consul general, and Felix Verity, assistant attache of the U. S. embassy.

It was not until 4:25 p.m. that the tender returned—without Eisler. It was understood that Eisler refused to leave the ship voluntarily, and the ship's master, Capt. Jan Cwiklinski, refused to surrender him on the grounds that he was a paid passenger.

A U. S. embassy spokesman then announced that Bray was returning to the Batory with a warrant for Fisler's arrest, presumably on the grounds that he was a fugitive who had jumped bail. The spokesman said no attempt would be made to serve the warrant immediately, however, if the ship's master would agree to stay anchored off Cowes until Monday evening.

He explained that the delay would permit "all parties concerned—Britain, Poland and the United States—a chance for further discussions of the case."

However, the master apparently refused to consider a further delay—the ship's sailing already had been delayed more than four hours—and Eisler was arrested.

ence to me'; that she knew I was a good painter and liked my work."

Cooke said the letter had been sent over the signature of C. A. Balding, council secretary. Balding's family said today he was ill and therefore could not be contacted. Cooke declined to disclose the text of the letter but described it as "notification" that Moler is doing the job.

"I don't even know whether the president is aware of it," Cooke said. "I understand Moler was hired by Mr. Truman's brother-in-law, George Wallace."

Cooke described Moler as "definitely non-union." Moler told newsmen he was not a union man, never had been one and didn't intend to be one but that he has no grudge against the union.

Moler said he had been called by Mize Peters, friend of the president, and asked to bid on the painting job.

Later, he said, Wallace called and told him to get ready; that Wallace would call Washington and notify the president or Mrs. Truman that Moler, with their permission, would paint the property.

Moler began the job May 3. He said he expects it will take about 20 days more to complete the job.

ron pilot of Oklatoma City. He admits he came out groggy yet victorious over a flock of ducks and geese.

When on a training flight all of a sudden a big explosion knocked Wynns unconscious for a moment.

When he recovered an instant later he started to bail out but finding the motor still running he headed back for the field, dropped the tip tanks and landed. An inspection of the plane disclosed that the "explosion" resulted when a goose broke through the cockpit and coming through the left side of the windshield made a hole big enough to stick a man's foot through. Inside the cockpit were found blood, feathers and pieces of a goose. Pilot's glasses were blood smeared. The right wing had a 10-inch hole. Another goose broke the gun camera. Ten pounds of meat and feathers were found inside a duct chamber.

It is reported that ducks and geese are a great hazard at Anchorage.

W. T. (Bill) Stephenson, prominent in his home city of Shreveport and also a frequent visitor to the Monroe Civitan club, recently got a record-breaking honor when in Dallas, Tex., where the Texas-Louisiana district convention of Civitan was held, he was re-elected for the third time as district governor. Civitan International has never before had a similar record, but those who know Bill regard it a well deserved honor. Incidentally he is to come to Monroe and deliver the principal address at the Monroe Civitan club's first anniversary party next Thursday night.

Here's how the Associated Press describes a newly-discovered young English painter:

Artist Thomas Warbis doesn't take a lot of trouble over his painting.

He splashes the colors—dozens of them—with a bold brush . . . or his bare finger . . . or an old stick with a chewed end.

He lets his cat pad over the fresh paint, sit on it and swish her tail over it.

And while turning out his master piece "Figure 8: Skegness" he spilled a saucer of paint on it by accident, smudged it, tried erasing, muttered "oh shucks" and let it ride.

But sponsors of a local art show thought "Figure 8: Skegness" was good enough to hang.

Critics praised it. Said the Leicester mail: "A fine specimen of medernism by the Borrow-on-Soam Artist Thomas Warbis."

The found later thta the Artist Warbis, said he "sent the picture as a joke and a test of people's knowledge of art."

Thomas D. Pearce, the organizer, wasn't blishing.

"It's no worse than a lot of stuff which poses as modern art," he said.

Mrs. Leon Atkins, 700 Oak street, is greatly distressed over the unexplained absence of her husband, an upholsterer, 36 years of age, who is missing from Port Arthur, Tex. where he went from Monroe to take a job. His employers there state that he left and said he would try to get a job in Shreveport. She last heard from him May 2, but has no word since and efforts in both Port Arthur and Shreveport have been in vain.

Why she is especially worried is the fact that he was not well, having suffered from heart trouble. Anyone who may aid in giving any information concerning him will be doing a great kindness, his wife assures for she is almost sick from worry and suspense.

mendations will total $1,450,000,000—the $1,130,000,000 for Europe in the fiscal year starting July 1, plus $320,000,000 for Greece, Turkey, Iran and a few other countries under Soviet-Communist pressure.

The arguments for the program developed officially the fact that Secretary Acheson and his state department aides do not yet find evidence of any basic change in the Soviet-Communist threat to Europe on which so much of this country's own foreign policy moves are based.

The situation created by the lifting of the Berlin blockade Thursday and the meeting of the big-four foreign ministers at Paris a week hence is being closely watched by Acheson for signs of Russia's real aims. Actually neither he nor his aides are believed to have any expectation that the need for continued firm development will be lessened in any important degree.

The state department summed up the European military situation, as it relates to American arms aid, this way:

At present the power of the western world is centered in the United States, 3,000 miles from Europe. The peoples of western Europe have been somewhat reassured by development of the north Atlantic treaty, but they are still worried about invasion dangers. The United States "must assist" the countries to develop the power needed to resist invasion.

"It must be perfectly clear to the people of the United States," the state department said, "that we cannot count on our friends in western Europe to resist if our strategy in the event of war is to abandon these friends to the enemy with a promise of later liberation."

Under the north Atlantic treaty "plans for the common defense of the free world must provide for the security of western Europe," the state department asserted. Meanwhile, it said, the situation must be regarded as out of balance and dangerous.

"As of now," the state department said, "thte inadequate defenses of western Europe invite military aggression, and increasing prosperity makes it a prize all the more tempting.

"Not until we share our strength on a common defensive front can we hope to replace this temptation with a real deterrent to war."

EISENHOWER IS BACK AT COLUMBIA POSITION

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was back on the job at Columbia University today after a tour of military duty in Washington and convalescence in the south from an illness.

The university president worked at his official residence for several hours. In the afternoon, he got in a round of golf.

Eisenhower was called to Washington in February to serve as temporary presiding officer of the joint chiefs of staff in working out a number of knotty problems confronting the armed forces.

He returned to Columbia briefly each week until his illness forced discontinuance of the visits.

the second student other than to say he is enrolled at an eastern university. But he said he is prepared to document his charge when the committee opens hearings May 23 on operations of the commission's fellowship fund.

"I think it is ominously dangerous to help educate people with public money who are subversive and are known to be subversive," Hickenlooper declared. "The investigation records of the commission show beyond any shadow of a doubt that the student is a Communist and was known to be a Communist when the fellowship award was made."

The commission has explained that it does not require advance security checkup of a student when the course involves no atomic secrets. It explained this would menace "freedom of inquiry and education." It said a full investigation is required if the program of study proposed by the applicant involves access to secret data.

The scholarship program, intended to combat the shortage of scientists, is administered by the national research council and the commission does not interfere with its selections, the commission explained. Hickenlooper said, however, that the final decision on awards is the commission's.

Chairman David E. Lilienthal had noted that all who are employed by the commission must pass security tests.

A commission spokesman today declined comment on Hickenlooper's remarks.

Hickenlooper said that some of those being aided by federal funds therefore could not be employed by the commission. He said that the student he refused to name fell in this class.

This week, Hans Freistadt, North Carolina University student who was awarded a scholarship, acknowledged he was a Communist after this was disclosed to the house by Representative Cole (R-N. Y.). School officials said Freistadt's course is of non-secret nature.

The Iowa senator said that the commission first started its fellowship program—on which it plans to spend $23,378,000 in the year beginning July 1—that security checks were made of all applicants for aid funds.

About 40 such applicants were investigated by the F. B. I. and reports made to the commission before it changed its policy so as not to require future investigations of this sort, he said.

The student to whom he is objecting was included in this group of 40, Hickenlooped said, adding that he got the commission award despite the report on his background.

"The commission must accept the responsibility for this and other cases," the Iowan declared. "It cannot hide behind the fact that it has set up fellowship boards to make recommendations on the applicants. The final decision on who gets the awards is the commission's."

Senator Russell (D-Ga.) joined Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) in agreeing that it might be wise for the senate appropriations committee to limit the atomic commission's use of its fellowship funds unless it agrees to screen out Communists from the program.

LAFAYETTE, La., May 14.—(AP)—Clarence E. Faulk, Jr., publisher of the Ruston Daily Leader, elected president of the Louisiana Press Association as the group closed its 69th annual convention here today.

He succeeds Rigby Owen, publisher of the Opelousas Daily World.

John B. Gordon of the Houma Courier, president of the L. P. A.'s southern group, and Jules Fogel of the Vivian Citizen, of the northern group, are state vice-presidents.

George T. Goodman of the Ponchatula Enterprise, absent because of illness, was re-elected secretary, treasurer.

Named to the board of directors were Nathan Bolton of the Bastrop Morehouse Enterprise, R. W. Wagner of the Jena Times and Olla-Tullos Signal, Mrs. W. A. Jackson of the Thibodaux Lafourche Comet, Max Thomas of the Crowley Daily Signal, Matt Vernon of the New Iberia Daily Iberian, and Howard Goodwyn of the Covington St. Tammany Farmer.

In separate session this morning, the Louisiana Daily Newspapers Publishers Association named Thomas as their new president, to succeed C. P. Liter, general manager of the Baton Rouge State Times and Morning Advocate.

John D. Ewing, publisher of the Shreveport Times, was named vice-president, succeeding Owen, and John W. Fanz, business manager of the New Orleans Item, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

At their fourth annual meeting, the daily publishers heard a talk by C. W. Tabb, manager of the Dallas, Tex., offices of the Southern Newspapers Publishers Association, on the work of the Texas Newspaper Publishers Association. The publishers also discussed circulation problems.

Concurrently, the weekly newspapermen heard a clinic for news editors conducted by F. James Price of the Louisiana State University School of Journalism.

Other participants were Mrs. Kenneth Walker of the Colfax Chronicle and Gene Yoes, news editor of the Abbeville Meridiona.

In a resolution, the group noted the deaths of Thomas M. Callhan, late publisher of the Lafayette Daily Advertiser; Miss Helen Gray Gilkison, Baton Rouge and New Orleans newspaperwoman; Robert F. Faxon, former editor of the Lake Charles American Press; John B. Taylor, founder of the Lafourche Comet; Melvin Vernon Strother, Eunice Newsman; Ernie Roberts, Jr., of Houma, and Mrs. J. Val Brock, former editor of the Franklinton Era-Leader.

Another resolution expressed thanks to host organizations in Lafayette.

Choice of a site for the 1950 meeting was left for a decision at a later date. No action was taken on an invitation to the group to meet in New Orleans. This bid extended by letter by A. E. Hegewisch, president of international House.

Retiring President Owen said attempts are being made to arrange a joint meeting of the L. P. A. with Mississippi and Alabama associations for 1950.

The rugged cast-iron hide of the tunnel apparently was unscathed. Fireboats, patrolling the Hudson river above the fire area, could find no telltale bubbles that would indicate a leak in the tube.

New York fire officials theorized that atmospheric pressure may have touched off the truck's cargo of carbon disulphide. It was reported carrying 4,400 gallons in eighty 55-gallon drums.

Meanwhile, New Jersey authorities sought to determine if criminal negligence was involved. Port authority officials said tunnel regulations stipulated that no more than 100 gallons of the chemical could be carried in a single truck. The regulations also specify that the permitted load be transported in glass or earthenware containers of a gallon or less in capacity, or in metal drums of five gallons or smaller capacity.

The truck, driven by Edmund Tyndall, 40, of Wehawken, N. J., was owned by the Boyce Motor Lines, Inc., of Jersey City. Company officials declined comment. Tyndall was not hurt.

Carbon disulphide, described as toxic (poisonous) and inflammable, is used in vulcanizing rubber, in insecticides and in the manufacture of rayon.

FARM PROGRAM FACES KILLING

Brannan Plan To Be Greatly Changed If It Survives In House

By James Free
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The new farm program proposed by Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan seems destined for a quiet mercy killing in the house agriculture committee.

If it survives, it will be in far different form from the original Brannan suggestions.

The farm billdoctors in the house committee also think some very serious surgery is needed on the Aiken law, which is scheduled to go into effect next January.

Meanwhile, the present farm price support program is looking better and better by comparison to the committee members each day. And indications now are that this patient—considered incurable by the Republican-dominated eightieth congress which preferred the Aiken law—will be given a clean bill of health by the Democratic eighty-first congress and restored to active duty.

Committee Chairman Harold D. Cooley, Democrat, North Carolina, is a loyal administration man, and he declines to criticize Brannan's plan calling for government subsidies to farmers to make up any difference between a fair return to the farmer and the price his products bring on an unsupported market. But Cooley admits the Brannan program has little or no support in the committee.

As for the Aiken law, providing for a flexible scale of price supports (from 60 to 90 per cent depending upon the supply), Cooley declares that "it doesn't seem to have any friends whatever on the committee, Democrats or Republican."

Cooley then points out that the existing program worked very satisfactorily during the war as well as both before and after. "The program we've got was built up gradually over a period of 16 years. If its not a long-range program, it was certainly intended to be. I don't mean that it can't be improved. But I do mean that the program is sound enough to stand enough up without any drastic or revolutionary changes. Most members of the committee agree on this. I think."

It is no secret among members of the agriculture committee that Cooley has cushioned the Brannan proposal from some rough sledding in committee hearings. He cooled down several Democratic members of the committee who wanted to take Brannan's plan apart in public.

"After all," Cooley reminded them, "he's a cabinet member in a Democratic administration. If we Democrats let fly at him on this with both barrels, think of the political fun the Republicans will have."

Cooley arranged a week-end delay in Brannan's interrupted testimony, and meantime admonished agriculture department specialists to bolster several more obvious weak spots in Brennan's plan. Then just a day or two ago Cooley came up with an alternate plan, which he admitted privately was designed to save part of Brannan's proposal—that part relating to the recommendation that farm prices be allowed to find their own level on the market.

Under the alternate plan, still being worked out in detail by Cooley and Representative W. R. Paoge, Democrat, Texas, farmers participating in quota crop programs would pay insurance premiums which would assure them of reimbursement of any difference between a determined parity price and the price the farm product actually brought on the open market. In other words, Cooley and Poage think it would be better to have "price insurance" for farmers than to have government subsidies for farmers. Their suggested insurance would be offered on a voluntary basis to growers of crops under acreage and marketing quotas.

Cooley admits that it would take several years of study and experiment to get a farm "price insurance" programs operating, but he still thinks such a plan would be preferable to government subsidies.

Traditionally, most farm legislation is written in the house, and that is where most farm groups are expecting the bulk of any legislating done by the eighty-first congress to come from. The fact that the Aiken law originated in the senate tends to strengthen the general belief that the 1949 bill will be drafted on the other side of Capitol Hill.

See 3 Billion Deficit For Next Year

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Experts who advise congress on taxes figured today that the government will run up a $3,000,000,000 deficit in the next fiscal year which begins July 1.

They used the presidential budget estimates on expenditures.

President Truman, in his budget message last January, estimated that outgo would exceed income by only $900,000,000 in those twelve months.

The government has a national debt of more than $251,500,000,000 right now.

The congressional tax advisers said they believe the government's income will fall off with a "moderate" business decline next year. The flow of tax money into the treasury fluctuates pretty much with the rise and fall of individual and corporate earnings, because of the income tax.

The experts said they made their assumption of a lower level of business activity after consulting "outstanding economic analysts" in private business and the government.

"The assumed decline is moderate," they said, "and does not take into consideration the effect of any sizable increase in government expenditures above the level forecast in the January budget, or any other possible increases in tax rates."

A heavy, pink-cheeked man named Colin Stam heads the adding machine and slide-rule brigade which advises the joint committee on internal revenue taxation, the top tax men in the house and senate. Stam and his crew are familiarly known as "taxsperts" around the capitol.

The tax experts reported their conclusions to the committee today, but made no recommendations on what should be done about federal finances.

Their report, in fact, could furnish additional arguments for those who want taxes increased as well as those who demand tight-pocket economy.

Policymakers of the committee for economic development, a privately financed research and planning organization, got out a statement meanwhile saying the tax hike could and would be sidestepped by slashing federal spending $2,100,000,000. Its figures are based on present rate of government revenues.

The staff of the senate-house committee calculated that government receipts from taxes, customs duties and other sources next year will come to only $38,900,000,000. It used the presidential budget figure of $41,900,000,000 for expenditures and put the difference, or deficit at around $3,000,000,000.

The budget estimated receipts at $41,000,000,000—$2,100,000,000 more than the taxsperts.

President Truman has said over and over that congress ought to boost taxes $4,000,000,000. Congress has shown no signs of doing it.

Chairman Doughton (D.-N. C.) of the house ways and means committee told reporters his own position is well known:

"When it looks like we are going to spend more money than we've got, economy is in order and important."

But, Doughton, who also heads the joint committee on taxation, said it is up to the members of congress to cut appropriations, increase revenues through higher taxes, or "take the responsibility for deficit spending."

"It is their responsibility," he said, "not Bob Doughton's and not Harry Truman's."

Doughton's committee initiates all tax legislation.

Chairman George (D.-Ga.) of the senate finance committee, which also considers tax bills, wouldn't go beyond saying that the figures of the congressional tax experts speak for themselves. George has been calling for economy, too.

BULL IN SILO NOT WORRYING FARMER

EAST FULTONHAM, O., May 14.—(AP)—Farmer John Gorsky's 1,000-pound bull jumped into a silo yesterday, but Gorsky doesn't seem worried.

He wanted to finish planting corn today before it rained. So he planted, while Bill, the pre-bred shorthorn bull, munched feed in the silo.

The bull jumped through an opening, 22 by 22 inches, yesterday as Gorsky's sister Lucille led the animal into the barnyard. The floor of the silo is 5 feet below the opening.

Asked how he intended to get Bill out, Gorsky replied:

"I haven't had time to think about it. I got to get this corn in first."

Gorsky can turn to newspaper files for plenty of suggestions. Last February when Grady, a cow, jumped into a silo near Yukon, Okla., newspaper readers sent in suggestions by the thousands.

Grady was greased and shoved out of her silo.

East Fultonham is a Muskingum county community, 15 miles south of Zanesville.

COWAN MAKES PLEA OF MANSLAUGHTER

FERRIDAY, La., May 14.—(Special)—Charles Cowan, partially blind fisherman of Ferriday, charged with murder, has entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter before Judge Jesse C. McGee in Seventh district court at Vidalia following a recent mistrial.

He will be sentenced next Thursday, it was stated by Judge McGee of Harrisonburg, who presided at the trial, which ended in a mistrial when members of the jury were unable to agree on a verdict after two days and nights.

The aged fisherman is charged with murdering Charlie Jones, a Ferriday sign painter, following an argument which arose during a penny-ante poker game last January.

The shooting took place on Lake Concordia at a fishing camp, where the men had been playing cards with companions.

Cowan said Jones threatened him and he drew a knife, which Jones took from him and he returned across the lake, got a gun, came back and shot him.

YOUNGSTER TAKES VISIT BACK TO OLD HOME SITE

BALTIMORE, May 14.—(AP)—Tommy Clement's daddy stretched out on the couch last night and dozed off.

Tommy's mother came home from the store 15 minutes later, about nine.

No Tommy.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Clement looked all over for their 3 1/2-year-old. They called police. Special details searched along the waterfront, fearing Tommy had fallen overboard.

They searched all night. No Tommy.

Tommy's daddy had a hunch this morning. He walked the nine blocks over to the house where the family lived until about a month ago.

"Seen Tommy?"

FARM PROGRAM FACES KILLING

Brannan Plan To Be Greatly Changed If It Survives In House

By James Free
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The new farm program proposed by Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan seems destined for a quiet mercy killing in the house agriculture committee.

If it survives, it will be in far different form from the original Brannan suggestions.

The farm billdoctors in the house committee also think some very serious surgery is needed on the Aiken law, which is scheduled to go into effect next January.

Meanwhile, the present farm price support program is looking better and better by comparison to the committee members each day. And indications now are that this patient—considered incurable by the Republican-dominated eightieth congress which preferred the Aiken law—will be given a clean bill of health by the Democratic eighty-first congress and restored to active duty.

Committee Chairman Harold D. Cooley, Democrat, North Carolina, is a loyal administration man, and he declines to criticize Brannan's plan calling for government subsidies to farmers to make up any difference between a fair return to the farmer and the price his products bring on an unsupported market. But Cooley admits the Brannan program has little or no support in the committee.

As for the Aiken law, providing for a flexible scale of price supports (from 60 to 90 per cent depending upon the supply), Cooley declares that "it doesn't seem to have any friends whatever on the committee, Democrats or Republican."

Cooley then points out that the existing program worked very satisfactorily during the war as well as both before and after. "The program we've got was built up gradually over a period of 16 years. If its not a long-range program, it was certainly intended to be. I don't mean that it can't be improved. But I do mean that the program is sound enough to stand enough up without any drastic or revolutionary changes. Most members of the committee agree on this, I think."

It is no secret among members of the agriculture committee that Cooley has cushioned the Brannan proposal from some rough sledding in committee hearings. He cooled down several Democratic members of the committee who wanted to take Brannan's plan apart in public.

"After all," Cooley reminded them, "he's a cabinet member in a Democratic administration. If we Democrats let fly at him on this with both barrels, think of the political fun the Republicans will have."

Cooley arranged a week-end delay in Brannan's interrupted testimony, and meantime admonished agriculture department specialists to bolster several more obvious weak spots in Brennan's plan. Then just a day or two ago Cooley came up with an alternate plan, which he admitted privately was designed to save part of Brannan's proposal—that part relating to the recommendation that farm prices be allowed to find their own level on the market.

Under the alternate plan, still being worked out in detail by Cooley and Representative W. R. Paoge, Democrat, Texas, farmers participating in quota crop programs would pay insurance premiums which would assure them of reimbursement of any difference between a determined parity price and the price the farm product actually brought on the open market. In other words, Cooley and Poage think it would be better to have "price insurance" for farmers than to have government subsidies for farmers. Their suggested insurance would be offered on a voluntary basis to growers of crops under acreage and marketing quotas.

Cooley admits that it would take several years of study and experiment to get a farm "price insurance" programs operating, but he still thinks such a plan would be preferable to government subsidies.

Traditionally, most farm legislation is written in the house, and that is where most farm groups are expecting the bulk of any legislating done by the eighty-first congress to come from. The fact that the Aiken law originated in the senate tends to strengthen the general belief that the 1949 bill will be drafted on the other side of Capitol Hill.

See 3 Billion Deficit For Next Year

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Experts who advise congress on taxes figured today that the government will run up a $3,000,000,000 deficit in the next fiscal year which begins July 1.

They used the presidential budget estimates on expenditures.

President Truman, in his budget message last January, estimated that outgo would exceed income by only $900,000,000 in those twelve months.

The government has a national debt of more than $251,500,000,000 right now.

The congressional tax advisers said they believe the government's income will fall off with a "moderate" business decline next year. The flow of tax money into the treasury fluctuates pretty much with the rise and fall of individual and corporate earnings, because of the income tax.

The experts said they made their assumption of a lower level of business activity after consulting "outstanding economic analysts" in private business and the government.

"The assumed decline is moderate," they said, "and does not take into consideration the effect of any sizable increase in government expenditures above the level forecast in the January budget, or any other possible increases in tax rates."

A heavy, pink-cheeked man named Colin Stam heads the adding machine and slide-rule brigade which advises the joint committee on internal revenue taxation, the top tax men in the house and senate. Stam and his crew are familiarly known as "taxsperts" around the capitol.

The tax experts reported their conclusions to the committee today, but made no recommendations on what should be done about federal finances.

Their report, in fact, could furnish additional arguments for those who want taxes increased as well as those who demand tight-pocket economy.

Policymakers of the committee for economic development, a privately financed research and planning organization, got out a statement meanwhile saying the tax hike could and would be sidestepped by slashing federal spending $2,100,000,000. Its figures are based on present rate of government revenues.

The staff of the senate-house committee calculated that government receipts from taxes, customs duties and other sources next year will come to only $38,900,000,000. It used the presidential budget figure of $41,900,000,000 for expenditures and put the difference, or deficit at around $3,000,000,000.

The budget estimated receipts at $41,000,000,000—$2,100,000,000 more than the taxsperts.

President Truman has said over and over that congress ought to boost taxes $4,000,000,000. Congress has shown no signs of doing it.

Chairman Doughton (D.-N. C.) of the house ways and means committee told reporters his own position is well known:

"When it looks like we are going to spend more money than we've got, economy is in order and important."

But, Doughton, who also heads the joint committee on taxation, said it is up to the members of congress to cut appropriations, increase revenues through higher taxes, or "take the responsibility for deficit spending."

"It is their responsibility," he said, "not Bob Doughton's and not Harry Truman's."

Doughton's committee initiates all tax legislation.

Chairman George (D.-Ga.) of the senate finance committee, which also considers tax bills, wouldn't go beyond saying that the figures of the congressional tax experts speak for themselves. George has been calling for economy, too.

BULL IN SILO NOT WORRYING FARMER

EAST FULTONHAM, O., May 14.—(AP)—Farmer John Gorsky's 1,000-pound bull jumped into a silo yesterday, but Gorsky doesn't seem worried.

He wanted to finish planting corn today before it rained. So he planted, while Bill, the pre-bred shorthorn bull, munched feed in the silo.

The bull jumped through an opening, 22 by 22 inches, yesterday as Gorsky's sister Lucille led the animal into the barnyard. The floor of the silo is 5 feet below the opening.

Asked how he intended to get Bill out, Gorsky replied:

"I haven't had time to think about it. I got to get this corn in first."

Gorsky can turn to newspaper files for plenty of suggestions. Last February when Grady, a cow, jumped into a silo near Yukon, Okla., newspaper readers sent in suggestions by the thousands.

Grady was greased and shoved out of her silo.

East Fultonham is a Muskingum county community, 15 miles south of Zanesville.

COWAN MAKES PLEA OF MANSLAUGHTER

FERRIDAY, La., May 14.—(Special)—Charles Cowan, partially blind fisherman of Ferriday, charged with murder, has entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter before Judge Jesse C. McGee in Seventh district court at Vidalia following a recent mistrial.

He will be sentenced next Thursday, it was stated by Judge McGee of Harrisonburg, who presided at the trial, which ended in a mistrial when members of the jury were unable to agree on a verdict after two days and nights.

The aged fisherman is charged with murdering Charlie Jones, a Ferriday sign painter, following an argument which arose during a penny-ante poker game last January.

The shooting took place on Lake Concordia at a fishing camp, where the men had been playing cards with companions.

Cowan said Jones threatened him and he drew a knife, which Jones took from him and he returned across the lake, got a gun, came back and shot him.

YOUNGSTER TAKES VISIT BACK TO OLD HOME SITE

BALTIMORE, May 14.—(AP)—Tommy Clement's daddy stretched out on the couch last night and dozed off.

Tommy's mother came home from the store 15 minutes later, about nine.

No Tommy.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Clement looked all over for their 3 1/2-year-old. They called police. Special details searched along the waterfront, fearing Tommy had fallen overboard.

They searched all night. No Tommy.

Tommy's daddy had a hunch this morning. He walked the nine blocks over to the house where the family lived until about a month ago.

"Seen Tommy?"

Sure. He came around about 9:30 last night and visited several families who had been neighbors. They tried to send him home; but Tommy didn't know his new address. Neither did they.

One family put him up for the night.

Dewey Clement took Tommy home to his mother and there was great rejoicing at 1625 Shakespeare street.

SCOTT CHARGES RECORDS HIDDEN

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.— (AP) — Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr. (D-Pa.), chairman of the Republican national committee, says the Democrats are hiding the files on "subversive" federal employes.

Scott spoke at LaSalle College and urged college students to take an active part in politics or else a "government of indifference, by the ignorant, for the benefit of insiders, will take you to the cleaners."

He said the Truman administration is obstructing the removal of "subversive elements" in the government. He added:

"There is no doubt but there are at least 20 persons in the state department today who are unsafe because of their background.

"And if that is so in the state department, this infiltration will grow unless we are ever on the alert."

U. N. ABANDONS EFFORT TO REST OVER WEEKEND

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—The United Nations assembly abandoned tonight all attempts to adjourn this week-end. It put over until Monday the last two hot issues—Spain and the former Italian colonies.

The delegates will tackle Monday at 9:30 a. m. E. S. T., a latin American proposal to take the diplomatic wraps off Spain. The disposition of the former Italian colonies will come up when action on Spain is concluded.

Late today the delegates approved a resolution asking South Africa, India and Pakistan to go into a round-table huddle over the problem of India's charges that South Africa discriminates against persons of Indian origin. The vote was 47 to one (South Africa) with ten abstentions.

This was the mildest action so far taken. In two previous assemblies the delegates have said South Africa violated fundamental human rights in its treatment of Indians.

After the vote Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian foreign minister and assembly president, said there still were important items for the assembly and if no one objected he would adjourn the meeting until Monday morning. He rapped his gavel at 5:23 E. S. T. while weary delegates applauded.

The end of the assembly depends on how quickly they can decide the Spain and Italian cases. This may not come now until Tuesday as there are long lists of speakers in both cases.

The assembly sat until nearly 3 a. m. E. S. T. this morning, completing work on a proposed treaty affecting press freedoms.

Passage of the latin American proposal favoring full diplomatic relations with Spain was in doubt, with both sides claiming victory.

NEGRO TRUSTY CUTS MAN IN KNIFE FIGHT

A trusty on leave from the Monroe city jail last night was being sought by police after she allegedly slashed a man with a pocket knife. She was originally sentenced on a charge for using a knife on a woman.

The injured man, Jesse B. Haynes, 35, Negro, of LaDart's alley, was awaiting treatment late last night in the Conway Memorial Hospital where police said his injury was not serious. He received a minor cut on his left arm. Haynes said his assailant cut him during a brawl at his home.

He identified the woman as Frances James, also a Negro. Police said last night the woman was serving a sentence in the city jail and had been released for the weekend as a trusty. She had not been located for questioning in connection with last night's incident.

The American people lost an average of $771,000 a year to passers of counterfeit bills from 1933 to 1936.

Cow-Milking Stoop-Stopper Saves Backs

CONWAY, Ark., May 14.—(AP)—If milking Bossy gives you a back ache, Farmer H. O. Proctor figures he can save you a lot of stoops.

It's just a matter of putting the cow on a higher level than the milker, says Proctor.

Proctor, who operates a farm near here, used to wear himself out stooping over to milk his 20 cows each day. He thought up the idea of building a ramp around his barn high enough so that when he has to milk all he does is reach out, attach the electrical milking squeezers and everything is set—with no back bending.

The old method required one bend to wash off each cow's set of faucets; another to attach the electric milkers and a third to remove the mechanical apparatus. That's six squats per cow per day. Since Proctor milks an average of 20 cows twice a day for 10 months, that represents 36,000 stoops he now saves yearly, or, so he figures.

CUBA SEEKING NEW TREATY IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—(AP)—Cuba's new ambassador to Mexico, Manuel Brana (N Tilde), said today he is working out a "most favored nation" trade treaty with Mexico.

"I have precise instructions from the Cuban government to begin study of a trade treaty in which Mexico will be the most favored nation in those lines in which she is most interested in the Cuban market," he told reporters.

Brana indicated the question of Cuban fishing near Mexican waters is on the road to happy settlement. However, he said, Cuba was more deeply hurt because her fishing boats were called "pirates" than by any fines they might face for violating Mexican law.

"Cuban feelings were briefly hurt when our fishing boats were called pirates and contrabandistas," he said. "The Cuban fishing boat is manned by honest men, workers, who carry shipping papers issued by the labor minstry. Each of these fishing boats flies the Cuban flag and comes to fish campeche gulf in line with historical tradition."

Brana compared the Mexican claim to jurisdiction for nine miles from her shores with the Unted States three mile limit, but added "Happily Mexican authorities at all times have handled the question in an atmosphere of great friendship which indicated a satisfactory ending."

The ambassador said the favorite fishing grounds of Cuban boats extended nearly 150 miles off the Mexican Campache coast, and there is no need for the boats to go within the Mexican nine-mile limit.

DOROTHY DIX

Mother Denies Young Girl Dates Until Older Daughter Marries

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl in my late teens and my problem is this: My mother will not let me go out with boys because as my older sister has never had any dates, Mom thinks that I should never have any. She thinks it would be disloyal for me to have boy friends and to go about and have good times, but goodness knows it isn't my fault that the boys run after me and run away from sister, and it wouldn't help her a bit if I sat back and sucked my thumbs too, instead of stepping out.

DOROTHY DIX

But the trouble is that Mother's refusing to let me have any of the fun that belongs to my time of life is forcing me to be a liar and a cheat and that takes the cream off of my pleasure. I have to be sly and deceitful. I can't ask my boy friends to the house. I have to fib about where I have been and what I have done, and I hate it.

What can I do to make Mother see that she is spoiling my youth and that she is making two old maids instead of one?

TEEN-AGED

ANSWER: There isn't much chance of your ever being able to open your mother's eyes to the folly she is committing in denying you the pleasures of girlhood because Nature didn't put the come-hither look in your sister's eyes, for it is just about as easy to move a mountain as it is to get a mother to alter her rules for a girl's conduct.

LOSES CHANCE

So if Mother thinks that a younger daughter should be kept in the background until an older daughter gets married, that's the way it is. Many a pretty young girl loses her chance of making a good marriage by being sacrificed to a homely elder sister.

Also, many a mother is responsible for her daughter going astray because she tries to force a perpetual babyhood on her and denies her the privileges and the freedom to which she is entitled. Little Annie doesn't always stay litle Annie. She grows up. And if she can't tell Mother what she does and where she goes, God help them both.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 19, in love with a boy of 22, and we plan to marry. My fiance drinks. On Friday night, which is his night out with the boys, they sit in a tavern and drink all night. I object to this strongly, but was inclined to let it ride until I got to thinking about the future. Just recently he told me that I should expect to have a hard time when we marry because he is going to do exactly as he pleases.

I know what I want in married life, and I certainly will not bring children into the world if they are to have a drunken father. How do you think I should go about making my point clear to him?

TROUBLED

ANSWER: The shoe is on the other foot. It is your boy friend who is making his point clear to you, and if you refuse to take the tip that he is giving you about what will happen to you if you marry him, you will deserve all the heartbreak that will inevitably come to you.

There is no other one thing in the world so tragic, and so strange, as that intelligent women know perfectly well what sort of a fate they are letting themselves in for if they marry drunkards, or philanderers, or ne'er-do-wells, or tyrants, and yet they do it. There isn't a day that I don't get letters from girls saying that their sweethearts beat them, or that they are libertines who are unfaithful to them, or that they are lazy loafers who graft their living off of their hard-working fiances. Yet these girls, whose Guardian Angels have shrieked warning after warning to them, go on and marry the men who will bring them nothing but misery.

This cad whom you are thinking of marrying is giving you a chance to save yourself. He tips you off to what you can expect. He tells you that he is going to drink as much as he wants; that he is going to do as he pleases, and that marriage with him will be a tough road to travel. Unless you are qualifying for martyrdom don't marry this type of man.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a divorced woman with seven children whose ages run from 12 to three years.. I am in love with a man whom I want to marry, but who will not marry me unless I put the children in some sort of an institution. At present I get $22.50 a week from the children's father and also an $80 pension from a society, which, of course, I will have to give up if I marry this man.

What do you advise me to do?

L. K.

ANSWER: A mother's duty is to the children she has brought into the world. Any woman with seven children to rear should be through with love-making and philandering. It will take all of her time and effort to bring the youngsters up to be decent men and women.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

NEW TRI-STATE INDUSTRY SEEN

New Business In Extracting Oil From Rice Bran Predicted For This Area

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—A million dollar industry to extract oil from rice bran is predicted for Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas.

Dr. W. D. Harris, profesor of chemical engineering at Texas A. and M. College, said today that edible oils and vitamins can be taken from rice bran that has been used chiefly as livestock feed.

Dr. Harris spoke at the 40th annual meeting of the American Oil Chemists' Society.

He said the new source will eventually increase the nation's supply of edible oils about 30,000,000 pounds a year.

Dr. Harris said a large plant is now operating in Houston, Tex., and that smaller plants have gone up in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas.

A solvent removes the oil and a sugar syrup from the bran, which resembles the husk around a peanut after the shell is removed. It is the sugar syrup which contains the B-complex vitamins used both as a tonic and to fortify other foods.

Dr. L. K. Arnold, Ames, Iowa, State College, described the process of extracting the oil and syrup.

He said a chemical—tri-chloroethylene—is used. It is non-inflammable and simplifies the work.

He described the oil and meal as excellent in quality and the process as low in cost.

To stretch a small amount of left-over ham mix it with cooked elbow macaroni and a cheese sauce for a supper dish. Or use the ham for luncheon sandwiches by grinding it with American cheese and seasoning the mixture with sweet pickle relish and mayonnaise.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—Cotton futures declined here today under week end long liquidations and hedge selling. Closing prices were fairly steady, 70 cents to 90 cents a bale lower. Trading was quiet.

Much of the selling was attributed to favorable weather reports. Small April domestic consumption estimates, heavier repossessions from the government loans, and easiness in other markets. Middling 15/16ths-inch spot cotton declined 75 cents a bale to 32.95 cents a pound.

Local sales amounted to 4,995 bales.

New York

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Cotton futures were lower in fairly active dealings today. Most of the selling came into the market during intial dealings. Pressure was general coming through the trade and New Orleans and centered mostly in the nearby July contracts. Traders ascribed the lower trend to disappointing action of the market, following termination of dealings in the May 1949 delivery. Some traders expected an improvement in the July price. But when this failed to develop the selling ensued. Some liquidation also was based on the continued disappointing cotton consumption trend.

Futures closed 60 cents to $1.05 a bale lower than the previous close.

U. N. ABANDONS EFFORT TO REST OVER WEEKEND

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—The United Nations assembly abandoned tonight all attempts to adjourn this week-end. It put over until Monday the last two hot issues—Spain and the former Italian colonies.

The delegates will tackle Monday at 9:30 a. m. E. S. T., a latin American proposal to take the diplomatic wraps off Spain. The disposition of the former Italian colonies will come up when action on Spain is concluded.

Late today the delegates approved a resolution asking South Africa, India and Pakistan to go into a round-table huddle over the problem of India's charges that South Africa discriminates against persons of Indian origin. The vote was 47 to one (South Africa) with ten abstentions.

This was the mildest action so far taken. In two previous assemblies the delegates have said South Africa violated fundamental human rights in its treatment of Indians.

After the vote Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian foreign minister and assembly president, said there still were important items for the assembly and if no one objected he would adjourn the meeting until Monday morning. He rapped his gavel at 5:23 E. S. T. while weary delegates applauded.

The end of the assembly depends on how quickly they can decide the Spain and Italian cases. This may not come now until Tuesday as there are long lists of speakers in both cases.

The assembly sat until nearly 3 a. m. E. S. T. this morning, completing work on a proposed treaty affecting press freedoms.

Passage of the latin American proposal favoring full diplomatic relations with Spain was in doubt, with both sides claiming victory.

NEGRO TRUSTY CUTS MAN IN KNIFE FIGHT

A trusty on leave from the Monroe city jail last night was being sought by police after she allegedly slashed a man with a pocket knife. She was originally sentenced on a charge for using a knife on a woman.

The injured man, Jesse B. Haynes, 35, Negro, of LaDart's alley, was awaiting treatment late last night in the Conway Memorial Hospital where police said his injury was not serious. He received a minor cut on his left arm. Haynes said his assailant cut him during a brawl at his home.

He identified the woman as Frances James, also a Negro. Police said last night the woman was serving a sentence in the city jail and had been released for the weekend as a trusty. She had not been located for questioning in connection with last night's incident.

Cow-Milking Stoop-Stopper Saves Backs

CONWAY, Ark., May 14.—(AP)—If milking Bossy gives you a back ache, Farmer H. O. Proctor figures he can save you a lot of stoops.

It's just a matter of putting the cow on a higher level than the milker, says Proctor.

Proctor, who operates a farm near here, used to wear himself out stooping over to milk his 20 cows each day. He thought up the idea of building a ramp around his barn high enough so that when he has to milk all he does is reach out, attach the electrical milking squeezers and everything is set—with no back bending.

The old method required one bend to wash off each cow's set of faucets; another to attach the electric milkers and a third to remove the mechanical apparatus. That's six squats per cow per day. Since Proctor milks an average of 20 cows twice a day for 10 months, that represents 36,000 stoops he now saves yearly, or, so he figures.

CUBA SEEKING NEW TREATY IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, May 14.—(AP)—Cuba's new ambassador to Mexico, Manuel Brana (N Tilde), said today he is working out a "most favored nation" trade treaty with Mexico.

"I have precise instructions from the Cuban government to begin study of a trade treaty in which Mexico will be the most favored nation in those lines in which she is most interested in the Cuban market," he told reporters.

Brana indicated the question of Cuban fishing near Mexican waters is on the road to happy settlement. However, he said, Cuba was more deeply hurt because her fishing boats were called "pirates" than by any fines they might face for violating Mexican law.

"Cuban feelings were briefly hurt when our fishing boats were called pirates and contrabandistas," he said. "The Cuban fishing boat is manned by honest men, workers, who carry shipping papers issued by the labor minstry. Each of these fishing boats flies the Cuban flag and comes to fish campeche gulf in line with historical tradition."

Brana compared the Mexican claim to jurisdiction for nine miles from her shores with the Unted States three mile limit, but added "Happily Mexican authorities at all times have handled the queston in an atmosphere of great friendship which indicated a satisfactory ending."

The ambassador said the favorite fishing grounds of Cuban boats extended nearly 150 miles off the Mexican Campache coast, and there is no need for the boats to go within the Mexican nine-mile limit.

DOROTHY DIX

Mother Denies Young Girl Dates Until Older Daughter Marries

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl in my late teens and my problem is this: My mother will not let me go out with boys because as my older sister has never had any dates, Mom thinks that I should never have any. She thinks it would be disloyal for me to have boy friends and to go about and have good times, but goodness knows it isn't my fault that the boys run after me and run away from sister, and it wouldn't help her a bit if I sat back and sucked my thumbs too, instead of stepping out.

DOROTHY DIX

But the trouble is that Mother's refusing to let me have any of the fun that belongs to my time of life is forcing me to be a liar and a cheat and that takes the cream off of my pleasure. I have to be sly and deceitful. I can't ask my boy friends to the house. I have to fib about where I have been and what I have done, and I hate it.

What can I do to make Mother see that she is spoiling my youth and that she is making two old maids instead of one?

TEEN-AGED

ANSWER: There isn't much chance of your ever being able to open your mother's eyes to the folly she is committing in denying you the pleasures of girlhood because Nature didn't put the come-hither look in your sister's eyes, for it is just about as easy to move a mountain as it is to get a mother to alter her rules for a girl's conduct.

LOSES CHANCE

So if Mother thinks that a younger daughter should be kept in the background until an older daughter gets married, that's the way it is. Many a pretty young girl loses her chance of making a good marriage by being sacrificed to a homely elder sister.

Also, many a mother is responsible for her daughter going astray because she tries to force a perpetual babyhood or her and denies her the privileges and the freedom to which she is entitled. Little Annie doesn't always stay litle Annie. She grows up. And if she can't tell Mother what she does and where she goes, God help them both.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 19, in love with a boy of 22, and we plan to marry. My fiance drinks. On Friday night, which is his night out with the boys, they sit in a tavern and drink all night. I object to this strongly, but was inclined to let it ride until I got to thinking about the future. Just recently he told me that I should expect to have a hard time when we marry because he is going to do exactly as he pleases.

I know what I want in married life, and I certainly will not bring children into the world if they are to have a drunken father. How do you think I should go about making my point clear to him?

TROUBLED

ANSWER: The shoe is on the other foot. It is your boy friend who is making his point clear to you, and if you refuse to take the tip that he is giving you about what will happen to you if you marry him, you will deserve all the heartbreak that will inevitably come to you.

There is no other one thing in the world so tragic, and so strange, as that intelligent women know perfectly well what sort of a fate they are letting themselves in for if they marry drunkards, or philanderers, or ne'er-do-wells, or tyrants, and yet they do it. There isn't a day that I don't get letters from girls saying that their sweethearts beat them, or that they are libertines who are unfaithful to them, or that they are lazy loafers who graft their living off of their hard-working fiances. Yet these girls, whose Guardian Angels have shrieked warning after warning to them, go on and marry the men who will bring them nothing but misery.

This cad whom you are thinking of marrying is giving you a chance to save yourself. He tips you off to what you can expect. He tells you that he is going to drink as much as he wants; that he is going to do as he pleases, and that marriage with him will be a tough road to travel. Unless you are qualifying for martyrdom don't marry this type of man.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a divorced woman with seven children whose ages run from 12 to three years.. I am in love with a man whom I want to marry, but who will not marry me unless I put the children in some sort of an institution. At present I get $22.50 a week from the children's father and also an $80 pension from a society, which, of course, I will have to give up if I marry this man.

What do you advise me to do?

L. K.

ANSWER: A mother's duty is to the children she has brought into the world. Any woman with seven children to rear should be through with love-making and philandering. It will take all of her time and effort to bring the youngsters up to be decent men and women.

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

NEW TRI-STATE INDUSTRY SEEN

New Business In Extracting Oil From Rice Bran Predicted For This Area

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—A million dollar industry to extract oil from rice bran is predicted for Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas.

Dr. W. D. Harris, profesor of chemical engineering at Texas A. and M. College, said today that edible oils and vitamins can be taken from rice bran that has been used chiefly as livestock feed.

Dr. Harris spoke at the 40th annual meeting of the American Oil Chemists' Society.

He said the new source will eventually increase the nation's supply of edible oils about 30,000,000 pounds a year.

Dr. Harris said a large plant is now operating in Houston, Tex., and that smaller plants have gone up in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas.

A solvent removes the oil and a sugar syrup from the bran, which resembles the husk around a peanut after the shell is removed. It is the sugar syrup which contains the B-complex vitamins used both as a tonic and to fortify other foods.

Dr. L. K. Arnold, Ames, Iowa, State College, described the process of extracting the oil and syrup.

He said a chemical—tri-chloroethylene—is used. It is non-inflammable and simplifies the work.

He described the oil and meal as excellent in quality and the process as low in cost.

To stretch a small amount of leftover ham mix it with cooked elbow macaroni and a cheese sauce for a supper dish. Or use the ham for luncheon sandwiches by grinding it with American cheese and seasoning the mixture with sweet pickle relish and mayonnaise.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—Cotton futures declined here today under week end long liquidations and hedge selling. Closing prices were fairly steady, 70 cents to 90 cents a bale lower. Trading was quiet.

Much of the selling was attributed to favorable weather reports. Small April domestic consumption estimates, heavier repossessions from the government loans, and easiness in other markets. Middling 15/16ths-inch spot cotton declined 75 cents a bale to 32.95 cents a pound.

Local sales amounted to 4,995 bales.

New York

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Cotton futures were lower in fairly active dealings today. Most of the selling came into the market during intial dealings. Pressure was general coming through the trade and New Orleans and centered mostly in the nearby July contracts. Traders ascribed the lower trend to disappointing action of the market, following termination of dealings in the May 1949 delivery. Some traders expected an improvement in the July price. But when this failed to develop the selling ensued. Some liquidation also was based on the continued disappointing cotton consumption trend.

Futures closed 60 cents to $1.05 a bale lower than the previous close.

MORE CASH AIDS DRIVE TO WALES

Less Than $4,000 Now Required To Take Ensemble To Festival

With added impetus from a group of Parish High alumni being given to the drive to send the ensemble from the Ouachita Parish High School choir to Wales, there now remains only the relatively small sum of $3,859.04 to be raised before the goal of $22,000 will have been raised.

One of the finest contributions yet received was a check for $100 from the students at the Crosley School in West Monroe, all of whom worked hard to earn their gift. Students of the sixth grade produced a play two weeks ago, and this week the entire student body took part in a variety show, with each grade putting on a stunt during the program.

The Twin Cities' newest organization for young women—the Jaycee Jaynes, made up of wives of the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce—sponsored a benefit bridge recently which netted an additional $100 for the choir fund.

Judge Jesse Heard has organized a group of West Monore alumni to work in finishing the drive on the west side of the river, while a similar group, composed of James H. Trousdale, Jr., Neal McHenry, George Trousdale, J. Norman Coon and Sheriff Bailey Grant, is winding it up on the east side of the river. Checks are being turned in by the team members, as well as being received through the mail at the Chamber of Commerce office. Additional contributions have been received during the past two days from the followin: Silverstein's, Robert Crawley, J. M. Cobb Brokerage Co., McGinn Finance Co., Tyner-Petrus Co., Carl H. McHenry, Mae M. Modes, Monroe Brick and Builders' Supply Co., and the Standard Office Supply Co.

Leaders of the movement to send the ensemble to the International Music Festival in Wales this summer have been most pleased at the generous response from people throughout Ouachita parish. They feel that no project has ever been undertaken in the parish that has received such wide and universal approval and support. With less than a week remaining in which to raise the balance of the $22,000 fund, it is anticipated that those who have not yet contributed will forward their checks immediately to the Chamber of Commerce office, or turn them over to those members of the two teams of Parish High School alumni who are assisting in the final days of the campaign.

The nucleus of an atom is said to measure only one 2,500,000,000,000th of an inch across.

Mix sauerkraut with some finely grated onion and a little tomato sauce. Season with salt, freshly ground pepper, and sugar and turn into a casserole. Top with dried bread crumbs that have been well coated with melted butter or margarine and heat in a moderate oven, This is a good vegetable casserole to serve with pork chops.

PLAY CENTER IS BEING PLANNED

Would Be Memorial For Concordia's Dead In Recent War

FERRIDAY, La., May 14.—(Special)—A delegation from Ferriday headed by Dr. Pollard Coleman, of the Ferriday Hospital, petitioned the Concordia parish police jury for funds to build a parish recreation center as a war memorial.

Considerable discussion centered on the proposed center, and the proposition was tabled until the June meeting in order for the police jury to study the matter carefully.

Dr. Coleman pointed out that the site had been already bought and paid for near the new school grounds and that the proposed center would cost between $40,000 and $46,000. He stated that it would be maintained by a group of interested clubs in Ferriday.

Leslie Murray, juror from ward five, which includes Vidalia, indicated that the town of Vidalia had intentions of asking for similar funds.

Organizations which are backing the movement in Ferriday include the Community Service Club, which originated the idea; the Woman's Club, P.-T. A., Band Mothers, Garden Club, Rotary Club, Boy Scouts, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and the Ferriday Town Council.

VETERAN SHOOTS SELF AFTER WOUNDING GIRL

MILFORD, Conn., May 14.—(AP)—A double shooting that authorities were at a loss to explain ended the life of a navy veteran here early today and gravely wounded a 17-year-old high school girl.

The victims were Raymond Cretton, 22, a former University of Bridgeport student, and Arlene Harris, 17, shot in the head in the living room of her Maple street home.

Authorities at Milford hospital, where Cretton died, also from a head wound, said the girl's condition was extremely critical.

Dr. William J. H. Fischer, Milford medical examiner who termed the case one of suicide and attempted homicide by Cretton, told newsmen: "There were no witnesses. We can only assume that it was a lovers' quarrel."

Arlene's mother, brother and sister, who had been with her and Cretton at a party Friday evening preceding the shooting, were stunned by the tragedy.

"There was not a harsh word spoken," throughout the evening, Arlene's sister, Mrs. Wanda Spear of Stratford, said.

Cretton ran from the house after the shooting. Edward Chernock, one of several policemen who began searching the neighborhood, said he heard a noise in a clump of bushes half a block from the Harris home.

"I told him to come out with his hands up," Chernock reported. "A minute later I heard two shots."

He found Cretton lying unconscious in the bushes, a bullet wound in his head and a .25 calibre pistol in his hand.

TRUMAN IS PRESENT TO WELCOME SOLONS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Baseball fan Harry Truman paid a surprise visit to Griffith Stadium today to join in welcoming the Washington Senators home from their victorious road trip.

The president was a spectator at their game with the Boston Red Sox.

It was the first home game of the Senators since they returned from the west after winning nine straight.

The winning streak, broken by loss of a game to Detroit Thursday, sent the Nats from last place into a tie for fourth with Chicago White Sox. Each has won 12 and lost 12.

The president invoked silence on his trip to the park until after he left his Blair House residence, accompanied by seven members of his staff.

Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman had a sudden notion to go, and wanted to attend as an ordinary citizen without any advance fanfare.

"If he can get by with it this time, he may go out again," Ross said.

5TH DISTRICT OF LEGION WILL MEET

George D. McKnight, Fifth district American Legion commander, announces that the spring conference will be held in the legion's memorial home, Forsythe Park, on Sunday May 22, starting at 9:30 a. m.

State Commander Robert L. Brown and Vice-Commander Paul Wade will be in attendance. Reports will be submitted and plans for the months ahead will be discussed.

The principal speaker will be R. L. Morrow of Mississippi, chairman of the national committee on agriculture.

ST. MATTHEW'S PLANS BUILDINGS

Will Erect Rectory And Auditorium-Gym; Cost May Total $160,000

The details of the building program for this summer at St. Matthew's Church and School were released to the press and to the congregation Saturday by the Rt. Rev. Monsignor J. C. Marsh, V. F., pastor.

The two major projects to be added to the plant are a new gymnasium-auditorium and a new rectory. Plans and blueprints are now being prepared and will probably be ready for bids during the early part of June. Both buildings will be of solid brick, fire-proof construction.

The rectory will be located next to the church and will face Jackson street. The gymnasium which will face Grammont street, and will be located between the church and the school building.

In the case of the rectory, plans call for a two-story structure with ample accommodations for offices and living quarters for the pastor, his assistants, and for visiting clergy. The gymnasium-auditorium will measure 62' wide by 120' deep. The usual recreational and stage equipment will be included in the gymnasium building. A front wing to the gym consisting of a lobby, library, and a meeting hall is also contemplated.

Cost for the two buildings is estimated from $130,000 to $160,000.

The peanut plant, Arachis hypogaea, was believed to have originated in Latin America.

Less Than $4,000 Now Required To Take Ensemble To Festival

With added impetus from a group of Parish High alumni being given to the drive to send the ensemble from the Ouachita Parish High School choir to Wales, there now remains only the relatively small sum of $3,859.04 to be raised before the goal of $22,000 will have been raised.

One of the finest contributions yet received was a check for $100 from the students at the Crosley School in West Monroe, all of whom worked hard to earn their gift. Students of the sixth grade produced a play two weeks ago, and this week the entire student body took part in a variety show, with each grade putting on a stunt during the program.

The Twin Cities' newest organization for young women—the Jaycee Jaynes, made up of wives of the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce—sponsored a benefit bridge recently which netted an additional $100 for the choir fund.

Judge Jesse Heard has organized a group of West Monroe alumni to work in finishing the drive on the west side of the river, while a similar group, composed of James H. Trousdale, Jr., Neal McHenry, George Trousdale, J. Norman Coon and Sheriff Bailey Grant, is winding it up on the east side of the river. Checks are being turned in by the team members, as well as being received through the mail at the Chamber of Commerce office. Additional contributions have been received during the past two days from the followin: Silverstein's, Robert Crawley, J. M. Cobb Brokerage Co., McGinn Finance Co., Tyner-Petrus Co., Carl H. McHenry, Mae M. Modes, Monroe Brick and Builders' Supply Co., and the Standard Office Supply Co.

Leaders of the movement to send the ensemble to the International Music Festival in Wales this summer have been most pleased at the generous response from people throughout Ouachita parish. They feel that no project has ever been undertaken in the parish that has received such wide and universal approval and support. With less than a week remaining in which to raise the balance of the $22,000 fund, it is anticipated that those who have not yet contributed will forward their checks immediately to the Chamber of Commerce office, or turn them over to those members of the two teams of Parish High School alumni who are assisting in the final days of the campaign.

The nucleus of an atom is said to measure only one 2,500,000,000,000th of an inch across.

Mix sauerkraut with some finely grated onion and a little tomato sauce. Season with salt, freshly ground pepper, and sugar and turn into a casserole. Top with dried bread crumbs that have been well coated with melted butter or margarine and heat in a moderate oven, This is a good vegetable casserole to serve with pork chops.

PLAY CENTER IS BEING PLANNED

Would Be Memorial For Concordia's Dead In Recent War

FERRIDAY, La., May 14.—(Special)—A delegation from Ferriday headed by Dr. Pollard Coleman, of the Ferriday Hospital, petitioned the Concordia parish police jury for funds to build a parish recreation center as a war memorial.

Considerable discussion centered on the proposed center, and the proposition was tabled until the June meeting in order for the police jury to study the matter carefully.

Dr. Coleman pointed out that the site had been already bought and paid for near the new school grounds and that the proposed center would cost between $40,000 and $46,000. He stated that it would be maintained by a group of interested clubs in Ferriday.

Leslie Murray, juror from ward five, which includes Vidalia, indicated that the town of Vidalia had intentions of asking for similar funds.

Organizations which are backing the movement in Ferriday include the Community Service Club, which originated the idea; the Woman's Club, P.-T. A., Band Mothers, Garden Club, Rotary Club, Boy Scouts, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and the Ferriday Town Council.

VETERAN SHOOTS SELF AFTER WOUNDING GIRL

MILFORD, Conn., May 14.—(AP)—A double shooting that authorities were at a loss to explain ended the life of a navy veteran here early today and gravely wounded a 17-year-old high school girl.

The victims were Raymond Cretton, 22, a former University of Bridgeport student, and Arlene Harris, 17, shot in the head in the living room of her Maple street home.

Authorities at Milford hospital, where Cretton died, also from a head wound, said the girl's condition was extremely critical.

Dr. William J. H. Fischer, Milford medical examiner who termed the case one of suicide and attempted homicide by Cretton, told newsmen: "There were no witnesses. We can only assume that it was a lovers' quarrel."

Arlene's mother, brother and sister, who had been with her and Cretton at a party Friday evening preceding the shooting, were stunned by the tragedy.

"There was not a harsh word spoken," throughout the evening, Arlene's sister, Mrs. Wanda Spear of Stratford, said.

Cretton ran from the house after the shooting. Edward Chernock, one of several policemen who began searching the neighborhood, said he heard a noise in a clump of bushes half a block from the Harris home.

"I told him to come out with his hands up," Chernock reported. "A minute later I heard two shots."

He found Cretton lying unconscious in the bushes, a bullet wound in his head and a .25 calibre pistol in his hand.

TRUMAN IS PRESENT TO WELCOME SOLONS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Baseball fan Harry Truman paid a surprise visit to Griffith Stadium today to join in welcoming the Washington Senators home from their victorious road trip.

The president was a spectator at their game with the Boston Red Sox.

It was the first home game of the Senators since they returned from the west after winning nine straight.

The winning streak, broken by loss of a game to Detroit Thursday, sent the Nats from last place into a tie for fourth with Chicago White Sox. Each has won 12 and lost 12.

The president invoked silence on his trip to the park until after he left his Blair House residence, accompanied by seven members of his staff.

Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman had a sudden notion to go, and wanted to attend as an ordinary citizen without any advance fanfare. "If he can get by with it this time, he may go out again," Ross said.

5TH DISTRICT OF LEGION WILL MEET

George D. McKnight, Fifth district American Legion commander, announces that the spring conference will be held in the legion's memorial home, Forsythe Park, on Sunday May 22, starting at 9:30 a. m.

State Commander Robert L. Brown and Vice-Commander Paul Wade will be in attendance. Reports will be submitted and plans for the months ahead will be discussed.

The principal speaker will be R. L. Morrow of Mississippi, chairman of the national committee on agriculture.

ST. MATTHEW'S PLANS BUILDINGS

Will Erect Rectory And Auditorium-Gym; Cost May Total $160,000

The details of the building program for this summer at St. Matthew's Church and School were released to the press and to the congregation Saturday by the Rt. Rev. Monsignor J. C. Marsh, V. F., pastor.

The two major projects to be added to the plant are a new gymnasium-auditorium and a new rectory. Plans and blueprints are now being prepared and will probably be ready for bids during the early part of June. Both buildings will be of solid brick, fire-proof construction.

The rectory will be located next to the church and will face Jackson street. The gymnasium which will face Grammont street, and will be located between the church and the school building.

In the case of the rectory, plans call for a two-story structure with ample accommodations for offices and living quarters for the pastor, his assistants, and for visiting clergy. The gymnasium-auditorium will measure 62' wide by 120' deep. The usual recreational and stage equipment will be included in the gymnasium building. A front wing to the gym consisting of a lobby, library, and a meeting hall is also contemplated.

Cost for the two buildings is estimated from $130,000 to $160,000.

The peanut plant, Arachis hypogaea, was believed to have originated in Latin America.

CAPOT WINS PREAKNESS, SETS NEW RECORD

FAVORED PONDER, WINNER OF DERBY, COMES HOME 5TH

Palestinian Makes It At Race, Finishing Head Behind Greentree Star

By John Chandler

BALTIMORE, May 14.—(AP)—Capot sizzled through a light shower to a new track record today as he won the Preakness Stakes by the margin of a damp head in one of the most thrilling finishes in the long history of the classic.

The Greentree Stable three-year-old star, second in last week's Kentucky Derby, showed them who was boss this time as he outlasted Isidor Bieber's Palestinian in the drive for the wire in the mile and three-sixteenths event.

Crispin Oglebay's Noble Impulse was third. Calumet Farm's derby winner—Ponder—never got in the act and wound up fifth in the field of nine starters. Mrs. E. H. Ellison, Jr's Sun Bahram was fourth.

The 73rd Preakness turned into a double photo finish. The judges had to look at the pictures to decide for certain that Capot had the call over Palestinian.

Then they peered at the photographs again to put Noble Impulse officially in third place.

Capot, given a brilliant ride by Toronto Teddy Atkinson, blazed under the wire in 1:56 flat, wiping two-fifths of a second off the track record set by Riverland in the 1943 Dixie Handicap.

The time also was a full second faster than the old Preakness record of 1:57 made by Alsab in 1942.

A steaming crowd of 30,184 persons, who first baked in a hot sun and then 27 minutes before post time scurried before a shower, roared approval of Capot. This despite the fact the crowd had made Ponder the favorite at a little better than 2 to 1.

Capot was second choice at 5 to 2 as he gave his famous racing stable its first Preakness victory.

He paid off at the rate of $7.00, $3.60 and $2.60 for $2 in the mutuels.

It was also the initial Preakness victory for Atkinson.

Palestinian, who was ridden by Eddie Arcaro, might have grabbed it all in a few more jumps, but there wasn't enough real estate left at the finish.

The Bieber colt, third in the Derby, returned $4.60 and $3.20, while Noble Impulse paid $3.40 for show.

The others finished in this order: King Ranch's Curandero sixth, Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Model Cadet, seventh; Clifford Mooers' Old Rockport, eighth, and Sylvester W. Labrot, Jr.'s Taran, last.

Palestinian was three lengths ahead of Noble Impulse and there was only a nose difference between the next two horses, Sun Bahram and Ponder.

The victory—not exactly unexpected since Capot was leading in the mile and one quarter derby at the Preakness distance—netted $79,985 to John Hay (Jack) Whitney and his sister, Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, the Greentree owners.

It boosted the earnings of the brown son of Menow-Piquet to $212,985--$120,835 of it this year.

"I made my move at the fixe-sixteenth pole," Atkinson said afterwards as he was hustled through the crowd jamming around the winner's circle where the traditional blanket of black-eyed-Susans was draped over the prancing Capot.

"I would have made it sooner, but couldn't get clear."

Asked if he used the whip, the grinning Teddy, who is known as The Slasher, replied:

"Did I use it? I used it every place but on his feet."

The outcome also justified Trainer John Gaver's tart retort after the derby that Capot "will be the horse to beat in the rest of the three-year-old classics this year."

"He is a better horse today than he was a week ago," said Gaver.

He added that he wasn't sure of his future plans but is expected to send Capot after the third number in the triple crown—the Belmont—on June 11.

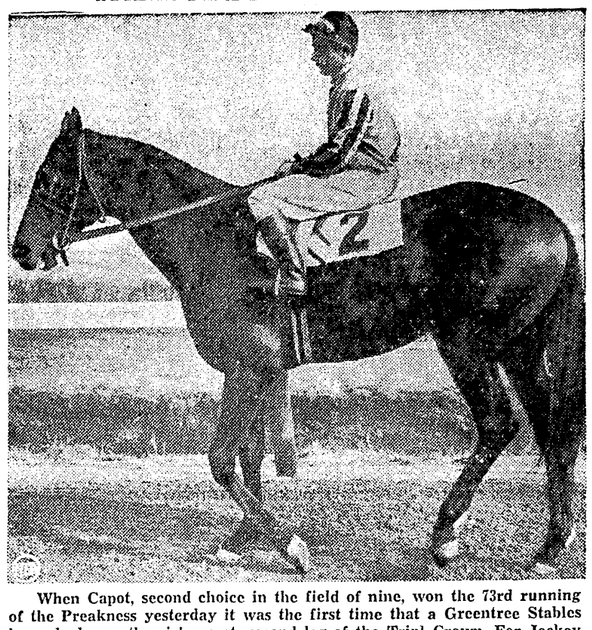
THEIR FIRST PREAKNESS WIN



When Capot, second choice in the field of nine, won the 73rd running of the Preakness yesterday it was the first time that a Greentree Stables horse had won the rich event, second leg of the Tripl Crown. For Jockey Ted Adkinson, shown above on Capot, it was also a first Preakness victory.

The SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, May 14.—(NEA)—When the Giants arrived home from the far west this spring, the Indians, who made the transcontinental trip with them, complained that there wasn't a batting practice pitcher on the New York staff.

Clint Hartung

Power and speed in the outfield, but after Larry Jansen, who was going to pitch.

The Polo Grounders' best friends admitted that Leo Durocher had little pitching, by far the worst in the majors.

Yet here they are with the best in the National League at the moment.

What happened to enable Jones, Hartung and Kennedy to rotate behind Ace Jensen so effectively that when the Stonehams equaled their longest winning streak of 1948, eight games, and took the lead, not one other pitcher had started this season?

With one exception, the Big Four had gone the distance in nine consecutive engagements, and Sheldon Jones was not relieved by Hank Behrman until the ninth.

Available Jones won 16 while losing 8 with an earned-run average of 3.36 last trip. The Los Angeles lad is pretty fast, possesses a good variety. When he is the third or fourth man, a manager has a fair-to-middling corps, which is the Giants' story today.

Floppy Hartung represents the biggest difference.

The Hondo Horror had little more organized baseball experience than 66 games in a Class D league when he was yanked in from left field to pitch for Mel Ott two years ago.

Veterans were amazed at Soldier Hartung's control.

Everybody told the youngster what to do.

He experimented.

The result was general confusion. He was like a beginner at golf worrying about his hands, head and hips.

This spring, it was decided that only one guy would work on Hartung, and Frank Shellenback, the old Pacific Coast League spitball pitcher, manager, coach and scout, was brought in.

"You are fortunate in starting with a live arm," Shellenback told the towering Texan. "All you need is the mechanics."

Shellenback adjusted Hartung's grip slightly, advised him to pitch to left-hand batters with a three-quarter motion.

Right-hand batters got Hartung's fast ball, breaking away and down. No right-hand hitter likes that. Hartung worked on a slow curve for both types of hitters.

Hartung is so fast that the ball swishes as it is rifled across the plate. A heavy ball appears to go right through the bat. When he has control of his sinker, the opposition hits the ball into the dirt and around the infield.

Monte Kennedy always had the left arm, but was an in-and-outer to such an extent that he was sent to Minneapolis last season.

The trim Virginian was brought back on the strength of a no-hitter against Louisville, and while he had nothing much in the way of a record, he turned in seven straight well-pitched games. He was shut out by Rex Barney, when the Dodger turned in his no-hitter, for example, and Stan Musial of the Cardinals beat him with a home run in the 12th, which is likely to happen to the slickest slinger.

Kennedy had trouble with his control again this spring, but is exceptionally fast, and getting his quickly-breaking curve over the plate when behind batters, he looked like Hal Newhouser. He shut out the Cardinals the other day.

Hank Behrman, who can fire the ball like blazes for three or four rounds, is the No. 1 relief worker.

Dave Koslo, a fair left-hander, has been relegated to the fifth slot. Andy Hansen has a good arm, but a bad head. Ray Poat, who won nine of his first 11 last year, has lost his speed and stuff.

None of the Big Four was present and accounted for three years ago, so, you see, the National Exhibition Co. hasn't been sitting still in the pitching department after all.

And if the Giants continue to couple pitching with their power, they'll take it all.

CURTIS, WILLIAMS TO BATTLE LAYE, 'GORILLA' MACIAS

Ex-Light Heavy Titlist Still Hasn't Had 'Enough' Of Champion Jack

Certain that he'll be unable to get another championship battle with Jack Curtis anytime soon, Charlie Laye, the ex-titlist of Knoxville, Tenn., showed he hasn't had "enough" when he challenged for a tag team scramble at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night with Curtis as one half of the opposing force.

"Well, he beat me but he didn't make me like it," was Laye's declaration after losing a third straight title match with Champion Jack here last week. Laye charged Curtis had been bragging to "some fans that he made me like it."

Jack Curtis

"But Curtis is not near through with me, if he lives up to that statement he made a while back that 'the man who is afraid of me had left the country.' "

Laye got in his tag team challenge because he remembered that it was what Curtis wanted a week ago instead of a title match. Laye claimed then he couldn't make a tag date because Chris Belkas, the partner with whom he ran up a string of tag victories here early in the spring, was not available.

But this time Laye is willing to settle on "Gorilla" Macias, the Mexican rowdy, as a partner just to get another shot at Curtis.

Champion Jack has named Eddie Williams to side him in the relay match.

Macias, when approached by Laye as he sought the Gorilla's help, wanted to take the match on a winner-take-all basis, but Laye declined to agree, satisfied that 60-40 was all right.

Curtis, although not declining the match, had a beef about the Laye system.

"What's the matter with him? Doesn't he have enough?" Curtis said to Kallio. "Last week he didn't want a tag match, so he got a title match. Now he wants a tag match. I suppose if I was booked somewhere else Tuesday, he'd yell to everybody that I was afraid of him.

"I've heard people compare Laye's type to old wash women. Always complaining, nothing goes right, nothing ever suits them. When I was a little boy, I was playing behind a fence one day. There was an old man walking down th estreet on the other

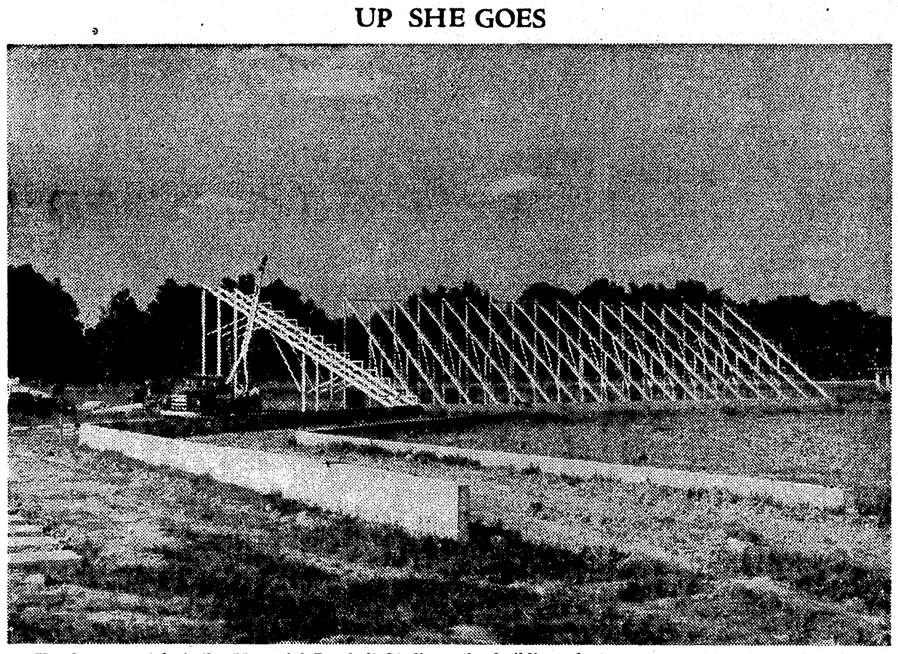
UP SHE GOES



Up she goes at last, the Memorial Baseball Stadium, the building of which is being sponsored by the L. B. Faulk Post of the American Legion here. Delayed for nearly three months because of wet grounds, workmen were finally able to get their equipment on the scene near Bernstein Park early the past week and work got underway promptly. The work is now progressing rapidly, chiefly because welding shops with the metal work contracts prefabricate sections of the grandstand at their shops while awaiting for ground conditions to make it possible to move onto the scene with their heavy equipment.

The grandstand section, when complete, will extend around the high concrete footing and sunken footings pictured at the extreme left foreground. Box seats are to go into that area between the two raised strips of concrete. Steel work now up represents about one third of the grandstand capacity.

CONCORDIA MOVES TO PROTECT GAME

Police Jury Asked To 'Put Teeth' Into Local Hunting Laws

FERRIDAY, La., May 14.—(Special)—An all-out drive to save Concordia parish's fast-dwindling game supply was made at the regular monthly meeting of the parish police jury. The meeting was presided over by H. A. Martin, president.

Major James M. Brown of the state wildlife and fisheries department explained to the jurors how the parish could go about preserving its squirrel and deer.

It was pointed out that Concordia parish has a no-camping law but that the law must be clarified and "some teeth put into it."

Only Tensas and Madison parishes in Louisiana have fully enforced local camping laws, he stated, and such laws must be enforced.

"Concordia parish has as fine a hunting place as anywhere in the state—better than Tensas and Madison," he declared, "but for many years the local people didn't believe in game laws and did not back up the enforcing officers."

"The time has come when we know we must observe these rules. You can bring your game back, and you should have a supply of game second to none."

Police Juror R. A. Graham called Concordia parish the "hunting dumping ground of the nation." He said that hunters from game-cleaned sections flood into Concordia. Rep. Mike S. Ohlsen said that hunters pour into the parish by the thousands, even in airplanes, to slaughter the squirrels. He said that it is impossible for a hunter to get as few as five squirrels a day. Jurors decided to investigate Tensas parish local game laws, and to consider the matter at the next meeting.

HOT TEMPERS FLARE UP WHEN CARDS, BUCS MEET

(By Associated Press)

The major league "rhubarb" season is in full swing with the St. Louis Cards and Pittsburgh Pirates in the star bout.

Bad feeling first sprouted between the Cards and Buccos the night of April 27 when Stan Rojek was hit twice by a pitched ball, the second time, he was sidelined for over a week. Some of the Pirates thought it wasn't an accident.

Friday night iit burst forth again when St. Louis Catcher Joe Garagiola behind the bat in the Rojek "incident." and Pittsburgh Pitcher Rip Sewell collided after a near "beaning."

Garagiola, who had hit the dirt a few seconds earlier to escape one of Sewell's pitches, tapped a grounder toward first base. It was the routine comeback from a hitter who wants to even matters with a pitcher.

Sewell came over to cover the bag and bumper into Garagiola, sending him sprawling.

Players of both teams and their managers swarmed on the field at Pittsburgh but cool heads prevailed before a punch was thrown. Umpire Jock Conlan told Managers Billy Meyer and Eddie Dyer he would clear both benches if order was not restored immediately.

SOFTBALL DOUBLE HEADER BENEFITS OUACHITA'S CHOIR

Nichols Plays N. S. C. All-Stars; Lovers' Lane Meets Rush Here Today

Some of the state's best softball talent will be in action here today in a benefit double header at the Barkdull Faulk diamond, and proceeds of the diamond show will be donated to the Ouachita Parish High School choir fund being raised to finance the choir's proposed trip to the international music festival at Wales, England.

Men and girls will furnish the afternoon's entertainment with Nichols Motors, leader of Monroe's City League, taking on an all-star men's team from Northwestern Louisiana State College in the opening game at 2:30 o'clock.

The girls' contest will begin at 4 o'clock with the Johnny Rush team of Alexandria, quarter-finalists in the national tournament at Portland, Ore., last year, meeting the Lovers' Lane Pharmacy team of the Monroe Girls' League.

In the girls' contest, the Rush outfit is expected to open with Michlies or McSherry pitching and Handley catching. Lovers' Lane expects to use Kinnard and Kenny on the mound with Inzinia behind the plate.

Bobby Johnson, who pitched Hutchins Motors of Shreveport to the Tri-State championship last year and now a student at N. S. C., will be on the hill for the college boys, while Carl Russ, current sensation of the City League, will be Manager Julius Haddad's choice for hurling duty.

Johnson, with several no-hit games to his credit, one against the Monroe Red Sox at Shreveport last year, is considered on a par with Russ who has pitched one no-hitter and three one-hitters in as many games here this year, and a real pitching duel is anticipated.

Lineups for the men's game were announced as follows:

N. S. C.—Johnson, pitcher; Sam Rubin, Monroe, catcher; Singletary, Parkway All-Stars, Baton Rouge, first base; Ledet, Cheneyville, second base; Emmons, Mansfield, shortstop; Givens, Parkway All-Stars, third base; Thompson, Waterproof, left field; Jackson, Parkway All-Stars, center field; and Wilson, Cheneyville, right field.

Nichols—Russ, pitcher; Schultz, catcher; Haddad, first base; Ladart, second base; Canal, shortstop; Moore, third base; Stone, left field; Mitchell, center field; and Hayes, right field. Substitutes will be Holmes, Lambeth, Garner, and Creighton.

At least 50% of the adult population of the United States are being attacked by the disease known as Athlete's Foot.

Usually the disease starts between the toes. Little watery blisters form, and the skin cracks and peels. After a while, the itching becomes intense, and you feel as though you would like to scratch off all the skin.

BEWARE OF IT SPREADING

Often the disease travels all over the bottom of the feet. The soles of your feet become red and swollen. The skin also cracks and peels, and the itching becomes worse and worse.

Get relief from this disease as quickly as possible, because it is both contagious and infectious, and it may go to your hands or even to the under arm or crotch of the legs.

DISEASE OFTEN MISUNDERSTOOD

The cause of the disease is not a germ as so many people think, but a vegetable growth that becomes buried beneath the outer tissues of the skin.

To obtain relief the medicine to be used should first gently dissolve or remove the outer skin and then kill the vegetable growth.

This growth is so hard to kill that a test shows it takes 15 minutes of boiling to destroy it; however, laboratory tests also show that H. F. will kill it upon contact in 15 seconds.

DOUBLE ACTION NEEDED

Recently H. F. was developed solely for the purpose of relieving Athlete's Foot. It both gently dissolves the skin and then kills the vegetable growth upon contact. Both actions are necessary for prompt relief.

H. F. is a liquid that doesn't stain. You just paint the infected parts nightly before going to bed. Often the terrible itching is relieved at once.

CAPOT WINS PREAKNESS, SETS NEW RECORD

FAVORED PONDER, WINNER OF DERBY, COMES HOME 5TH

Palestinian Makes It At Race, Finishing Head Behind Greentree Star

By John Chandler

BALTIMORE, May 14.—(AP)—Capot sizzled through a light shower to a new track record today as he won the Preakness Stakes by the margin of a damp head in one of the most thrilling finishes in the long history of the classic.

The Greentree Stable three-year-old star, second in last week's Kentucky Derby, showed them who was boss this time as he outlasted Isidor Bieber's Palestinian in the drive for the wire in the mile and three-sixteenths event.

Crispin Oglebay's Noble Impulse was third. Calumet Farm's derby winner—Ponder—never got in the act and wound up fifth in the field of nine starters. Mrs. E. H. Ellison, Jr's Sun Bahram was fourth.

The 73rd Preakness turned into a double photo finish. The judges had to look at the pictures to decide for certain that Capot had the call over Palestinian.

Then they peered at the photographs again to put Noble Impulse officially in third place.

Capot, given a brilliant ride by Toronto Teddy Atkinson, blazed under the wire in 1:56 flat, wiping two-fifths of a second off the track record set by Riverland in the 1943 Dixie Handicap.

The time also was a full second faster than the old Preakness record of 1:57 made by Alsab in 1942.

A steaming crowd of 30,184 persons, who first baked in a hot sun and then 27 minutes before post time scurried before a shower, roared approval of Capot. This despite the fact the crowd had made Ponder the favorite at a little better than 2 to 1.

Capot was second choice at 5 to 2 as he gave his famous racing stable its first Preakness victory.

He paid off at the rate of $7.00, $3.60 and $2.60 for $2 in the mutuels.

It was also the initial Preakness victory for Atkinson.

Palestinian, who was ridden by Eddie Arcaro, might have grabbed it all in a few more jumps, but there wasn't enough real estate left at the finish.

The Bieber colt, third in the Derby, returned $4.60 and $3.20, while Noble Impulse paid $3.40 for show.

The others finished in this order: King Ranch's Curandero sixth, Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Model Cadet, seventh; Clifford Mooers' Old Rockport, eighth, and Sylvester W. Labrot, Jr.'s Taran, last.

Palestinian was three lengths ahead of Noble Impulse and there was only a nose difference between the next two horses, Sun Bahram and Ponder.

The victory—not exactly unexpected since Capot was leading in the mile and one quarter derby at the Preakness distance—netted $79,985 to John Hay (Jack) Whitney and his sister, Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, the Greentree owners.

It boosted the earnings of the brown son of Menow-Piquet to $212,985--$120,835 of it this year.

"I made my move at the fixe-sixteenth pole," Atkinson said afterwards as he was hustled through the crowd jamming around the winner's circle where the traditional blanket of black-eyed-Susans was draped over the prancing Capot.

"I would have made it sooner, but couldn't get clear."

Asked if he used the whip, the grinning Teddy, who is known as The Slasher, replied:

"Did I use it? I used it every place but on his feet."

The outcome also justified Trainer John Gaver's tart retort after the derby that Capot "will be the horse to beat in the rest of the three-year-old classics this year."

"He is a better horse today than he was a week ago," said Gaver.

He added that he wasn't sure of his future plans but is expected to send Capot after the third number in the triple crown—the Belmont—on June 11.

THEIR FIRST PREAKNESS WIN

When Capot, second choice in the field of nine, won the 73rd running of the Preakness yesterday it was the first time that a Greentree Stables horse had won the rich event, second leg of the Tripl Crown. For Jockey Ted Adkinson, shown above on Capot, it was also a first Preakness victory.

The Scoreboard

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK, May 14.—(NEA)—When the Giants arrived home from the far west this spring, the Indians, who made the transcontinental trip with them, complained that there wasn't a batting practice pitcher on the New York staff.

Power and speed in the outfield, but after Larry Jansen, who was going to pitch.

The Polo Grounders' best friends admitted that Leo Durocher had little pitching, by far the worst in the majors.

Clint Hartung

Yet here they are with the best in the National League at the moment.

What happened to enable Jones, Hartung and Kennedy to rotate behind Ace Jensen so effectively that when the Stonehams equaled their longest winning streak of 1948, eight games, and took the lead, not one other pitcher had started this season?

With one exception, the Big Four had gone the distance in nine consecutive engagements, and Sheldon Jones was not relieved by Hank Behrman until the ninth.

Available Jones won 16 while losing 8 with an earned-run average of 3.36 last trip. The Los Angeles lad is pretty fast, possesses a good variety. When he is the third or fourth man, a manager has a fair-to-middling corps, which is the Giants' story today.

Floppy Hartung represents the biggest difference.

The Hondo Horror had little more organized baseball experience than 66 games in a Class D league when he was yanked in from left field to pitch for Mel Ott two years ago.

Veterans were amazed at Soldier Hartung's control.

Everybody told the youngster what to do.

He experimented.

The result was general confusion. He was like a beginner at golf worrying about his hands, head and hips.

This spring, it was decided that only one guy would work on Hartung, and Frank Shellenback, the old Pacific Coast League spitball pitcher, manager, coach and scout, was brought in.

"You are fortunate in starting with a live arm," Shellenback told the towering Texan. "All you need is the mechanics."

Shellenback adjusted Hartung's grip slightly, advised him to pitch to left-hand batters with a three-quarter motion.

Right-hand batters got Hartung's fast ball, breaking away and down. No right-hand hitter likes that. Hartung worked on a slow curve for both types of hitters.

Hartung is so fast that the ball swishes as it is rifled across the plate. A heavy ball appears to go right through the bat. When he has control of his sinker, the opposition hits the ball into the dirt and around the infield.

Monte Kennedy always had the left arm, but was an in-and-outer to such an extent that he was sent to Minneapolis last season.

The trim Virginian was brought back on the strength of a no-hitter against Louisville, and while he had nothing much in the way of a record, he turned in seven straight well-pitched games. He was shut out by Rex Barney, when the Dodger turned in his no-hitter, for example, and Stan Musial of the Cardinals beat him with a home run in the 12th, which is likely to happen to the slickest slinger.

Kennedy had trouble with his control again this spring, but is exceptionally fast, and getting his quickly-breaking curve over the plate when behind batters, he looked like Hal Newhouser. He shut out the Cardinals the other day.

Hank Behrman, who can fire the ball like blazes for three or four rounds, is the No. 1 relief worker.

Dave Koslo, a fair left-hander, has been relegated to the fifth slot. Andy Hansen has a good arm, but a bad head. Ray Poat, who won nine of his first 11 last year, has lost his speed and stuff.

None of the Big Four was present and accounted for three years ago, so, you see, the National Exhibition Co. hasn't been sitting still in the pitching department after all.

And if the Giants continue to couple pitching with their power, they'll take it all.

BESSELINK HEADING SHREVEPORT ENTRY

SHREVEPORT, La., May 14.—(AP)—Al Besselink, of the University of Miami, only two-time winner of the Southern Intercollegiate Golf Tournament, heads a select field that will compete in the first annual Shreveport Country Club Invitational tourney here May 25 through May 29.

CURTIS, WILLIAMS TO BATTLE LAYE, 'GORILLA' MACIAS

Ex-Light Heavy Titlist Still Hasn't Had 'Enough' Of Champion Jack

Certain that he'll be unable to get another championship battle with Jack Curtis anytime soon, Charlie Laye, the ex-titlist of Knoxville, Tenn., showed he hasn't had "enough" when he challenged for a tag team scramble at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night with Curtis as one half of the opposing force.

"Well, he beat me but he didn't make me like it," was Laye's declaration after losing a third straight title match with Champion Jack here last week. Laye charged Curtis had been bragging to "some fans that he made me like it."

"But Curtis is not near through with me, if he lives up to that statement he made a while back that 'the man who is afraid of me had left the country.' "

Jack Curtis

Laye got in his tag team challenge because he remembered that it was what Curtis wanted a week ago instead of a title match. Laye claimed then he couldn't make a tag date because Chris Belkas, the partner with whom he ran up a string of tag victories here early in the spring, was not available.

But this time Laye is willing to settle on "Gorilla" Macias, the Mexican rowdy, as a partner just to get another shot at Curtis.

Champion Jack has named Eddie Williams to side him in the relay match.

Macias, when approached by Laye as he sought the Gorilla's help, wanted to take the match on a winner-take-all basis, but Laye declined to agree, satisfied that 60-40 was all right.

Curtis, although not declining the match, had a beef about the Laye system.

"What's the matter with him? Doesn't he have enough?" Curtis said to Kallio. "Last week he didn't want a tag match, so he got a title match. Now he wants a tag match. I suppose if I was booked somewhere else Tuesday, he'd yell to everybody that I was afraid of him.

"I've heard people compare Laye's type to old wash women. Always complaining, nothing goes right, nothing ever suits them. When I was a little boy, I was playing behind a fence one day. There was an old man walking down th estreet on the other

Up she goes at last, the Memorial Baseball Stadium, the building of which is being sponsored by the L. B. Faulk Post of the American Legion here. Delayed for nearly three months because of wet grounds, workmen were finally able to get their equipment on the scene near Bernstein Park early the past week and work got underway promptly. The work is now progressing rapidly, chiefly because welding shops with the metal work contracts prefabricate sections of the grandstand at their shops while awaiting for ground conditions to make it possible to move onto the scene with their heavy equipment.

The grandstand section, when complete, will extend around the high concrete footing and sunken footings pictured at the extreme left foreground. Box seats are to go into that area between the two raised strips of concrete. Steel work now up represents about one third of the grandstand capacity.

CONCORDIA MOVES TO PROTECT GAME

Police Jury Asked To 'Put Teeth' Into Local Hunting Laws

FERRIDAY, La., May 14.—(Special)—An all-out drive to save Concordia parish's fast-dwindling game supply was made at the regular monthly meeting of the parish police jury. The meeting was presided over by H. A. Martin, president.

Major James M. Brown of the state wildlife and fisheries department explained to the jurors how the parish could go about preserving its squirrel and deer.

It was pointed out that Concordia parish has a no-camping law but that the law must be clarified and "some teeth put into it."

Only Tensas and Madison parishes in Louisiana have fully enforced local camping laws, he stated, and such laws must be enforced.

"Concordia parish has as fine a hunting place as anywhere in the state—better than Tensas and Madison," he declared, "but for many years the local people didn't believe in game laws and did not back up the enforcing officers."

"The time has come when we know we must observe these rules. You can bring your game back, and you should have a supply of game second to none."

Police Juror R. A. Graham called Concordia parish the "hunting dumping ground of the nation." He said that hunters from game-cleaned sections flood into Concordia. Rep. Mike S. Ohlsen said that hunters pour into the parish by the thousands, even in airplanes, to slaughter the squirrels. He said that it is impossible for a hunter to get as few as five squirrels a day. Jurors decided to investigate Tensas parish local game laws, and to consider the matter at the next meeting.

HOT TEMPERS FLARE UP WHEN CARDS, BUCS MEET

(By Associated Press)

The major league "rhubarb" season is in full swing with the St. Louis Cards and Pittsburgh Pirates in the star bout.

Bad feeling first sprouted between the Cards and Buccos the night of April 27 when Stan Rojek was hit twice by a pitched ball, the second time, he was sidelined for over a week. Some of the Pirates thought it wasn't an accident.

Friday night iit burst forth again when St. Louis Catcher Joe Garagiola behind the bat in the Rojek "incident," and Pittsburgh Pitcher Rip Sewell collided after a near "beaning."

Garagiola, who had hit the dirt a few seconds earlier to escape one of Sewell's pitches, tapped a grounder toward first base. It was the routine comeback from a hitter who wants to even matters with a pitcher.

Sewell came over to cover the bag and bumper into Garagiola, sending him sprawling.

Players of both teams and their managers swarmed on the field at Pittsburgh but cool heads prevailed before a punch was thrown. Umpire Jock Conlan told Managers Billy Meyer and Eddie Dyer he would clear both benches if order was not restored immediately.

SOFTBALL DOUBLE HEADER BENEFITS OUACHITA'S CHOIR

Nichols Plays N. S. C. All-Stars; Lovers' Lane Meets Rush Here Today

Some of the state's best softball talent will be in action here today in a benefit double header at the Barkdull Faulk diamond, and proceeds of the diamond show will be donated to the Ouachita Parish High School choir fund being raised to finance the choir's proposed trip to the international music festival at Wales, England.

Men and girls will furnish the afternoon's entertainment with Nichols Motors, leader of Monroe's City League, taking on an all-star men's team from Northwestern Louisiana State College in the opening game at 2:30 o'clock.

The girls' contest will begin at 4 o'clock with the Johnny Rush team of Alexandria, quarter-finalists in the national tournament at Portland, Ore., last year, meeting the Lovers' Lane Fharmacy team of the Monroe Girls' League.

In the girls' contest, the Rush outfit is expected to open with Michlies or McSherry pitching and Handley catching. Lovers' Lane expects to use Kinnard and Kenny on the mound with Inzinia behind the plate.

Bobby Johnson, who pitched Hutchins Motors of Shreveport to the Tri-State championship last year and now a student at N. S. C., will be on the hill for the college boys, while Carl Russ, current sensation of the City League, will be Manager Julius Haddad's choice for hurling duty.

Johnson, with several no-hit games to his credit, one against the Monroe Red Sox at Shreveport last year, is considered on a par with Russ who has pitched one no-hitter and three one-hitters in as many games here this year, and a real pitching duel is anticipated.

Lineups for the men's game were announced as follows:

N. S. C.—Johnson, pitcher; Sam Rubin, Monroe, catcher; Singletary, Parkway All-Stars, Baton Rouge, first base; Ledet, Cheneyville, second base; Emmons, Mansfield, shortstop; Givens, Parkway All-Stars, third base; Thompson, Waterproof, left field; Jackson, Parkway All-Stars, center field; and Wilson, Cheneyville, right field.

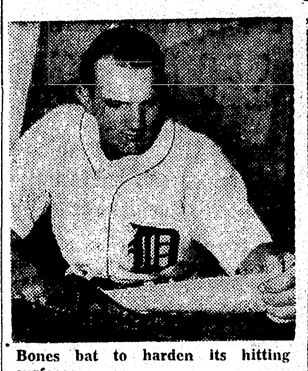
Rookie Groth Grows On Detroit Fans

22-Year-Old Slugger Makes Tigers Pennant Threat



Bones bat to harden its hitting surface.

JOHNNY GROTH

Here are five intimate photos of Detroit's sensational rookie outfielder, Johnny Groth. The young Tiger is the sensation of the early American League season, with his timely and powerful hitting and fine fielding.

By Frank Eck
(AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—All of a sudden the Detroit Tigers have given promise of becoming a pennant threat. If freshman manager Red Rolfe were asked to give the reason he probably could point to one man, Johnny Groth.

Not that Rolfe hadn't been told by the Detroit front office when he took over the club. But Groth has been the ultimate in slugging for the Tigers. He may even make Briggs Stadium fans forget all about Hank Greenberg.

Groth is the 22-year-old rookie who broke in with a double bang. On opening day he hit two successive home runs. The following day he drove in all five Detroit runs as the Tigers beat the Chicago White Sox, 5-2. All he did in this game was hit a home run with the bases loaded a double and a single.

Three days later he scored from first base on a single and an error in the 10th inning to give the Bengals a 5-4 win over Cleveland. Three days later he doubled in the 10th inning to score two runs and give his mates a 7-5 win over the White Sox.

Thus, his base running and slugging accounted for the Tigers' five wins in the first seven games. In another game he hit a grand-slam home run against the St. Louis Browns but the Tigers got bad pitching and lost, 9-6. He hit safely in his first 11 games and then they began pitching bad balls to him, finally stopping his hitting streak. The day his streak ended he drew two walks and grounded out in his only official time at bat.

Groth picked right up where he left off last fall when the Tigers brought him up from Buffalo where he hit .340. In six major league games last September he drove out eight hits for a total of 14 bases and a .471 average.

A native of Chicago, Groth was a triple-threat halfback at Boys' Latin High. At 18 he enlisted in the Navy and was assigned to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. On the team were such big leaguers as Bob Feller of the Indians and Pinky Higgins, Tiger third baseman.

Groth hit .355 at Great Lakes and came to the Tigers on the recommendation of Higgins. Wish Egan, Detroit"s chief scout, thought so much of the teen-ager that he got a bonus. Some estimates go as high as $30,000.

After his service hitch, Groth went to Willliamsport, Pa., in the Eastern League in 1947 and batted .319. In 1948 he drew the raves of Steve O'Neill, then Detroit manager, at the Tigers spring training camp at Lakeland, Fla.

"His bat will hurt somebody," Steve kept saying in a manner to impress all within hearing range that the six-foot 182-pounder would be breaking up ball games in the near future. But the Tigers sent him to Buffalo for a year of seasoning.

"He's about ready," said Egan, "but we want to make sure."

At Buffalo, the fans fell in love with Groth just as they have this spring in the motor city. With the Bisons, he led the International League in runs with 124, hits with 199, doubles with 3,7 triples with 16 and in total bases, 358. He had 30 homers and batted in 97 markers. He fielded a sparking .986. At the close of the season he was named the league's rookie of the year.

Now nearly everyone believes he will be the American League's rookie of the year this season. In his first 15 games he had five homers among his 22 hits and a .407 average to top the league. He's right up there with Ted Williams and Junior Stevens of the Boston Red Sox in driving home runs.

He certainly is coming through as advertised.

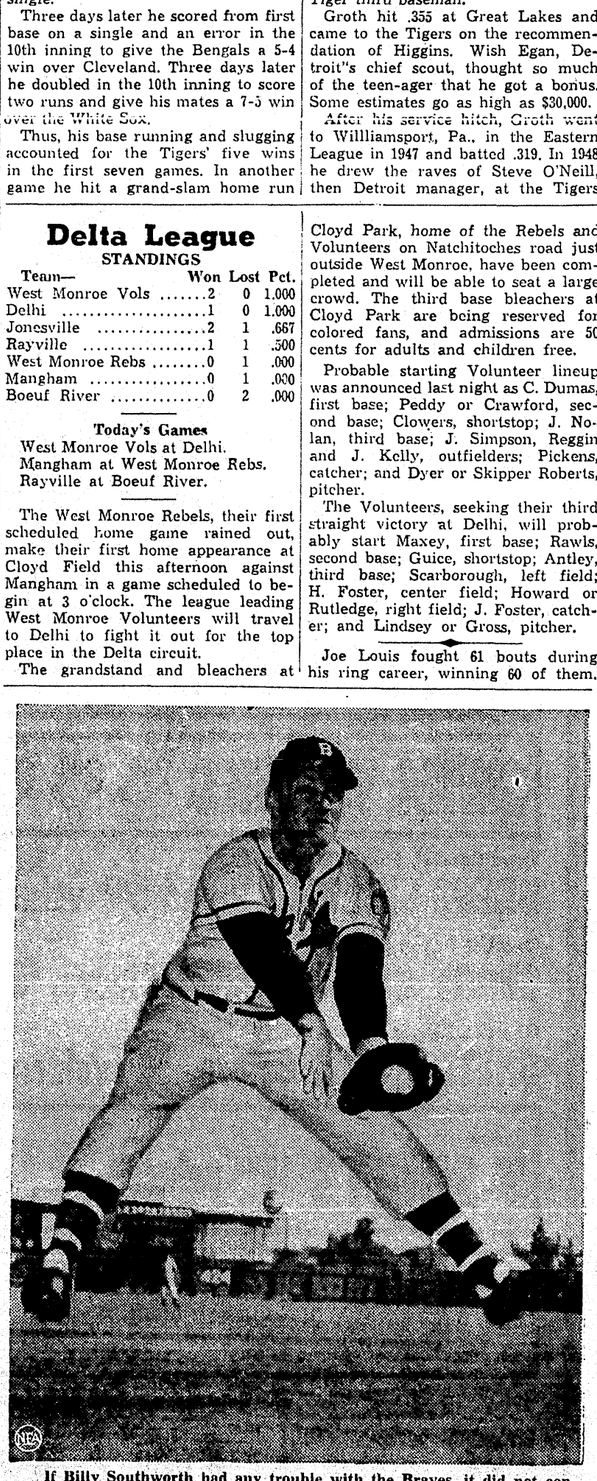
The West Monroe Rebels, their first scheduled home game rained out, make their first home appearance at Cloyd Field this afternoon against Mangham in a game scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock. The league leading West Monroe Volunteers will travel to Delhi to fight it out for the top place in the Delta circuit.

The grandstand and bleachers at Cloyd Park, home of the Rebels and Volunteers on Natchitoches road just outside West Monroe, have been completed and will be able to seat a large crowd. The third base bleachers at Cloyd Park are being reserved for colored fans, and admissions are 50 cents for adults and children free.

Probable starting Volunteer lineup was announced last night as C. Dumas, first base; Peddy or Crawford, second base; Clowers, shortstop; J. Nolan, third base; J. Simpson, Reggin and J. Kelly, outfielders; Pickens, catcher; and Dyer or Skipper Roberts, pitcher.

The Volunteers, seeking their third straight victory at Delhi, will probably start Maxey, first base; Rawls, second base; Guice, shortstop; Antley, third base; Scarborough, left field; H. Foster, center field; Howard or Rutledge, right field; J. Foster, catcher; and Lindsey or Gross, pitcher.

Joe Louis fought 61 bouts during his ring career, winning 60 of them.



If Billy Southworth had any trouble with the Braves, it did not concern Bob Elliott, shown getting up in the world just for the exercise. The old pro is the Boston Nationals' clean-up hitter, intends to bat in his customary 100 or more runs and equal or top his 1948 home run output of .23, meanwhile playing his usual slam-bang game at third base.

Doyline won the Class B championship by defeating Simsboro, 6-5. Doyline took an early lead in the game, but Simsboro evened the count in the fifth. The game then entered a stalemate that was not broken until the last of the 10th, when Doyline scored the winning run.

CHARLIE FUSARI PRICKS VINCE FOSTER BALLOON

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—The Vince Foster boom is dead and the Charlie Fusari Booster Club is beating the drums.

Fusari eliminated the ring's latest "Golden Boy" from the picture when he stopped the young Omaha, Neb., welterweight last in 2:26 of the first round at Madison Square Garden.

Foster was on the deck three times, for counts of two, eight and eighth, before Referee Ruby Goldstein stopped it to save Foster from further punishment.

It was a shocker for most of the crowd of 14,193 which paid $66,082. The fight had been regarded as a toss-up.

Fusari moved up with Kid Gavilan as a welter title contender off his impressive win.

MONROE SPORTS INVADING URANIA FOR LEAGUE TILT

Other Northeast Games Today At Columbia, Tallulah, Oak Grove

Further shifting of the Northeast Louisiana League, standings is anticipated today when the Monroe Sports visit Urania, Lake Providence invades Columbia, Winnsboro travels to Tallulah, and Bonita-Jones moved into Oak Grove.

The battle for first place will be in progress at Columbia where the Ramblers will seek to knock off the league leading Clippers in a contest scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock at Memorial Park. All other games will also begin at the same time.

Only the LaSalle Producers of Urania have been able to stop the Clippers so far, but the Ramblers could take over the loop leadership with victory today. However, Columbia may have to share the top spot with the Winnsboro Red Sox since the Crimson Hose are favored to take Tallulah into camp.

Monroe and Urania's Producers will be battling it out to settle a fifth place tie with the winner likely to move even higher in the standings.

The Louisiana-Arkansas White Sox of Bonita-Jones, a definite threat to the league leaders, will be striving to hold their first division rating, but Oak Grove, winning its first game

NEW YORK—All of a sudden the Detroit Tigers have given promise of becoming a pennant threat. If freshman manager Red Rolfe were asked to give the reason he probably could point to one man, Johnny Groth.

Not that Rolfe hadn't been told by the Detroit front office when he took over the club. But Groth has been the ultimate in slugging for the Tigers. He may even make Briggs Stadium fans forget all about Hank Greenberg.

Groth is the 22-year-old rookie who broke in with a double bang. On opening day he hit two successive home runs. The following day he drove in all five Detroit runs as the Tigers beat the Chicago White Sox, 5-2. All he did in this game was hit a home run with the bases loaded a double and a single.

Three days later he scored from first base on a single and an error in the 10th inning to give the Bengals a 5-4 win over Cleveland. Three days later he doubled in the 10th inning to score two runs and give his mates a 7-5 win over the White Sox.

Thus, his base running and slugging accounted for the Tigers' five wins in the first seven games. In another game he hit a grand-slam home run against the St. Louis Browns but the Tigers got bad pitching and lost, 9-6. He hit safely in his first 11 games and then they began pitching bad balls to him, finally stopping his hitting streak. The day his streak ended he drew two walks and grounded out in his only official time at bat.

Groth picked right up where he left off last fall when the Tigers brought him up from Buffalo where he hit .340. In six major league games last September he drove out eight hits for a total of 14 bases and a .471 average.

A native of Chicago, Groth was a triple-threat halfback at Boys' Latin High. At 18 he enlisted in the Navy and was assigned to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. On the team were such big leaguers as Bob Feller of the Indians and Pinky Higgins, Tiger third baseman.

Groth hit .355 at Great Lakes and came to the Tigers on the recommendation of Higgins. Wish Egan, Detroit's chief scout, thought so much of the teen-ager that he got a bonus. Some estimates go as high as $30,000.

After his service hitch, Groth went to Willliamsport, Pa., in the Eastern League in 1947 and batted .319. In 1948 he drew the raves of Steve O'Neill, then Detroit manager, at the Tigers spring training camp at Lakeland, Fla.

"His bat will hurt somebody," Steve kept saying in a manner to impress all within hearing range that the six-foot 182-pounder would be breaking up ball games in the near future. But the Tigers sent him to Buffalo for a year of seasoning.

"He's about ready," said Egan, "but we want to make sure."

At Buffalo, the fans fell in love with Groth just as they have this spring in the motor city. With the Bisons, he led the International League in runs with 124, hits with 199, doubles with 37, triples with 16 and in total bases, 358. He had 30 homers and batted in 97 markers. He fielded a sparking .986. At the close of the season he was named the league's rookie of the year.

Now nearly everyone believes he will be the American League's rookie of the year this season. In his first 15 games he had five homers among his 22 hits and a .407 average to top the league. He's right up there with Ted Willliams and Junior Stevens of the Boston Red Sox in driving home runs.

He certainly is coming through as advertised.

DOYLINE COPS 'B' CLASS TILT FROM SIMSBORO, 6 TO 5

Baseball Championships Wind Up North Louisiana Rally's '49 Program

RUSTON, La., May 14.—(Special)—The Ruston High School baseball team tripped Ouachita of Monroe, 8-1, Saturday at Louisiana Tech to win the Class A championship in the annual North Louisiana high school diamond tournament.

Doyline won the Class B championship by defeating Simsboro, 6-5. Doyline took an early lead in the game, but Simsboro evened the count in the fifth. The game then entered a stalemate that was not broken until the last of the 10th, when Doyline scored the winning run.

The Ruston-Ouachita game was the fifth between the two teams this season. In four of the encounters, Ruston emerged the winner.

In the Class A semi-finals, Ouachita downed Minden, 5-4, and Ruston edged Bernice, 2-1.

To reach the finals, Doyline defeated Hico, 7-5, in the preliminaries and downed Spearsville, 4-2, in the semi-finals. In the preliminaries,

CHARLIE FUSARI PRICKS VINCE FOSTER BALLOON

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—The Vince Foster boom is dead and the Charlie Fusari Booster Club is beating the drums.

Fusari eliminated the ring's latest "Golden Boy" from the picture when he stopped the young Omaha, Neb., welterweight last in 2:26 of the first round at Madison Square Garden.

Foster was on the deck three times, for counts of two, eight and eighth, before Referee Ruby Goldstein stopped it to save Foster from further punishment.

It was a shocker for most of the crowd of 14,193 which paid $66,082. The fight had been regarded as a toss-up.

Fusari moved up with Kid Gavilan as a welter title contender off his impressive win.

Tom, brother of John Spatafora, sponsor of Spatafora's Pharmacy outfit, is new to the softball business, while John's Pharmacy club was runner-up for the league championship last year and league champs the year before.

The two Spatafora aggregations meet for the first time next Thursday night with the rival brothers being permitted to oppose each other on the pitching mound for one inning.

Cleveland and Boston both scored 17 runs in the six games of the 1948 World Series.

MONROE SPORTS INVADING URANIA FOR LEAGUE TILT

Other Northeast Games Today At Columbia, Tallulah, Oak Grove

Further shifting of the Northeast Louisiana League standings is anticipated today when the Monroe Sports visit Urania, Lake Providence invades Columbia, Winnsboro travels to Tallulah, and Bonita-Jones moved into Oak Grove.

The battle for first place will be in progress at Columbia where the Ramblers will seek to knock off the league leading Clippers in a contest scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock at Memorial Park. All other games will also begin at the same time.

Only the LaSalle Producers of Urania have been able to stop the Clippers so far, but the Ramblers could take over the loop leadership with victory today. However, Columbia may have to share the top spot with the Winnsboro Red Sox since the Crimson Hose are favored to take Tallulah into camp.

Monroe and Urania's Producers will be battling it out to settle a fifth place tie with the winner likely to move even higher in the standings.

The Louisiana-Arkansas White Sox of Bonita-Jones, a definite threat to the league leaders, will be striving to hold their first division rating, but Oak Grove, winning its first game

MAROONS CAPTURE WEST S. E. C. CROWN

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—Mississippi State wrapped 15 hits around three Tulane hurlers today to whip the Greenies 10-4 and take the western division crown of the Southeastern Conference.

The Maroons' victory gave them the right to tackle the S. E. C. eastern star for the conference baseball championship.

Joe Shephard, State's crafty right-hander, went eight stanzas but was relieved by Gross before he could retire anyone in the ninth. The Wave nicked the pair for 10 hits.

Three of the four Tulane tallies were nonstoppers enroute. Bob Whitman blasted a homer in the third, Stan McDermott did the same in the sixth and Mel Payton got a round trip in the same stanza.

Payton's clip was a single to right, but the fielder let the ball zip between his legs and Mel raced home.

L. S. U. SPIKEMEN OUTCLASS WAVE BY 82-30 MARGIN

Tulane's Bienz, Tigers' Avery Divide Meet's Individual Honors

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—Louisiana State University's defending Southeastern Conference track champions outclassed the Tulane Greenies in their dual track meet here today.

The Tigers piled up 82 points while allowing the locals only 30. Of the 15 events on the card, Tulane got three first places.

Frank Sullwold, L. S. U.'s middle-distance man, turned in the best performance of the day with his 47.9 effort in the quarter mile. Sullwold is a former Holy Cross track star who has been turning in superb times in the 440 for the Tigers this season and looms as a definite threat in the S. E. C. track meet next week-end.

Green Wave fans took their opportunity to watch speedy Paul Bienz in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Bienz continued his spectacular career in both events by capturing the century in 9.7 and churning the 220 in 21 flat.

Butler Avery of L. S. U. and Bienz divided individual honors with both capturing two events. Avery won the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet, two inches and came back to win the 220 yard low hurdles in 24.2.

Graves, another Tiger, also comes into the select class by winning the discus and shot put. He had to come from behind to win the shot with a throw of 46 feet four inches and was way out ahead with a heave of 151 feet two inches in the discus.

Summary:

Shotput—Graves, L. S. U.; Voss, L. S. U. 46 ft. 4 inches.

Discus—Graves, L. S. U.; Joyce Tulane. 151 ft. 2 inches.

Javelin—Steele, L. S. U.; Johnston, Tulane. 166 ft. 5 1/2 inches.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, May 14. —(AP)— The Eastern Intercollegiate Golf Association, which has concentrated on team play so much that the players are almost anonymous, is giving serious thought to staging a more conventional tournament . . . Several members feel it would be better to run it like the N. C. A. A. tournament, with the team title decided in the qualifying rounds and then match play for the individual championship. . . . Under that plan it could become as important as the southern intercollegiate, one of the major golf events in that sector . . . Hot tip hereabouts is to keep your eye on Navy next football season. Report from Villanova, which scrimmaged the midshipmen at length, is: "For the first hour and a half, we had a big edge. After that, when we got down deeper into the reserves, Navy was a lot better."

It was raining and Waterbury was trying to stall until the game would be called before five innings could be completed . . . . Kelcher took so long that the umpire ordered the Poughkeepsie pitcher to start throwing . . . . Larry took his place but continued to argue with the ump . . . . Then the Poughkeepsie flinger tried to sneak over a quick pitch and Kelcher belted it for a home run . . . . The Pokip boys got even though . . . . When the game finally was called and the timers raced through the downpour to the clubhouse, they found the door locked.

SOUTH AFRICAN ACE CONTINUES SUB-PAR FIRING

Pacemaker Boasts Plus-43 Score; Closest Rival Is Barron With Plus-34

By Gayle Talbot

NEW ROCHELLE, May 14.—(AP)—The task of standing off Bobby Locke plainly is too much for the current crop of American professionals, and so the methodical shotmaker from South Africa almost surely will tuck away a check for $3,000 when the Goodall Round Robin Tournament winds up tomorrow night.

Bobby Locke

The silent man from the dark continent virtually sewed it up today when he shot his fourth straight sub-par round over the Wykagyl Country Club course to boost his "plus" score to 43.

His closest rival, 40-year-old Herman Barron of nearby White Plains, owned a plus of only 34, and his chances of catching Locke on tomorrow's final round appeared to be negligible. Barron won the event a year ago, Locke a fast-closing second.

Standing third tonight was Sammy Snead, the balding mountaineer, with plus 32, and fourth was Byron Nelson, the honest Texas farmer, plus 31. Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., representing youth, was fifth at plus 27, and the remaining 11 players who started out in the $15,000 event three days ago didn't have a hope.

FAVORED PONDER

Jockey Bobby Martin. The Oglebay colt had established a track record for a mile and one sixteenth here Monday. And he showed the blistering early speed in this 73rd running of the Preakness.

Atkinson rated Capot right along in second, not far away, while Currandero, Model Cadet, Old Rockport and the others trailed. Ponder was dead last heading around the clubhouse turn, and stayed there until the three-eights pole.

At one point he was a good 20 lengths off the flying leader Noble Impulse. A glance at the fractional times showed how fast the race was being clipped off, as the times were near or better than the track record at each clocking.

Noble Impulse and Capot held the one-two positions down the backstretch, and into the far turn three-eights of a mile from home, where Atkinson was driving hard with the Greentree colt.

Capot was looking into Noble Impulse's eye as they battled head and head at the quarter pole just before swinging into the stretch for home.

Palestinian began passing horses as he whirled around the final bend along the rail hot on the heels of the flying leaders.

Pounding down the stretch head and head as the crowd screamed, Capot caught Noble Impulse just inside the eighth pole.

But he had to go all out to stave off the closing rush of Palestinian. Actually, there was only about four lengths separating the first five horses as they slammed down the stretch like a small bunch of vari-colored grapes.

The first half mile was ripped off in 46 2/5 seconds, compared with the track mark of 47 2/5; at the three-quarters it was 1:10 3/5, only two-fifths off the track standard; at seven furlongs the time was 1:23 1/5, while the track mark is 1:26. The mile was caught in 1:36 3/5, a full second faster than the track mark.

After a mile and one eighth it was 1:49 flat, compared with the track mark of 1:50 4/5.

Arcaro, who had ridden two Calumet horses to Preakness victories—Whirlaway in 1941 and Citation last year—was glum as he headed into the jockey quarters after his ride on Palestinian.

"I did my best," he said. It was the second bitter disappointment for Eddie in seven days. He was aboard Olympia, the Derby favorite, last week, only to finish sixth.

Ponder failed where his father, Pensive, succeeded. Pensive won the 1944 Derby, and followed by taking the Preakness. Steve Brooks, who rode Ponder last week and again this time, said he was shut off in the stretch and could never get into contention.

This was the second victory for Capot in six 1949 starts, the other being the Chesapeake Stakes at Havre De Grace in April. He won five of nine races as a two-year-old, including the rich Pimlico Futurity last November—when he showed a definite linking for the old hilltop racing strip.

TULANE'S TUERO EASILY CAPTURES S.E.C. NET CROWN

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—Jack Tuero, Tulane University, defeated Eddie Adams, Georgia Tech, 6-1, 6-1, in the finals of the Class A singles in the Southeastern Conference Tennis Tournament here.

In the semi-finals of Class B singles, Connery went into the finals by beating Lester Shapiro, Alabama, 6-0, 8-6. Keeble defeated Harris, 6-3, 6-4.

MONROE SPORTS

the past week is up and coming definitely seeks the La-Ark. scalp.

Since the Monroe Sports do not yet have a home park available, General Manager Jim Malone has been announcing his schedule from week to week. After today's visit to Urania, the Sports get a "home" game with Lake Providence Wednesday night, meeting the date under the lights at Delhi. The Sports go to Bonita-Jones on Thursday night, and will play at Tallulah next Sunday afternoon.

"We were fortunate to make arrangements for the use of the Delhi park for our Lake Providence game," Malone said yesterday. "Delhi has a grandstand with seating capacity exceeded by none in this section of the state, and they have probably the best lighting system in the state. It will be our home game, and we want our Twin City followers to give us good backing against the Clippers."

In other games this week Bonita-Jones goes to Tallulah and Columbia visits Oak Grove on Tuesday; Urania is at Winnsboro Wednesday night; and on Thursday, Tallulah is at Columbia, Urania at Oak Grove, and Winnsboro at Lake Providence.

Don Mayer, Winnsboro, league president, in a request to league commissioner, Judge Mouser of Columbia, is asking that effective today clubs be assessed a fine for failure to report home games to the newspapers and League Secretary John Blanchard, Winnsboro, within a reasonable time.

Racing Car Owner Will Play Hunch

(Associated Press News Features)

NEW YORK—Superstitious auto race drivers preparing for the 500-mile Indianapolis May 30 race are eyeing the strange combination of numbers offered by Milt Marion, racing car owner from Jericho, N. Y.

For the 33rd running of the race, Marion is entering of the race, Marion is entering car number 33. It is the fourth straight time that number has been assigned to his racing entry. And this year Marion also has drawn pit number 33, in the famed "gasoline alley."

To race drivers, many of whom never race without a conglomeration of horseshoes, rabbit's feet and assorted luck charms dangling from the dashboard, this combination could speed Marion's car a long way toward a "500" win.

But Marion is not relying on lucky numbers alone in his fourth try for a win in the top auto race.

He is entering a $22,000 Kurtis-Kraft racer, capable of hitting 160 miles-an-hour on the Indianapolis straightaways. And to drive the powerful racer, known as the Machine Tool Special, Marion has engaged Walt Brown, 38, a Long Island resident from Massapequa.

Brown drove for Marion in the 1947 race in a red Alfa-Romeo and finished seventh in a fast field in his first try for the huge silver trophy. The mild-mannered driver also drove his way into the "100-mile-an-hour club" in his freshman effort on the big wheel.

Brown, in strict training for the rugged grind, is a veteran of the sport of auto racing. He has won many feature races in big-time competition during his 15 years of driving on American Automobile Association tracks. The driver has wheeled his car across the finish line ahead of such racing stars as the late Ted Horn, Bill Holland, Tony Bettenhausen, Paul Russo, Mark Light, Ken Fowler, Joe Chitwood, Lee Wallard and Rex Mays in various races.

Owner Marion himself competed several times at Indianapolis and drove racing cars for 17 years, averaging 25 races a year during that period. In addition to the car he is entering in the "500," Marion has several other races which he enters in dirt track, stock car and midget cars throughout the cast.

Brown drives Marion's entries in many of these races, and has had the Kurtis-Kraft racer out several times this spring to tune it up over dirt tracks.

After every race and trial spin the motor is taken down and reassembled. On Memorial Day Marion and Brown may learn whether all their efforts have been worth while.

MAROONS CAPTURE WEST S. E. C. CROWN

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—Mississippi State wrapped 15 hits around three Tulane hurlers today to whip the Greenies 10-4 and take the western division crown of the Southeastern Conference.

The Maroons' victory gave them the right to tackle the S. E. C. eastern star for the conference baseball championship.

Joe Shephard, State's crafty righthander, went eight stanzas but was relieved by Gross before he could retire anyone in the ninth. The Wave nicked the pair for 10 hits.

Three of the four Tulane tallies were nonstoppers enroute. Bob Whitman blasted a homer in the third, Stan McDermott did the same in the sixth and Mel Payton got a round trip in the same stanza.

Payton's clip was a single to right, but the fielder let the ball zip between his legs and Mel raced home.

L. S. U. SPIKEMEN OUTCLASS WAVE BY 82-30 MARGIN

Tulane's Bienz, Tigers' Avery Divide Meet's Individual Honors

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—Louisiana State University's defending Southeastern Conference track champions outclassed the Tulane Greenies in their dual track meet here today.

The Tigers piled up 82 points while allowing the locals only 30. Of the 15 events on the card, Tulane got three first places.

Frank Sullwold, L. S. U.'s middle-distance man, turned in the best performance of the day with his 47.9 effort in the quarter mile. Sullwold is a former Holy Cross track star who has been turning in superb times in the 440 for the Tigers this season and looms as a definite threat in the S. E. C. track meet next week-end.

Green Wave fans took their opportunity to watch speedy Paul Bienz in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Bienz continued his spectacular career in both events by capturing the century in 9.7 and churning the 220 in 21 flat.

Butler Avery of L. S. U. and Bienz divided individual honors with both capturing two events. Avery won the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet, two inches and came back to win the 220 yard low hurdles in 24.2.

Graves, another Tiger, also comes into the select class by winning the discus and shot put. He had to come from behind to win the shot with a throw of 46 feet four inches and was way out ahead with a heave of 151 feet two inches in the discus.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, May 14. —(AP)— The Eastern Intercollegiate Golf Association, which has concentrated on team play so much that the players are almost anonymous, is giving serious thought to staging a more conventional tournament . . . Several members feel it would be better to run it like the N. C. A. A. tournament, with the team title decided in the qualifying rounds and then match play for the individual championship. . . . Under that plan it could become as important as the southern intercollegiate, one of the major golf events in that sector . . . Hot tip hereabouts is to keep your eye on Navy next football season. Report from Villanova, which scrimmaged the midshipmen at length, is: "For the first hour and a half, we had a big edge. After that, when we got down deeper into the reserves, Navy was a lot better."

Tain't No Soak

The Waterbury (Conn.) timers of the Class B Colonial League figure they made a real splash at Poughkeepsie the other night . . . . It was raining and Waterbury was trying to stall until the game would be called before five innings could be completed . . . . After taking one pitch in the fifth, Larry Kelcher claimed his belt had broken and went to the bench for a replacement . . . . Kelcher took so long that the umpire ordered the Poughkeepsie pitcher to start throwing . . . . Larry took his place but continued to argue with the ump . . . . Then the Poughkeepsie flinger tried to sneak over a quick pitch and Kelcher belted it for a home run . . . . The Pokip boys got even though . . . . When the game finally was called and the timers raced through the downpour to the clubhouse, they found the door locked.

Quote, Unquote

Tommy Fitzgerald's belatedly- received report on the Kentucky derby: "A guy with a bankroll big enough to choke a horse went up to a window and bet on Olympia. After the race, a guy with a bankroll big enough to choke a horse was still looking for Olympia."

Sportsmention

Clint Evans, veteran California baseball coach, is taking his team on a tour of Hawaii after the college season . . . . Frank Howard tabs Clemson's Fred Cone as the best fullback in the Southern Conference—better than Jack Cloud or Hosea Rodgers. Frank, of course, is Clemson coach . . . Charley Mutter, Michigan groundskeeper, and his crew laid 7,200 yards of new sod in Michigan's football stadium in 540 man-hours of work. That's an example for the Michigan players who will be laying opponents on that sod next fall.

Week-End Notes

Report in Wilmington, Del., says Boley Dancewicz, ex-Notre Dame quarterback, will be Clipper Smith's backfield coach at Lafayette next fall. Boley played for the Wilmington Clippers last season . . . . Alaska has applied for a posititon for its leading semi-pro ball team in the National Baseball Congress Tournament at Wichita next August. Obviously an Alaskan team can't be frozen out.

SOUTH AFRICAN ACE CONTINUES SUB-PAR FIRING

Pacemaker Boasts Plus-43 Score; Closest Rival Is Barron With Plus-34

By Gayle Talbot

NEW ROCHELLE, May 14.—(AP)—The task of standing off Bobby Locke plainly is too much for the current crop of American professionals, and so the methodical shotmaker from South Africa almost surely will tuck away a check for $3,000 when the Goodall Round Robin Tournament winds up tomorrow night.

Bobby Locke

The silent man from the dark continent virtually sewed it up today when he shot his fourth straight sub-par round over the Wykagyl Country Club course to boost his "plus" score to 43.

His closest rival, 40-year-old Herman Barron of nearby White Plains, owned a plus of only 34, and his chances of catching Locke on tomorrow's final round appeared to be negligible. Barron won the event a year ago, Locke a fast-closing second.

Standing third tonight was Sammy Snead, the balding mountaineer, with plus 32, and fourth was Byron Nelson, the honest Texas farmer, plus 31. Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., representing youth, was fifth at plus 27, and the remaining 11 players who started out in the $15,000 event three days ago didn't have a hope.

When the incredible Senators swept the three-game set at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, stretching their winning streak to eight, Lou Boudreau decided it was time to sit down and discuss the Indians' batting order with Coach Steve O'Neill. The Tribe's shortstopping strategist broke into the International League with Buffalo under the veteran catcher and manager 10 years ago.

Jockey Bobby Martin. The Oglebay colt had established a track record for a mile and one sixteenth here Monday. And he showed the blistering early speed in this 73rd running of the Preakness.

Atkinson rated Capot right along in second, not far away, while Curandero, Model Cadet, Old Rockport and the others trailed. Ponder was dead last heading around the clubhouse turn, and stayed there until the three-eights pole.

At one point he was a good 20 lengths off the flying leader Noble Impulse. A glance at the fractional times showed how fast the race was being clipped off, as the times were near or better than the track record at each clocking.

Noble Impulse and Capot held the one-two positions down the backstretch, and into the far turn three-eights of a mile from home, where Atkinson was driving hard with the Greentree colt.

Capot was looking into Noble Impulse's eye as they battled head and head at the quarter pole just before swinging into the stretch for home.

Palestinian began passing horses as he whirled around the final bend along the rail hot on the heels of the flying leaders.

Pounding down the stretch head and head as the crowd screamed, Capot caught Noble Impulse just inside the eighth pole.

But he had to go all out to stave off the closing rush of Palestinian. Actually, there was only about four lengths separating the first five horses as they slammed down the stretch like a small bunch of vari-colored grapes.

The first half mile was ripped off in 46 2/5 seconds, compared with the track mark of 47 2/5; at the three-quarters it was 1:10 3/5, only two-fifths off the track standard; at seven furlongs the time was 1:23 1/5, while the track mark is 1:26. The mile was caught in 1:36 3/5, a full second faster than the track mark.

After a mile and one eighth it was 1:49 flat, compared with the track mark of 1:50 4/5.

Arcaro, who had ridden two Calumet horses to Preakness victories—Whirlaway in 1941 and Citation last year—was glum as he headed into the jockey quarters after his ride on Palestinian.

"I did my best," he said. It was the second bitter disappointment for Eddie in seven days. He was aboard Olympia, the Derby favorite, last week, only to finish sixth.

Ponder failed where his father, Pensive, succeeded. Pensive won the 1944 Derby, and followed by taking the Preakness. Steve Brooks, who rode Ponder last week and again this time, said he was shut off in the stretch and could never get into contention.

This was the second victory for Capot in six 1949 starts, the other being the Chesapeake Stakes at Havre De Grace in April. He won five of nine races as a two-year-old, including the rich Pimlico Futurity last November—when he showed a definite linking for the old hilltop racing strip.

TULANE'S TUERO EASILY CAPTURES S.E.C. NET CROWN

Greenie Star Beats Adams, Georgia Tech, in Finals; Decide Doubles Today

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(AP)—Jack Tuero, Tulane University, defeated Eddie Adams, Georgia Tech, 6-1, 6-1, in the finals of the Class A singles in the Southeastern Conference Tennis Tournament here.

The Tulane team won the tournament for the third consecutive year, with Georgia Tech second.

In the semi-finals of the doubles, Tuero and Dick Mouledous won over Berney Segal and Frank Wood, Atlanta, 6-4, 6-2.

Adams and Frank Owens, Georgia Tech, beat Connery and Walker Harris, Tulane, 6-1, 8-10, 6-4.

Finals in the doubles are to be played tomorrow morning.

Tuero, defending singles champion, advanced to the finals by beating Owens, 6-2, 6-1. Adams won over Tulane's No. 2 player, Mouledous, 6-1, 6-4.

In the semi-finals of Class B singles, Connery went into the finals by beating Lester Shapiro, Alabama, 6-0, 8-6. Keeble defeated Harris, 6-3, 6-4.

the past week is up and coming definitely seeks the La-Ark. scalp.

Since the Monroe Sports do not yet have a home park available, General Manager Jim Malone has been announcing his schedule from week to week. After today's visit to Urania, the Sports get a "home" game with Lake Providence Wednesday night, meeting the date under the lights at Delhi. The Sports go to Bonita-Jones on Thursday night, and will play at Tallulah next Sunday afternoon.

"We were fortunate to make arrangements for the use of the Delhi park for our Lake Providence game," Malone said yesterday. "Delhi has a grandstand with seating capacity exceeded by none in this section of the state, and they have probably the best lighting system in the state. It will be our home game, and we want our Twin City followers to give us good backing against the Clippers."

In other games this week Bonita-Jones goes to Tallulah and Columbia visits Oak Grove on Tuesday; Urania is at Winnsboro Wednesday night; and on Thursday, Tallulah is at Columbia, Urania at Oak Grove, and Winnsboro at Lake Providence.

Don Mayer, Winnsboro, league president, in a request to league commissioner, Judge Mouser of Columbia, is asking that effective today clubs be assessed a fine for failure to report home games to the newspapers and League Secretary John Blanchard, Winnsboro, within a reasonable time.

NALON GETS POLE SPOT FOR SPEEDWAY RUN

33 SPECTATORS HURT AS STANDS FOLD AT TRACK

Speeds So High Last Year's Winner Finishes In Tenth Position

By Dale Burgess

INDIANAPOLIS, May 14.—(AP)—Duke Nalon averaged almost 133 miles an hour today to win the pole position for the 500-mile Memorial Day race, and 33 first-day spectators were injured in a grandstand collapse.

The veteran driver from Sherman Oaks, Calif., driving a $75,000 Novi Mobil Special, was the fastest of the 14 who made the ten-mile qualifying run on the first day.

The bottoms fell out of the two boxes in grandstand "B," injuring two persons severely and 31 others less seriously. Only 21 people were supposed to be in the boxes.

The qualifying speeds were so high that Mauri Rose of South Bend, Ind., the "500" winner last two years, wound up in the tenth starting position—on the inside of the fourth row.

Bill Cantrell, Louisville boat racer and salvage diver, set a new ten-mile speedway record for a semi-stock car. He averaged 125.022 miles an hour in the Fageol Twin Coach Special, powered with a bus engine.

The crowd, estimated variously at 40,000 to 90,000, was the biggest pre-race throng in speedway history.

Nalon, a close third to Rose and Bill Holland last year, turned in the second fastest trial since the 500 started in 1911. The handsome six-footer averaged 132.939 miles an hour for the four laps.

The late Ralph Hepburn set the record of 133.944 miles an hour in another Novi three years ago. He was killed practicing in it last spring.

Nalon's fastest lap was 133.730 miles an hour, compared with Hepburn's record of 134.449.

TEAXS AGS WIN THIRD STRAIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

Hampton Leads A. And M. Triumph; Longhorns Finish Six Points Behind

By Carl Bell

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., May 14.—(AP)—Blond J. D. Hampton shattered two distance records in leading Texas A. and M. to it's third consecutive Southwest Conference track and field championship here today.

Three other records were set—all by Aggie performers—and another tied in the two-day meet.

A. and M. compiled 55 1/4 points. Texas, with 49 1/4, was second and Rice, with 36, third, followed by Arkansas with 12 3/4, Southern Methodist 12, Baylor 9 3/4 and Texas Christian one.

Hampton, a skinny junior from Brady, Tex., first established a new mark of four minutes 17.2 seconds in the mile run. After resting 70 minutes, he ran the two mile grind in nine minutes 30.7 seconds. He finished far ahead in both races and his ten points gave him individual honors.

The smooth-striding Hampton ran his unbeaten string to 17 races. His two mile mark erased the 9:32.4 standard set up in 1925 by Sandi Esquival of Texas and his mile jaunt cracked by three seconds the record made last year by Little Jerry Thompson of Texas.

Other record-breaking performances:

Ray Holdbrook's 47.3 seconds for the 440 yard dash, eclipsing the 47.8 mark of Harold Hall, Rice, set in 1941.

The Aggie mile relay team's one minute 14.1 seconds, bettering the old mark of 3:16.7 by Texas in 1938.

Bob Hall's 22.5 seconds for the 200 yard low hurdles, established in yesterday's preliminaries.

Texas' Perry Samuels tied the 100 yard dash of 9.5 seconds held by several men.

NALON GETS POLE SPOT FOR SPEEDWAY RUN

33 SPECTATORS HURT AS STANDS FOLD AT TRACK

Speeds So High Last Year's Winner Finishes In Tenth Position

By Dale Burgess

INDIANAPOLIS, May 14.—(AP)—Duke Nalon averaged almost 133 miles an hour today to win the pole position for the 500-mile Memorial Day race, and 33 first-day spectators were injured in a grandstand collapse.

The veteran driver from Sherman Oaks, Calif., driving a $75,000 Novi Mobil Special, was the fastest of the 14 who made the ten-mile qualifying run on the first day.

The bottoms fell out of the two boxes in grandstand "B," injuring two persons severely and 31 others less seriously. Only 21 people were supposed to be in the boxes.

The qualifying speeds were so high that Mauri Rose of South Bend, Ind., the "500" winner last two years, wound up in the tenth starting position—on the inside of the fourth row.

Bill Cantrell, Louisville boat racer and salvage diver, set a new ten-mile speedway record for a semi-stock car. He averaged 125.022 miles an hour in the Fageol Twin Coach Special, powered with a bus engine.

The crowd, estimated variously at 40,000 to 90,000, was the biggest prerace throng in speedway history.

Nalon, a close third to Rose and Bill Holland last year, turned in the second fastest trial since the 500 started in 1911. The handsome six-footer averaged 132.939 miles an hour for the four laps.

The late Ralph Hepburn set the record of 133.944 miles an hour in another Novi three years ago. He was killed practicing in it last spring.

Nalon's fastest lap was 133.730 miles an hour, compared with Hepburn's record of 134.449.

TEAXS AGS WIN THIRD STRAIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

Hampton Leads A. And M. Triumph; Longhorns Finish Six Points Behind

By Carl Bell

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., May 14.—(AP)—Blond J. D. Hampton shattered two distance records in leading Texas A. and M. to it's third consecutive Southwest Conference track and field championship here today.

Three other records were set—all by Aggie performers—and another tied in the two-day meet.

A. and M. compiled 55 1/4 points. Texas, with 49 1/4, was second and Rice, with 36, third, followed by Arkansas with 12 3/4, Southern Methodist 12, Baylor 9 3/4 and Texas Christian one.

Hampton, a skinny junior from Brady, Tex., first established a new mark of four minutes 17.2 seconds in the mile run. After resting 70 minutes, he ran the two mile grind in nine minutes 30.7 seconds. He finished far ahead in both races and his ten points gave him individual honors.

The smooth-striding Hampton ran his unbeaten string to 17 races. His two mile mark erased the 9:32.4 standard set up in 1925 by Sandi Esquival of Texas and his mile jaunt cracked by three seconds the record made last year by Little Jerry Thompson of Texas.

Other record-breaking performances:

Ray Holdbrook's 47.3 seconds for the 440 yard dash, eclipsing the 47.8 mark of Harold Hall, Rice, set in 1941.

The Aggie mile relay team's one minute 14.1 seconds, bettering the old mark of 3:16.7 by Texas in 1938.

Bob Hall's 22.5 seconds for the 200 yard low hurdles, established in yesterday's preliminaries.

Texas' Perry Samuels tied the 100 yard dash of 9.5 seconds held by several men.

INDIAN GRIDDERS WILL GET 'REFRESHER' DRILL

Coach James L. Malone yesterday said the Northeast Junior College football squad would be called out for a ten-day "refresher" spring football practice session tomorrow for the Indians' final venture in athletics during the new closing school year.

"These drills will be strictly for rehearsing basic fundamentals," Coach Malone said. "There will be no scrimmaging or rough contact work."

Punting, passing, signal drills and ball handling will be stressed. In the meantime, between now and next September, if there are any big tackles unattached they'll find a welcome at N. J. C. Right now Malone figures the tackle positions as his big weakness in building a new grid machine.

RUSTON, La., May 14.—(Special)—Good clutch pitching by "Slim" Cassibry and heavy hitting by Jack Beard enabled the Ruston Rebels to defeat their town rivals, the Volunteers, 5-4, in 11 innings Wednesday at Frasier Field under the lights.

After the first two men up in the bottom half of the eleventh were retired, Wayne Williamson, who had singled, was driven home by Beard with a triple down the left field line to end the game.

Cassibry went the route for the winners, scattering eight hits along the way, yielding only three walks, and struck out four. He helped his own cause by banging out two hits and drove one run in. Louis Pipes started for the Volunteers with Zerc Lewis, who was charged with the loss, coming on in the eighth to pitch the remainder of the contest.

The Vols got off to a quick lead by tallying once in the initial frame. Fallin singled, moved to second when Smith walked, and scored on a one-base knock by Payne. "Tooty" Null made it 2-0 in the fourth when he slammed the first pitch served to him over the centerfield fence.

The Rebels came back in their half of the fourth to count three times and go out in front 3-2. J. Willliamson led off with a free pass to first and scored on a triple by W. Williamson, and tallied on a single by Beard, who moved to second on an error. A hit by Dennis scored Beard. Cassibry singled in the sixth to score Holstead and made the score 4-2.

Two unearned runs in the eighth deadlocked the count at 4-all and the tilt went into two extra innings.

Wayne Williamson and "Racer" Holstead each collected two hits while Fallin paced the Vols' attack with three singles.

In the other Big Eight contests, Sterlington romped over Marion 18-5, Dubach ran up a 14-3 victory over Simsboro, and Bernice edged Hodge 10-9 under the lights Thursday.

par 72 lay out, had handed in cards reading 71-67-68-68—274. Barron's stroke total was second best, 278, and Snead's third 279.

To that extent, the weird tournament had run true to form. It seemed to prove the sponsor's contention that class will tell, and that oil will rise above water.

Three members of the 1949 Cincinnati team are 10-year men. They are Ray Mueller, Harry Gumbert and Johnny Vander Meer.

Everybody agreed the Giants lacked pitching, but Leo Durocher worked Sheldon Jones, Clint Hartung, Larry Jansen and Monte Kennedy, left to right, in rotation, and before you knew it the New York Nationals were on top and had equaled the longest winning streak the Polo Grounders put together all last season. INDIAN GRIDDERS WILL GET 'REFRESHER' DRILL

Coach James L. Malone yesterday said the Northeast Junior College football squad would be called out for a ten-day "refresher" spring football practice session tomorrow for the Indians' final venture in athletics during the new closing school year.

"These drills will be strictly for rehearsing basic fundamentals," Coach Malone said. "There will be no scrimmaging or rough contact work."

Punting, passing, signal drills and ball handling will be stressed. In the meantime, between now and next September, if there are any big tackles unattached they'll find a welcome at N. J. C. Right now Malone figures the tackle positions as his big weakness in building a new grid machine.

RUSTON, La., May 14.—(Special)—Good clutch pitching by "Slim" Cassibry and heavy hitting by Jack Beard enabled the Ruston Rebels to defeat their town rivals, the Volunteers, 5-4, in 11 innings Wednesday at Frasier Field under the lights.

After the first two men up in the bottom half of the eleventh were retired, Wayne Williamson, who had singled, was driven home by Beard with a triple down the left field line to end the game.

Cassibry went the route for the winners, scattering eight hits along the way, yielding only three walks, and struck out four. He helped his own cause by banging out two hits and drove one run in. Louis Pipes started for the Volunteers with Zerc Lewis, who was charged with the loss, coming on in the eighth to pitch the remainder of the contest.

The Vols got off to a quick lead by tallying once in the initial frame. Fallin singled, moved to second when Smith walked, and scored on a one-base knock by Payne. "Tooty" Null made it 2-0 in the fourth when he slammed the first pitch served to him over the centerfield fence.

The Rebels came back in their half of the fourth to count three times and go out in front 3-2. J. Willliamson led off with a free pass to first and scored on a triple by W. Williamson, and tallied on a single by Beard, who moved to second on an error. A hit by Dennis scored Beard. Cassibry singled in the sixth to score Holstead and made the score 4-2.

Two unearned runs in the eighth deadlocked the count at 4-all and the tilt went into two extra innings.

Wayne Williamson and "Racer" Holstead each collected two hits while Fallin paced the Vols' attack with three singles.

In the other Big Eight contests, Sterlington romped over Marion 18-5, Dubach ran up a 14-3 victory over Simsboro, and Bernice edged Hodge 10-9 under the lights Thursday.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 14.—(AP)—Righthanded Bay Mignerey held Tennessee to two hits over seven innings, today in pitching Kentucky to an 8 to 3 Southeastern Conference baseball victory over the Vols.

par 72 lay out, had handed in cards reading 71-67-68-68—274. Barron's stroke total was second best, 278, and Snead's third 279.

To that extent, the weird tournament had run true to form. It seemed to prove the sponsor's contention that class will tell, and that oil will rise above water.

Three members of the 1949 Cincinnati team are 10-year men. They are Ray Mueller, Harry Gumbert and Johnny Vander Meer.

Plans Made For Curbing Wheat, Cotton Production

Will Be Carried Out Regardless Of Long Range Program

By Edward Jamieson
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 14.— Plans to curb the production of cotton and wheat next year, irrespective of what congress may finally decide to do about the comprehensive long range farm program proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, are getting underway.

At the same time, there is a strong possibility that acreage quotas will also be applied to the three other uncontrolled basic crops in 1950—corn, rice and peanuts. Tobacco, the sixth basic commodity, has remained under federal production controls throughout the war and postwar period.

While Secretary Brannan is not required to announce a referendum by wheat growers on marketing and acreage quotas for that crop until July 15 and for cotton until November 15, several preliminary steps are necessary and it appeared this week that they will be taken by both congress and the department of Agriculture within a very short time.

The house of representatives is expected to approve within the next week or ten days the senate bill passed by that body which will authorize the secretary to go ahead with plans for the quotas on cotton, as well as wheat, corn, rice and peanuts, immediately.

While it has generally been assumed that the secretary could, under the old agricultural adjustment act, determine the necessity for production controls and call for the necessary referenda of growers this year, despite the fact that the new Aiken-Hope farm act goes into effect January 1, it was decided to secure specific legislation from congress so that there will be no chance of a legal slip-up.

Meanwhile, the department has already begun collection of wartime and post-war crop history of individual wheat farmers for use when it later begins the allotment of specific acreage quotas to growers. It is anticipated that county committees before too long will be asked to secure the same information on cotton acreage since quotas were lifted from that coop in 1942.

Spokesmen for the department made it clear that this does not necessarily mean that quotas will be applied to the two crops. But barring weather catastrophes of almost un-precedented proportions, the outlook for both crops is such that no one doubts but what there will be such large surpluses that Brannan, under the law, will be required to call the quota referenda.

Congress is also expected shortly to provide a deficiency appropriation of approximately $13,000,000 for the department to pay for this preliminary work between now and July 1. The fund has been approved by both the house and senate, but has been tied up in conference because of the failure of the senate and house to agree to several other provisions in the bill.

In order to make the necessary research for acreage quotas, to hold the elections among the growers, and to distribute the quotas if they are approved, it is estimated that the department will be forced to spend at least $30,000,000. The balance will be secured from regular departmental funds carried in the supply bill for the new fiscal year starting July 1.

Before the acreage and marketing quotas on cotton can finally be fixed for the nation, states, counties and individual farmers, however, congress will be forced to enact another bill.

Last year, when Brannan contemplated imposing quotas upon cotton growers, he discovered that under the old law, the minimum national quota would have been, due to various provisions of the pre-war act, 27,300,000 acres. It was obvious, since the crop in 1948 reached approximately 15,000,000 bales on only 23,500,000 acres, that such a limitation would be a futile gesture.

The house agriculture committee within the next several weeks will begin hearings on new legislation reducing the minimum total production for the nation, and changing the method of allocating this limited production among the states, as a result of production shifts during the war.

Thus far, the cotton bloc in the house has failed to agree on a specific formula, but it was reported this week that they are now virtually agreed on the general allocation principles.

Under the plan which is expected to be proposed to the committee, an arbitrary acreage total for the nation will be selected, possibly 22,500,000 acres. This total would then be divided among the growing states on a historical basis, with a provision that no state could be reduced more than fifteen per cent of its proportionate share of the nation's cotton crop in 1948.

This does not mean that 22,500,000 acres would be the quota fixed for the 1950 crop. It is anticipated that congress will allow the secretary of agriculture to fix the quota on the basis of supply and demand, which cannot be determined until after the 1949 crop has been determined. There have been some unofficial guesss that the acreage might be held to about 20,000,000 bales, but it is impossible to determine this at this early date.

In any event, if Brannan determines that the national allotment is to be below the formula figure of 22,500,000 acres, each state will be given a flat percentage across-the-board cut equivalent to the percentage below the key figure of the allotment decided upon.

The bill, of course, will provide some spare acreage for new growers and to be used in hardship cases. But generally speaking, this formula is expected to meet with approval of most members of the cotton bloc and will be enacted into law before congress recesses or adjourns this summer.

Some changes in the quota formulas for wheat and corn are also expected to be made by congress, though the problems involved with respect to these crops have not been considered as difficult as those for cotton.

The first recorded strike in the United States occurred in 1786 when Philadelphia printers walked out demanding a $6 weekly wage.

Ellender Joins Taft To Write New Bill

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—A southern Democratic senator said today he has decided to join in sponsoring a Republican-written substitute for the administration's Taft-Hartley repeal bill.

Senator Ellender (D-La.) said he has accepted an invitation to be a co-sponsor extended to him by Senator Taft (R-Ohio), one of the three G. O. P. authors of the substitute measure.

Ellender predicted that perhaps a half dozen other southern Democrats in the senate also probably will put their names on the substitute in a few days.

The measure backed by Taft and Senators Smith (R-N. J.) and Donnell (R-Mo.) would make more than a score of changes in the Taft-Hartley law, but—in Taft's words—would retain "the best features" of that law.

The administration bill, on the other hand, would junk the T.-H. law and replace it with a modified version of the old Wagner act.

The Taft-Smith-Donnell substitute is in the form of five big amendments to the administration measure.

Ellender told a reporter he had Taft have not decided whether Ellender's name will go on all five parts of the substitute. Ellender said he probably will decide to co-sponsor some of the amendments and have other Democrats join with Republicans in backing other parts of the substitute.

The strategy, it was understood, is to get as broad a sponsorship of the substitute as possible on both the G. O. P. and the Democratic sides of the senate aisle.

Ellender made it clear, however, that generally speaking he is for the substitute as a whole because he feels it "preserves the spirit of the Taft-Hartley law."

The Louisiana senator has forecast that when the showdown comes in the senate, from 14 to 22 Democrats, most of them from the South, will vote for the G. O. P.-authored substitute.

That showdown probably won't occur for another month to six weeks. Several other bills are lined up ahead of labor legislation on the crowded senate calendar.

Taft's primary purpose in lining up Democratic co-sponsors is to try to assure passage of the substitute measure. But he also is known to be eager to avoid having any new labor law bear his name.

The Ohio senator is said to feel that another Taft labor law would be regarded by the public as the Taft-Hartley law all over again, despite the changes he is willing to make.

For that reason, some of the five amendments which make up the substitute may not even have Taft's name on them as a sponsor.

It was a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats in both the senate and house which put the Taft-Hartley law on the books in 1947 over President Truman's veto.

A similar coalition forced Truman Democratic leaders in the house to offer a compromise bill 10 days ago. Even so, the compromise measure was defeated and the administration narrowly averted passage of a bill which would have kept most of the T.-H. law. That measure, the Wood bill, was sent back to committee for further study by the hair's breadth margin of three votes.

Parking meters were first installed in American cities in 1935, when six municipalities put them in.

FORMER SENATOR IS IN BAD CONDITION

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Former Senator Wallace H. White, Jr. (R-Maine) was reported to be in a "critical condition" today after a heart attack at his home last night.

The 71-year-old legislator retired as senate majority leader and from the senate at the end of the 80th congress last January. Last Thursday night he was honor guest of the National Association of Broadcasters who presented him a plaque in recognition of his long public career.

White was admitted to George Washington hospital late last night. He was said to be resting somewhat easier today but not off the danger list.

It is estimated that more than 1,500 cities in the United States have installed parking meters.

Plans Made For Curbing Wheat, Cotton Production

Will Be Carried Out Regardless Of Long Range Program

By Edward Jamieson
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 14.— Plans to curb the production of cotton and wheat next year, irrespective of what congress may finally decide to do about the comprehensive long range farm program proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, are getting underway.

At the same time, there is a strong possibility that acreage quotas will also be applied to the three other uncontrolled basic crops in 1950—corn, rice and peanuts. Tobacco, the sixth basic commodity, has remained under federal production controls throughout the war and postwar period.

While Secretary Brannan is not required to announce a referendum by wheat growers on marketing and acreage quotas for that crop until July 15 and for cotton until November 15, several preliminary steps are necessary and it appeared this week that they will be taken by both congress and the department of Agriculture within a very short time.

The house of representatives is expected to approve within the next week or ten days the senate bill passed by that body which will authorize the secretary to go ahead with plans for the quotas on cotton, as well as wheat, corn, rice and peanuts, immediately.

While it has generally been assumed that the secretary could, under the old agricultural adjustment act, determine the necessity for production controls and call for the necessary referenda of growers this year, despite the fact that the new Aiken-Hope farm act goes into effect January 1, it was decided to secure specific legislation from congress so that there will be no chance of a legal slip-up.

Meanwhile, the department has already begun collection of wartime and post-war crop history of individual wheat farmers for use when it later begins the allotment of specific acreage quotas to growers. It is anticipated that county committees before too long will be asked to secure the same information on cotton acreage since quotas were lifted from that coop in 1942.

Spokesmen for the department made it clear that this does not necessarily mean that quotas will be applied to the two crops. But barring weather catastrophes of almost un-precedented proportions, the outlook for both crops is such that no one doubts but what there will be such large surpluses that Brannan, under the law, will be required to call the quota referenda.

Congress is also expected shortly to provide a deficiency appropriation of approximately $13,000,000 for the department to pay for this preliminary work between now and July 1. The fund has been approved by both the house and senate, but has been tied up in conference because of the failure of the senate and house to agree to several other provisions in the bill.

In order to make the necessary research for acreage quotas, to hold the elections among the growers, and to distribute the quotas if they are approved, it is estimated that the department will be forced to spend at least $30,000,000. The balance will be secured from regular departmental funds carried in the supply bill for the new fiscal year starting July 1.

Before the acreage and marketing quotas on cotton can finally be fixed for the nation, states, counties and individual farmers, however, congress will be forced to enact another bill.

Last year, when Brannan contemplated imposing quotas upon cotton growers, he discovered that under the old law, the minimum national quota would have been, due to various provisions of the pre-war act, 27,300,000 acres. It was obvious, since the crop in 1948 reached approximately 15,000,000 bales on only 23,500,000 acres, that such a limitation would be a futile gesture.

The house agriculture committee within the next several weeks will begin hearings on new legislation reducing the minimum total production for the nation, and changing the method of allocating this limited production among the states, as a result of production shifts during the war.

Thus far, the cotton bloc in the house has failed to agree on a specific formula, but it was reported this week that they are now virtually agreed on the general allocation principles.

Under the plan which is expected to be proposed to the committee, an arbitrary acreage total for the nation will be selected, possibly 22,500,000 acres. This total would then be divided among the growing states on a historical basis, with a provision that no state could be reduced more than fifteen per cent of its proportionate share of the nation's cotton crop in 1948.

This does not mean that 22,500,000 acres would be the quota fixed for the 1950 crop. It is anticipated that congress will allow the secretary of agriculture to fix the quota on the basis of supply and demand, which cannot be determined until after the 1949 crop has been determined. There have been some unofficial guesss that the acreage might be held to about 20,000,000 bales, but it is impossible to determine this at this early date.

In any event, if Brannan determines that the national allotment is to be below the formula figure of 22,500,000 acres, each state will be given a flat percentage across-the-board cut equivalent to the percentage below the key figure of the allotment decided upon.

The bill, of course, will provide some spare acreage for new growers and to be used in hardship cases. But generally speaking, this formula is expected to meet with approval of most members of the cotton bloc and will be enacted into law before congress recesses or adjourns this summer.

Some changes in the quota formulas for wheat and corn are also expected to be made by congress, though the problems involved with respect to these crops have not been considered as difficult as those for cotton.

The first recorded strike in the United States occurred in 1786 when Philadelphia printers walked out demanding a $6 weekly wage.

Ellender Joins Taft To Write New Bill

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—A southern Democratic senator said today he has decided to join in sponsoring a Republican-written substitute for the administration's Taft-Hartley repeal bill.

Senator Ellender (D-La.) said he has accepted an invitation to be a co-sponsor extended to him by Senator Taft (R-Ohio), one of the three G. O. P. authors of the substitute measure.

Ellender predicted that perhaps a half dozen other southern Democrats in the senate also probably will put their names on the substitute in a few days.

The measure backed by Taft and Senators Smith (R-N. J.) and Donnell (R-Mo.) would make more than a score of changes in the Taft-Hartley law, but—in Taft's words—would retain "the best features" of that law.

The administration bill, on the other hand, would junk the T.-H. law and replace it with a modified version of the old Wagner act.

The Taft-Smith-Donnell substitute is in the form of five big amendments to the administration measure.

Ellender told a reporter he had Taft have not decided whether Ellender's name will go on all five parts of the substitute. Ellender said he probably will decide to co-sponsor some of the amendments and have other Democrats join with Republicans in backing other parts of the substitute.

The strategy, it was understood, is to get as broad a sponsorship of the substitute as possible on both the G. O. P. and the Democratic sides of the senate aisle.

Ellender made it clear, however, that generally speaking he is for the substitute as a whole because he feels it "preserves the spirit of the Taft-Hartley law."

The Louisiana senator has forecast that when the showdown comes in the senate, from 14 to 22 Democrats, most of them from the South, will vote for the G. O. P.-authored substitute.

That showdown probably won't occur for another month to six weeks. Several other bills are lined up ahead of labor legislation on the crowded senate calendar.

Taft's primary purpose in lining up Democratic co-sponsors is to try to assure passage of the substitute measure. But he also is known to be eager to avoid having any new labor law bear his name.

The Ohio senator is said to feel that another Taft labor law would be regarded by the public as the Taft-Hartley law all over again, despite the changes he is willing to make.

For that reason, some of the five amendments which make up the substitute may not even have Taft's name on them as a sponsor.

It was a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats in both the senate and house which put the Taft-Hartley law on the books in 1947 over President Truman's veto.

A similar coalition forced Truman Democratic leaders in the house to offer a compromise bill 10 days ago. Even so, the compromise measure was defeated and the administration narrowly averted passage of a bill which would have kept most of the T.-H. law. That measure, the Wood bill, was sent back to committee for further study by the hair's breadth margin of three votes.

FORMER SENATOR IS IN BAD CONDITION

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Former Senator Wallace H. White, Jr. (R-Maine) was reported to be in a "critical condition" today after a heart attack at his home last night.

The 71-year-old legislator retired as senate majority leader and from the senate at the end of the 80th congress last January. Last Thursday night he was honor guest of the National Association of Broadcasters who presented him a plaque in recognition of his long public career.

White was admitted to George Washington hospital late last night. He was said to be resting somewhat easier today but not off the danger list.

It is estimated that more than 1,500 cities in the United States have installed parking meters.

Music Guild Presents Open Program For Music Week

Mrs. E. W. Cruse Entertains At Reception Following The Event

One of the outstanding events during National Music Week was the open program featuring Louisiana composers which was presented by the Music Guild and guest artists at the Frances Hotel.

Officers of the Guild stood against a background of peach-colored gladioli in tall white floor standards to receive the guests. Programs were given by three little girls in floor length pastel gowns. They were Misses Mary Lyda Coon, Ann McEachern, and Chloe Smith. Mrs. E. W. Cruse, president, wearing a black dinner gown, gave a word of welcome.

Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, who has served as program chairman for the club year, introduced the program and gave the annotations concerning each number.

Following the program, a reception was held for members and their husbands and out-of-town guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cruse.

Magnolias were used throughout the reception suite. They were banked high on the mantle in the drawing room and formed a centerpiece in the dining room, where a green and white theme was used.

Tall white tapers gave a soft glow to the refreshment table which was overlaid with a handsome cutwork cloth. Mrs. J. Norman Coon, in pink lace, and Mrs. E. Everett Lawson, wearing grey satin, alternated at the punch bowl.

The guest of honor, on this occasion, was Mrs. Mark E. Howard, accomplished pianist and professor of music at Louisiana College at Pineville. Other guests of honor included Mrs. David L. Agnew, violinist, and Mrs. A. M. Serex, vocalist, who also appeared on the program.

BROCKNER-ECHOLS

Of interest to friends throughout this section is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Doris Echols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Echols and Wayne Brockner, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brockner. The ceremony took place in the home of the bride's parents in Columbia, on Friday evening May 6th at eight o'clock.

The officiating minister, Rev. Cline D. Ellis performed the double-ring service before a background of white gladioli, stock, interspersed with greenery and glowing white tapers in branched candelabera.

The tapers were lighted by Mrs. Cline Ellis.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a blue gabardine suit with navy accessories and a pink crepe blouse. Her hat was navy with touches of pink. Her corsage was a single deep purple orchid.

Mrs. Louis R. Perkins, of Baton Rouge, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a printed silk dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Stanley Martyniuk served the groom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremoney, a reception for the wedding party and the two immediate families was held in the Echols home.

The bride's table was covered with a draped cut work cloth over which candelabra, burning white tapers tied with satin ribbons shed a soft glow. The three tiered white embossed wedding cake set in a bank of greenery from which satin ribbons tied with small old fashioned bouquets, extended to the ends of the table, formed the center piece.

Mrs. Stanley Martyniuk, sister of the groom, presided at the punch bowl, while Mrs. Louis R. Perkins served the cake.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the young couple will make their home in an apartment on Lakeside avenue in Columbia.

NEW BOOKS ADDED TO LIBRARY COLLECTION DURING THIS MONTH

Since May 1 several interesting books have been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Frank Yerby could not by any stretch of the imagination be called a great writer. However, he is an extremely popular one. He produces one novel each year. His latest Streeter. Mr. Stanley Banks had always thought of a wedding as a simple little get-together, which usually resulted in two people getting one is called "Pride's Castle." Even before the book was ready for circulation, the library had a long waiting list for it. Pride Dawson, the central figure of the story is one you will never forget. This is a book with a great sweep and drama, telling how Pride Dawson cheated and schemed to outwit his rivals and achieve his goal. It is also the story of the two women, Sharon and Esther, who loved him. This is the sort of book that is read at one time, because once you start it, you don't want to stop.

"The Big Secret" by Merle Colby is concerned with the adventures of a college professor in Washington. He finds that sinister forces are plotting to spoil the atomic research projects and does everything he can to outwit them. There are scenes of high comedy and scenes of warm and moving drama. This book is well worth reading.

For pure comedy don't miss "The Father of the Bride" by Edward married. Little did he know what was in store for him. He finally offered his daughter $1,500 to elope, which she refused to do. The pictures by Gluyas Williams of New Yorker fame add a great deal to the humor of the book.

Readers of mystery stories fall into two groups. Some people like them very grusome and others like them well-written and with a feeling of suspense underlying all of the actions of a group of people, who could very easily be your own friends. Of the second type of writers Mignon G. Eberhart and Leslie Ford are two of the best. Miss Eberhart's new book is "House of Storm." The scene is laid on one of the small islands of the West Indies and to add to the horror of the story a devastating hurricane comes along. So well is this story done, that it is almost impossible to decide who the murderer is until the last minutes of the story.

Leslie Ford's new novel, "Date With Death" deals with an entirely new group of characters. Her books have become almost inseparably linked with Colonel Primrose and Mrs. Latham and the Washington scene. "Date With Death" shifts to Annapolis with its lovely old homes and the colorful pomp of the naval academy. Jonas Smith became accidentally involved with murder, and it was he who figured out the solution of the crime.

Every day new borrowers are being registered at one of the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. If you are a citizen of Ouachita parish, don't neglect to use the library resources. In Monroe the library is located at 418 Jackson street, in West Monroe it is at 106 Cypress street. The Bookmobile serves the people who live outside the limits of the twin cities. The Carver branch for the Negro people is located at 109 1/2 Powell's Alley.

The wonderful moments of your wedding should not be shepherded by inconstant memory. Such fragile loveliness should be caught and held forever in the finest of modern bridal portraiture.

NEW BOOKS ADDED TO LIBRARY COLLECTION DURING THIS MONTH

Since May 1 several interesting books have been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Frank Yerby could not by any stretch of the imagination be called a great writer. However, he is an extremely popular one. He produces one novel each year. His latest Streeter. Mr. Stanley Banks had always thought of a wedding as a simple little get-together, which usually resulted in two people getting one is called "Pride's Castle." Even before the book was ready for circulation, the library had a long waiting list for it. Pride Dawson, the central figure of the story is one you will never forget. This is a book with a great sweep and drama, telling how Pride Dawson cheated and schemed to outwit his rivals and achieve his goal. It is also the story of the two women. Sharon and Esther, who loved him. This is the sort of book that is read at one time, because once you start it, you don't want to stop.

"The Big Secret" by Merle Colby is concerned with the adventures of a college professor in Washington. He finds that sinister forces are plotting to spoil the atomic research projects and does everything he can to outwit them. There are scenes of high comedy and scenes of warm and moving drama. This book is well worth reading.

For pure comedy don't miss "The Father of the Bride" by Edward married. Little did he know what was in store for him. He finally offered his daughter $1,500 to elope, which she refused to do. The pictures by Gluyas Williams of New Yorker fame add a great deal to the humor of the book.

Readers of mystery stories fall into two groups. Some people like them very grusome and others like them well-written and with a feeling of suspense underlying all of the actions of a group of people, who could very easily be your own friends. Of the second type of writers Mignon G. Eberhart and Leslie Ford are two of the best. Miss Eberhart's new book is "House of Storm." The scene is laid on one of the small islands of the West Indies and to add to the horror of the story a devastating hurricane comes along. So well is this story done, that it is almost impossible to decide who the murderer is until the last minutes of the story.

Leslie Ford's new novel, "Date With Death" deals with an entirely new group of characters. Her books have become almost inseparably linked with Colonel Primrose and Mrs. Latham and the Washington scene. "Date With Death" shifts to Annapolis with its lovely old homes and the colorful pomp of the naval academy. Jonas Smith became accidentally involved with murder, and it was he who figured out the solution of the crime.

Every day new borrowers are being registered at one of the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. If you are a citizen of Ouachita parish, don't neglect to use the library resources. In Monroe the library is located at 418 Jackson street, in West Monroe it is at 106 Cypress street. The Bookmobile serves the people who live outside the limits of the twin cities. The Carver branch for the Negro people is located at 109 1/2 Powell's Alley.

The water level of Lake Geneva, Switzerland, this year was the lowest recorded in a century.

The wonderful moments of your wedding should not be shepherded by inconstant memory. Such fragile loveliness should be caught and held forever in the finest of modern bridal portraiture.

Individual portions of poato salad are attractive when they are served in large lettuce cups and topped with a tiny sweet pickle. In making the salad, marinate the potatoes in French dressing, then add mayonnaise just before serving. To give the salad a crisp touch add finely diced celery or sliced radishes with the mayonnaise.

LAMP MAKING ART TAUGHT WOMEN

"The Lamp Clinics held on Tuesday and Wednesday proved educational, as well as producing some very beautiful lamps," states Mrs. Mildred Swift, city agent for extension.

Mrs. Eva Gae Malone, assisted by Mr. Garland Edelen showed a film on "Light is What You Make It." Mrs. Malone showed different type bulbs, reflectors and diffusing bowls. Light from different type lamps was measured by means of the sight meter. Too low lamps produced inadequate light for close work, this type having a place only as a decoration or night lamp. Some beautiful lights, of all types were made. Several valuable antique vases and lamps were converted. A medium sized churn was made into a porch lamp. An antique coffee grinder made an odd light for a den. A display of shades, some home-made, some purchased made it possible for each worker to find the type and color shade she would need to buy or make for her lamp.

Mrs. Swift states: "Mrs. Malone gave wonderful instruction, the lamps were useful, beautiful and inexpensive, there were fifty-nine completed. Everybody learned lots and had a good time."

The following were present: Mrs. J. R. Porter, Mrs. R. L. Wallace, Mrs. J. W. Pope, Mrs. L. N. Copes, Mrs. Beatrice Crabtree, Mrs. G. E. Tyner, Mrs. Annie Fife, Mrs. R. C. Freeman, Mrs. J. C. "The Lamp Clinics held on Tuesday and Wednesday proved educational, as well as producing some very beautiful lamps," states Mrs. Mildred Swift, city agent for extension.

Mrs. Eva Gae Malone, assisted by Mr. Garland Edelen showed a film on "Light is What You Make It." Mrs. Malone showed different type bulbs, reflectors and diffusing bowls. Light from different type lamps was measured by means of the sight meter. Too low lamps produced inadequate light for close work, this type having a place only as a decoration or night lamp. Some beautiful lights, of all types were made. Several valuable antique vases and lamps were converted. A medium sized churn was made into a porch lamp. An antique coffee grinder made an odd light for a den. A display of shades, some home-made, some purchased made it possible for each worker to find the type and color shade she would need to buy or make for her lamp.

Mrs. Swift states: "Mrs. Malone gave wonderful instruction, the lamps were useful, beautiful and inexpensive, there were fifty-nine completed. Everybody learned lots and had a good time."

The following were present: Mrs. J. R. Porter, Mrs. R. L. Wallace, Mrs. J. W. Pope, Mrs. L. N. Copes, Mrs. Beatrice Crabtree, Mrs. G. E. Tyner, Mrs. Annie Fife, Mrs. R. C. Freeman, Mrs. J. C. THE CHURCH NEEDS YOU... YOU NEED THE CHURCH

WE live in an Age of Comfort... physical comfort, that is, and we like it. In fact, we demand comfort. Our homes must be comfortable... warm in winter, cool in summer, equipped with electrical conveniences and good plumbing. Our furniture must be comfortable. Our clothes must be comfortable. Our automobiles, trains, airplanes must give comfort in every detail. Even the style of our architecture has changed to reflect this modern trend toward, above all else... COMFORT.

YET, are we indulging ourselves in the Supreme Comfort, the COMFORT of RELIGION? A man with folded hands; that means a soul in fellowship with the Almighty. See what aids he has summoned in his hour of great need! As our nerves are torn ragged each day from the wear and tear that must come in every routine, do we restore our souls in the BLESSED PEACE OF OUR RELIGIOUS PROMISES? When a crisis comes, when someone dear to our hearts lies sick beyond reach of medicine or skill, when we must stand by helpless and watch death take away our sweetest treasure, or when we find that we must live daily with tragedy, do we experience the Comfort of a Divine Presence ever with us, to give us stout hearts and strong courage? Read Psalms 103:2-4.

THE HOLY COMFORTER brings joy, peace, patience, loving-kindness. As you walk down a busy street, notice how few faces reflect this Spirit within. Harried, cross, impatient, unkind faces betray a pitiful need for Spiritual Comfort. The strain and stress of complicated modern life are more than any human can bear alone. Psychiatrists are stampeded; mental institutions are overflowing. Our nerves simply can't take it. Why not turn to the COMFORT of RELIGION? The man with folded hands and open Bible; we do not know just where he is reading.... But he is in company with noble souls of all the ages. FOR MAN, IN HIS DARKEST HOURS OF SORROW, SEEKS THE COMFORTS OUR CHRISTIAN RELIGION OFFERS. There's room, there's welcome, there's COMFORT waiting for you in your church.

CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
St. John and Grammont Streets
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
E. W. Edwards, Music And Education

"The Master's Touch Through Doctors and Nurses" will be the pastor's theme Sunday morning in observance of National Hospital Sunday. A group of student nurses from the St. Francis School of Nurses will attend in a body in full uniform. All nurses and doctors who can attend are cordially invited. We owe a lot to our doctors and nurses that cannot be paid in money. "There came a leper . . . and Jesus put forth His hand and touched him." Jesus is still touching suffering humanity through the doctor's skill and the nurse's tender touch.

At the evening hour the young people of our church, led by the Youth Council, will have charge of the service. Come and back them up. They will have a message for you.

Let us be faithful in attendance on all services of the day.

I have heard it in the mountains,
I have heard it by the sea,
Where the plains are vast, and vaster,
I have heard it calling, calling,
Ever calling unto me!

In the nighttime I have heard it,
Through the darkness and the gloom,
In the morning when the sunrise
Burst in splendor through my room.

Oh what is it that is calling,
In the mountains, by the sea.
In the night-time, in the day-time,
Ever calling unto me?

O my soul, and can it be,
It is God, and He is calling,
Ever calling, and a calling,
Ever calling unto me?

Yes He is calling you to attend His services in some church Sunday. Brownville Church invites you to come and worship with us.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The week past has been a Mount of Transfiguration experience. We have been thrilled, inspired, encouraged and stabilized in our religious thinking. To God in Christ be the praise for the ministry of Dr. Walter Rowe Courtenay, one of the ablest ministers of the south, yea the nation.

In reflecting on faith, we realize that of first importance is faith in Christ our Saviour. We also realize that it is necessary to have faith in many other things, among them the Gospel Christ presented to us, for a faith in Him alone would be faith without works that is dead. (James 2:7) Jesus tells us, in Mark 1:15, "The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: Repent ye, and believe the gospel." We are also given to understand, by Paul, in Hebrews 4:2, that if the gospel is preached to us and we don't have faith in it it will avail us nothing, for we must work out our own salvation according to the gospel plan. For further reference's see: St. John 5:45-47, St. John 7:16-17, 1 Thess. 2:13, 2 Peter 1:19-21.

Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan tells of a man whose shop had been burned in the great Chicago fire. He arrived at the ruins next morning carrying a table. He set this up amid the charred debris and above it placed this optimistic sign, "Everything lost except wife, children, and hope. Business will be resumed as usual tomorrow morning."

I have heard it in the mountains,
I have heard it by the sea,
Where the plains are vast, and vaster,
I have heard it calling, calling,
Ever calling unto me!

In the nighttime I have heard it,
Through the darkness and the gloom,
In the morning when the sunrise
Burst in splendor through my room.

Oh what is it that is calling,
In the mountains, by the sea,
In the night-time, in the day-time,
Ever calling unto me?

O my soul, and can it be,
It is God, and He is calling,
Ever calling, and a calling,
Ever calling unto me?

Yes He is calling you to attend His services in some church Sunday. Brownville Church invites you to come and worship with us.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Ernest D. Holloway, Minister

The week past has been a Mount of Transfiguration experience. We have been thrilled, inspired, encouraged and stabilized in our religious thinking. To God in Christ be the praise for the ministry of Dr. Walter Rowe Courtenay, one of the ablest ministers of the south, yea the nation.

According to the Christ the effects must abide and be proved in daily walk and conversation. Are you more church minded, more Christ centered, and more understanding? If you are, evince these results daily.

Attend church school today. There is a class for you, and under the leadership of people who believe in the Christ and seek to impart their apprehension of His principles.

"The Spirit of Promise" is the theme of the evening sermon. The hour is 7:30 o'clock.

That parents with children may worship, a nursery is provided, which is under most capable women.

If you have no church home, worship with us. If this is the church of your persuasion, you are urged to attend services today. A cordial welcome awaits you.

In reflecting on faith, we realize that of first importance is faith in Christ our Saviour. We also realize that it is necessary to have faith in many other things, among them the Gospel Christ presented to us, for a faith in Him alone would be faith without works that is dead. (James 2:7) Jesus tells us, in Mark 1:15, "The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: Repent ye, and believe the gospel." We are also given to understand, by Paul, in Hebrews 4:2, that if the gospel is preached to us and we don't have faith in it it will avail us nothing, for we must work out our own salvation according to the gospel plan. For further reference's see: St. John 5:45-47, St. John 7:16-17, 1 Thess. 2:13, 2 Peter 1:19-21.

In November, 1938, J. L. Cash and W. L. Cash, who were the leading painting contractors in this area, and J. F. Davis, who was at that time manager of a local paint store, decided that Monroe was an ideal place for a paint and decorating company such as the Keystone Paint and Decorating Company. On December 8 of that year its doors were opened to serve the people of Monroe and this vicinity. Since that time it has been our objective to give our friends and customers only the best in workmanship and quality merchandise. We were fortunate in securing the exclusive dealership for DuPont Paints and Imperial Wallpaper, tops in both lines. We have had only one objective—to serve our customers in the best possible way.

We take this opportunity and this means of thanking the public for making possible our progress and growth during the past eleven years, and trust that we may have the pleasure of serving you in the future.

Shown above is the beautiful Wallpaper Display Room of the Keystone Paint & Decorating Company. There are thousands and thousands of rolls of the newest wallpaper in exquisite designs in the famous Imperial individual patterns so popular in all American homes. Display racks are conveniently arranged to make the selection of wallpaper easy and enjoyable. Another scene is in the Paint Department where large stocks of the world famous DuPont paints for inside and outside purposes are shown. The general interior is colorful and inviting, and all up-to-date facilities have been added for the people's convenience.

1200 ACRES ARE BEING DRAINED

Blankston Plantation In Caldwell Parish Being Improved

The drainage of 1200 acres, located on the former Blankston plantation of Caldwell parish near Corey, is now in progress for the owners who are 20 farmers purchasing land from the government through the F. H. A. This work is being done by the soil conservation service and is the biggest project of the kind ever attempted in this state. Johnny Boughton, in charge of the soil conservation office in Rayville and Jimmy Wyche as engineer is directing the work. The cost to be paid to the extent of 50 per cent by the farmers concerned.

The land is today worth easily $100 an acre but when the drainage work is completed upwards of 25 per cent additional value will be resultant.

The production and marketing administration, also financially interested in the improvement, is a group directed by I. E. Lucas in charge of the P. M. A. office in Columbia.

George D. McKnight, county supervisor of the F. H. A. for Caldwell parish, is assisted by Perry W. Wilson, Jr., in connection with the project which will require from 30 to 60 days for completion. Lateral and field ditches are being dug to connect with a drainage canal from Ouachita parish. Huge bulldozers and motor controls are utilized and trees of enormous size are being uprooted where required.

W. C. King, county agent for Caldwell parish, is lending all possible aid from his department; the state highway also is assisting and the Caldwell parish police jury, realizing the importance of the job, also is lending aid.

All farmers and others interested are invited to make a trip to the Blankston plantation and witness the progress of this important project.

SON IS BORN TO GOVERNOR FOLSOM

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 14.—(AP)—It's a boy!

A son was born this morning to Gov. and Mrs. James E. Folsom.

The child arrived at Fitts Hill Hospital shortly after 7 a. m.

Governor Folsom said this morning he and Mrs. Folsom have not selected a name for the newcomer.

Governor Folsom has two girls, Rachel, 9, and Melissa, 6, by his first wife, who died in 1944.

The governor married the former Jamelle Moore, of Berry, on May 5, 1948, at Rockford, Ala.

Mother, father and child were reported doing nicely this morning.

UNIT WILL REVEAL DRIVER'S SHORTCOMINGS

A mobile unit (above) of the Louisiana department of public safety will arrive in Monroe Monday and will remain on exhibition here until Friday. The mobile unit is equipped with means to determine what drivers are in need of whether it be better vision, more knowledge of traffic rules or a course in driving. The unit will visit this city following invitation by the Monroe police department.

DRIVING SKILL WILL BE TESTED

Department Of Safety To Enable Persons To Test Alertness

The Louisiana department of public safety, at the request of the Monroe police department, is sending a mobile automobile driver's safety unit to Monroe for a five-day period during which automobile drivers may test their skill and alertness.

Arrangements have been completed with Col. J. G. Grant, director of public safety, to have the safety educational unit on display here May 16 to 20. The unit will be under the sponsorship of the La. Municipal Association and the police department here.

Colonel Grant reports that this testing unit is for training purposes only and will not involve a driver's license. He added that every driver who visits the unit will realize some of his shortcomings as a driver.

Various tests which will be offered were released by Grant as follows:

1. Brake reaction: This measures the time required to lift the foot from the accleerator and apply the brakes.

2. Visual acuity: A Keystone telebinocular view master is used to test the clearness of vision, horizontal balance, and far, as well as near, sightness.

3. Field of vision: With a special device built by the American Automobile Association, we can measure the angle of sideview (angle at which the driver can see out of the corner of his eyes without having to shift them).

4. Steadiness test: This is psychophysical test to measure the degree of nervousnes of a person.

5. Glare recovery: A dark room has been built in our safety unit in order to be able to give a night blindness test. This is to determine how well our drivers can recover from the glare of bright lights while driving.

6. Depth perception: With another device constructed by the American Automobile Association, we can test the driver's ability to judge distance.

All drivers are urged to take advantage of this "golden opportunity" for checking to see how well they react to some of the traffic problems.

The unit will stop on St. John street for the first two days here and will be moved to a DeSiard street location for the remainder of the stay here.

"By the sword we seek peace, but peace only under liberty" is the state motto of Massachusetts.

HUGE NAVY SHIP TO NEW ORLEANS

180-Passenger Plane Will Be On Public Display Wednesday

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(Special)—The largest navy plane ever—a behemoth which could hold a pullman car, a boxcar and a flatcar and still have room left over for a passenger bus—will go on public display here Wednesday and Thursday, May 18 and 19.

The aircraft will settle its huge wingspread of 189 feet over a Moisant airport runway at about 10:30 Wednesday morning. By noon the public will be streaming through its 156-foot fuselage.

Christened the "Constitution" by the navy, the plane is the largest commercial-type transport in regular service.

It will sweep slowly over the city before landing, Commander W. M. Collins, Jr., U. S. N., its commanding officer, has notified local authorities.

The Constitution's visit here is planned to stimulate interest in the navy's aviation personnel procurement program. A complete medical room is aboard to make preliminary examination of prospective recruits. Models of the latest navy aircraft will he exhibited, Commander Collins said.

A group of newspapermen from the deep south have been invited to make the flight in the huge plane from Memphis to New Orleans. Louisiana newsmen who will be aboard the transport are Robert N. STERLINGTON'S CLUB ASSEMBLES

Mrs. Joe Miller placed beautiful red, radiant roses on her dining table and individual tables throughout her home when she welcomed the Sterlington Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Jewell McQuiller's talk on "Floriculture" was most interesting. "By planting hardy preannual and such as phlox, mums, camellias, lillies, daisies, iris, roses, you can have a beautiful yard with a small amount of labor, and let your yard be a family flower garden where each member contributes to it's beauty, and upkeep, and you will watch the pride and love for it grow," stated Mrs. McQuiller.

The club purchased two tickets to the flower demonstration to be given on the Virginia Hotel, May 26. Mrs. W. R. Davis and Mrs. Joe Miller will represent our club.

Mrs. C. R. Alexander gave interesting facts about "The Need of Milk for the Human Body."

At the conclusion of the meeting a tour of Mrs. Miller's garden was made, and each member was given choice plants.

Delicious refreshments of angel food cake and coffee were served the following members: Mesdames W. R. Wimbish, A. G. Muller, Oel Futrell, Mary Jones, C. R. Alexander, Scott Horton, W. D. Knox, Monroe Alford, Leon Carpenter, Walter Muller, W. R. Davis, Jewell McQuiller and hostess, Mrs. Joe Miller.

1200 ACRES ARE BEING DRAINED

Blankston Plantation In Caldwell Parish Being Improved

The drainage of 1200 acres, located on the former Blankston plantation of Caldwell parish near Corey, is now in progress for the owners who are 20 farmers purchasing land from the government through the F. H. A. This work is being done by the soil conservation service and is the biggest project of the kind ever attempted in this state. Johnny Boughton, in charge of the soil conservation office in Rayville and Jimmy Wyche as engineer is directing the work. The cost to be paid to the extent of 50 per cent by the farmers concerned.

The land is today worth easily $100 an acre but when the drainage work is completed upwards of 25 per cent additional value will be resultant.

The production and marketing administration, also financially interested in the improvement, is a group directed by I. E. Lucas in charge of the P. M. A. office in Columbia.

George D. McKnight, county supervisor of the F. H. A. for Caldwell parish, is assisted by Perry W. Wilson, Jr., in connection with the project which will require from 30 to 60 days for completion. Lateral and field ditches are being dug to connect with a drainage canal from Ouachita parish. Huge bulldozers and motor controls are utilized and trees of enormous size are being uprooted where required.

W. C. King, county agent for Caldwell parish, is lending all possible aid from his department; the state highway also is assisting and the Caldwell parish police jury, realizing the importance of the job, also is lending aid.

All farmers and others interested are invited to make a trip to the Blankston plantation and witness the progress of this important project.

SON IS BORN TO GOVERNOR FOLSOM

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 14.—(AP)—It's a boy!

A son was born this morning to Gov. and Mrs. James E. Folsom.

The child arrived at Fitts Hill Hospital shortly after 7 a. m.

Governor Folsom said this morning he and Mrs. Folsom have not selected a name for the newcomer.

Governor Folsom has two girls, Rachel, 9, and Melissa, 6, by his first wife, who died in 1944.

The governor married the former Jamelle Moore, of Berry, on May 5, 1948, at Rockford, Ala.

Mother, father and child were reported doing nicely this morning.

UNIT WILL REVEAL DRIVER'S SHORTCOMINGS

A mobile unit (above) of the Louisiana department of public safety will arrive in Monroe Monday and will remain on exhibition here until Friday. The mobile unit is equipped with means to determine what drivers are in need of whether it be better vision, more knowledge of traffic rules or a course in driving. The unit will visit this city following invitation by the Monroe police department.

DRIVING SKILL WILL BE TESTED

Department Of Safety To Enable Persons To Test Alertness

The Louisiana department of public safety, at the request of the Monroe police department, is sending a mobile automobile driver's safety unit to Monroe for a five-day period during which automobile drivers may test their skill and alertness.

Arrangements have been completed with Col. J. G. Grant, director of public safety, to have the safety educational unit on display here May 16 to 20. The unit will be under the sponsorship of the La. Municipal Association and the police department here.

Colonel Grant reports that this testing unit is for training purposes only and will not involve a driver's license. He added that every driver who visits the unit will realize some of his shortcomings as a driver.

Various tests which will be offered were released by Grant as follows:

1. Brake reaction: This measures the time required to lift the foot from the accleerator and apply the brakes.

2. Visual acuity: A Keystone telebinocular view master is used to test the clearness of vision, horizontal balance, and far, as well as near, sightness.

3. Field of vision: With a special device built by the American Automobile Association, we can measure the angle of sideview (angle at which the driver can see out of the corner of his eyes without having to shift them).

4. Steadiness test: This is psychophysical test to measure the degree of nervousnes of a person.

5. Glare recovery: A dark room has been built in our safety unit in order to be able to give a night blindness test. This is to determine how well our drivers can recover from the glare of bright lights while driving.

6. Depth perception: With another device constructed by the American Automobile Association, we can test the driver's ability to judge distance.

All drivers are urged to take advantage of this "golden opportunity" for checking to see how well they react to some of the traffic problems.

The unit will stop on St. John street for the first two days here and will be moved to a DeSiard street location for the remainder of the stay here.

"By the sword we seek peace, but peace only under liberty" is the state motto of Massachusetts.

HUGE NAVY SHIP TO NEW ORLEANS

180-Passenger Plane Will Be On Public Display Wednesday

NEW ORLEANS, May 14.—(Special)—The largest navy plane ever—a behemoth which could hold a pullman car, a boxcar and a flatcar and still have room left over for a passenger bus—will go on public display here Wednesday and Thursday, May 18 and 19.

The aircraft will settle its huge wingspread of 189 feet over a Moisant airport runway at about 10:30 Wednesday morning. By noon the public will be streaming through its 156-foot fuselage.

Christened the "Constitution" by the navy, the plane is the largest commercial-type transport in regular service.

It will sweep slowly over the city before landing, Commander W. M. Collins, Jr., U. S. N., its commanding officer, has notified local authorities.

The Constitution's visit here is planned to stimulate interest in the navy's aviation personnel procurement program. A complete medical room is aboard to make preliminary examination of prospective recruits. Models of the latest navy aircraft will be exhibited, Commander Collins said.

A group of newspapermen from the deep south have been invited to make the flight in the huge plane from Memphis to New Orleans. Louisiana newsmen who will be aboard the transport are Robert N. ASK FARMERS' AID IN PROGRAM

Cooperation Needed To Establish Cotton Acreage Allotments

An urgent plea for the cooperation of all Louisiana cotton farmers in supplying the information needed to establish cotton acreage allotments and marketing quotas for their farms has been made by Lloyd Mullin, state director of the production and marketing administration. Mullin explained that the PMA is gathering this information in preparation for the possibility that a farmer vote on allotments and quotas for cotton will be called in 1950.

The PMA chief points out that although no official announcement has been made from Washington, both USDA officials and members of the cotton industry consider it very likely that a vote will be called. The PMA hopes to be in a position to tell every farmer, before the election, what his acreage allotment and marketing quota will be if acreage allotments are approved.

Mullin added that it will be impossible to establish the allotments and quotas and give the farmer this information without records from the farm for the past five years. PMA representatives in every parish are contacting farmers by mail, in "sign-up" meetings, and by other means. Farmers who give the information requested are not committing themselves, on the subject of acreage allotments and will not be asked to commit themselves, pro or con, until the election on the subject is called.

Mullin points out also that under the 1948 agriculture act the price at which cotton will be supported in 1950 will be at least 20 per cent higher if growers approve acreage allotments and marketing quotas in an election on the subject. If acreage allotments are approved, growers must have allotments for their individual farms before they can take part in the price support program.

The state flower of Massachusetts is the mayflower.

PATRONAGE PUT ON TWO ISSUES

Support Of President And Belief In Program Called Essential

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The Democratic patronage issue simmered down today to two requirements outlined by William Boyle, executive director of the Democratic national committee:

1. "Anybody who was bitterly opposed to the president in the campaign and still is" won't get a job with the committee's approval.

2. Nobody will get a federal appointment "unless he believes in the general principles of the party as set out by the president."

Boyle's clarification of the committee's stand, made in a statement to a reporter, seemed to jibe closely with what Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath has been saying publicly and privately.

The McGrath credo is that those who made personal attacks on President Truman because of his civil rights program won't be welcomed back into the party.

And the national chairman has made it clear that no state rights supporters can expect to receive federal appointment.

But McGrath apparently has left room to welcome back into the party some who strayed off the reservation in last November's campaign.

This apparently applies to such members of congress as Senator Stennis (D-Miss.), who felt called upon yesterday to make a formal statement that he had voted for the Thurmond-Wright states' rights ticket.

Stennis denied what he said was a magazine report that he voted for the Truman-Barkley ticket, as well as what he said was a report from Mississippi that he didn't cast a ballot at all.

"I did vote and voted for the nominees of the Mississippi Democratic party, Thurmond and Wright," Stennis said.

He said he had told McGrath this fact, adding that "I have been assured the president knows it."

Nevertheless, McGrath has continued to deal with Stennis on many matters concerning Mississippi. The explanation is that Stennis did not go out of his way to attack Mr. Truman during the campaign, despite the Mississippi senator's opposition to the president's civil rights program.

Politicians are watching what the White House does with the proposed appointment of Judge J. P. Coleman as United States attorney in Mississippi to determine what Mr. Truman's attitude is toward Stennis and others in the same category.

Coleman, recommended by Stennis, was endorsed by the Democratic national committee. McGrath personally urged the president to make the appointment.

It is estimated that if the world's entire population were to start counting the number of atoms in one drop of water, it would take 10,000 years to finish the job.

LETTER HAS MANY ERRORS-PRESIDENT

Says Message Published In Union Paper Changes Meaning With Mistakes

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—A letter from President Truman that appeared to rebuke Speaker Rayburn and other Democratic house leaders was all mixed up by "typographical errors," the White House said today.

"No slap at any person was intended," it was emphasized.

A picture of the letter, which spoke sharply of "compromisers" on the labor bill in congress, was published in a union newspaper. It mentioned no names.

Rayburn and other friends of the president in the house recently tried, without success, to engineer a compromise to get a Taft-Hartley act repealer through the house.

When the photographic reproduction of the letter was called to the attention of White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross today, he said that he had checked the text of the letter with Mr. Truman and had discovered some "typographical errors."

Ross didn't say who made them, or why the letter wasn't checked before it was sent out. But he did not question the authenticity of the photographed letter which appeared in the Trainman's News.

One paragraph of the communication addressed to A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, read:

"The compromisers got nowhere, as I was sure they wouldn't, and they never had any consideration whatever for me."

These 19 words contained two errors, Ross said after his huddle with the chief.

He said the president meant "compromises" instead of "compromisers," and that the end of the sentence should have been "never had any consideration from (instead of 'for') me."

The president campaigned with a promise to repeal the Taft-Hartley act, and since his election has said repeatedly that is exactly what he wants.

His letter to Whitney included these words:

"I've never believed in any compromise on the labor program other than the amended Wagner act which I sent to the congress and which was reported out by the labor commission of both the house and senate.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 14.—(AP)—Retired Federal Judge Duval West, 87, died Friday at his home here.

During his long and colorful career, Judge West was a diplomat, rancher, renowned hunter, deputy United States marshal and assistant United States attorney.

Judge West returned from the bench as judge of the western district of Texas in 1932. He was appointed to the judgeship in 1916 by President Woodrow Wilson.

His appointment followed a diplomatic career in Mexico during the revolutionary period as personal agent of President Wilson. He interviewed Pancho Villa.

LETTER HAS MANY ERRORS-PRESIDENT

Says Message Published In Union Paper Changes Meaning With Mistakes

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—A letter from President Truman that appeared to rebuke Speaker Rayburn and other Democratic house leaders was all mixed up by "typographical errors," the White House said today.

"No slap at any person was intended," it was emphasized.

A picture of the letter, which spoke sharply of "compromisers" on the labor bill in congress, was published in a union newspaper. It mentioned no names.

Rayburn and other friends of the president in the house recently tried, without success, to engineer a compromise to get a Taft-Hartley act repealer through the house.

When the photographic reproduction of the letter was called to the attention of White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross today, he said that he had checked the text of the letter with Mr. Truman and had discovered some "typographical errors."

Ross didn't say who made them, or why the letter wasn't checked before it was sent out. But he did not question the authenticity of the photographed letter which appeared in the Trainman's News.

One paragraph of the communication addressed to A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, read:

"The compromisers got nowhere, as I was sure they wouldn't, and they never had any consideration whatever for me."

These 19 words contained two errors, Ross said after his huddle with the chief.

He said the president meant "compromises" instead of "compromisers," and that the end of the sentence should have been "never had any consideration from (instead of 'for') me."

The president campaigned with a promise to repeal the Taft-Hartley act, and since his election has said repeatedly that is exactly what he wants.

His letter to Whitney included these words:

"I've never believed in any compromise on the labor program other than the amended Wagner act which I sent to the congress and which was reported out by the labor commission of both the house and senate.

NEVILLE STUDENTS PRACTICE DRIVING

New Dual Control Automobile Loaned To School By Local Company

Neville High School students, who have been receiving classroom instructions on safe and proper methods for operating an automobile, will now receive actual driving experience under the supervision of trained and qualified instructors.

The Lee-Rogers Chevrolet Company delivered to the school a 1949 model Chevrolet last Thursday. The car is equipped with dual controls which will enable an instructor to ride beside the pupil and take over in case of an emergency. The car was loaned to the school by Lee-Rogers and will be replaced with a new one after it is used for two semesters.

Driving instructions have been inaugurated in schools all over the country and are becoming more popular, according to recent reports by education and school authorities. The nation-wide interest in driving lessons has stemmed largely from the sponsorship of the American Automobile Association.

Mr. Rogers, of the Lee-Rogers company, said the main objective is to "teach people safe driving and prevent accidents on the highway. The most practical place to begin is in the schools," Rogers said.

He pointed out that in Detroit, Mich., approximately 50 automobiles are being used for such training.

At Neville two instructors will be engaged in driving classes. They are G. E. Boggs, who is also the junior high school principal, and Mrs. Sue S. Ormston, who has previously been engaged in classroom driver instruction at Neville.

Both instructors have been qualified according to A. A. A. regulations.

Boggs pointed out yesterday that students of the driver's class will receive credit on their regular curriculum. He said the course requires one semester's work for completion and after finishing the course, students will be presented a certificate of their instruction.

The junior high school principal said about 40 students are now taking the course and more are expected to be taught next year.

The United States did not develope commercial production of peanuts until after the Civil War when their food value was emphasized by the short rations of the time.

New Poison Gas Has Same Effect As Atoms On Mice

By Howard W. Blakeslee

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—The new poison war gas, nitrogen mustard, makes heredity changes that put it in the class of atom bombs.

The mutations made by the gas are reported in the official British Science Journal Nature, April 30, which reached here today.

The gas was given to some wild mice in Edinburg, Scotland. The result was one new strain.

This new mouse differed by having ears that folded during infancy, no hair on the tail or behind ears, small kinks at the tip of the tail, and a sort of crew cut effect of hair on the back. They point toward the middle of the back.

The most important fact is that this hereditary change occurred in mammals, because of its scientific history that what occurs in mammals also can occur in human beings, who are members of the great mammal family.

This new strain of mice breeds true, that is, the folds, kinks and hair tricks are inherited.

Nitrogen mustard is a new relative of the mustard gas of World War I. It was perfected, but not used in the second world war.

Like its wartime cousin, nitrogen mustard is a liquid, that spreads in the form of a fine mist.

In Edinburg the nitrogen liquid was injected into the animals. They probably got bigger doses than likely for most humans who might be exposed to this gas war. Some of the mice were killed.

Those that lived more temporarily sterile, much like the human beings made temporarily sterile by the rays of an atomic bomb.

Not all the mustard mice mating produced heredity changes.

Nitrogen mustard is one of the new treatments for the blood disease, Leukemia, which is multiplication of white blood cells.

The mustard interfers with a division of tissue cells, and in this way temporarily cuts down overproduction of white cells.

LOOSE GRAVEL IS ACCIDENT CAUSE

JONESVILLE, La., May 14.—(Special)—Two "loose gravel" accidents, one in Concordia parish and one in Catahoula, this week resulted in the death of one person and severe injuries to two other.

Jasper Book, member of a large Catahoula family, died from injuries received when the jeep he was driving reportedly hit loose gravel near New Era. Funeral services were held Thursday at Island Bayou. His 15-year-old son, who was with him, is hosiptalized in Ferriday with a broken leg.

In the second accident, Noble Weaver, of Jonesville, lost control of his truck when he hit loose gravel and was knocked unconscious as the truck turned over three times. He was taken to his home in Jonesville, where medical examination revealed head injuries and body bruises.

'PRINCESS PAT' IS FANCY FREE

Met Opera Singer Says Music Will Not Enter Into Choice Of Mate

Lovely Pat Munsel of the Metropolitan Opera is not singing "I Wanna Get Married," but she has definite ideas on lyrics for "The Man That I Marry." In opera the fresh, glamorous young star is generally stuck with tenors who resemble romantic swains as much as Jimmy Durante looks like Romeo. In real life, she states, her requirements for a suitable mate have nothing to do with music; she doesn't care if the fellow can not whistle a scale in tune.

"In fact," she added, "it would be better if he were a monotone. Two artistic egos in one family would be more than the traffic could bear."

The vivacious, black-haired soprano who, at 23, is already a veteran of five seasons at the Met, managed to find time in a busy schedule of concert and radio appearances to compose an answer to the mating call. Miss Munsel who will sing here on May 23 at 8 p. m. "hopes" her future husband will be something like this:

"I imagine he'd be a bit taller than I am," she said. "I'm 5'5", so he should be about 5'10" or possibly six feet tall. I don't think I'd want him to be particularly good looking. Really handsome people are generally vain and that's a quality I can do without.

"More important though, would be his personality. Combining marriage and a career is a difficult problem. The man I marry would have to be fully aware of that and be adaptable to all situations. A sense of humor is important particularly when someone makes the mistake of addressing him as Mr. Munsel.

"Beside that, I think marriage is a reciprocal trade agreement. I believe my husband would expect me to share his interest in his work as I'd want him to do in mine. I'd want him to treat me as a human being; not as a scullery maid."

Miss Munsel paused for a moment, confronted by a major difficulty.

"The really big thing," she confided, "would be children. He'd have to love them because I want at least three, a prospect that sometimes frightens me. I wonder how I'm going to find the time I want to devote to children and still continue singing. It's going to be quite a job."

While Miss Munsel was grappling with that issue, she encountered another. What would happen if she fell in love with a man making a nominal salary? Would she marry him?

"I've thought a great deal about that," she said quickly. "And I think the key to that question is compromise. I'd be willing to limit my concert and opera tours but he'd have to permit me to continue my career.

"There would be other adjustments. If my husband felt his self respect depended on our living on his salary, I would. On the other hand, I would not expect him to supply the tools of my profession. When you're in the public eye, clothes are important. I wouldn't let him buy my wardrobe out of his salary. That's just one item. There are lessons, music—oh lots of others. But if the boy could laugh at trouble, we could make a go of it."

After reading this, if eligible males feel they fit the specifications, they still have to figure out their own campaign methods. On that subject, Miss Munsel was succinct.

"My man will have to show ingenuity," she said.

To help meet shortages of fast and oils, Britain is operating a huge project for growing oil-rich peanuts in east Africa.

WILL ADVERTISE ON RING LEVEE

JONESVILLE, La., May 14.—(Special)—The U. S. engineers will advertise for bids on the Jonesville ring levee within a few days, probably next week, and actual construction work is expected to be underway by August 1, according to W. C. Brown, member of the Tensas basin levee board.

There will be at least two contracts on the project—moving dirt for the levee and construction of a concrete seawall. The engineers will advertise for bids for 30 days before letting a contract. It is customary to give a contractor about 30 days to move equipment to the site of the job.

The ring levee around Jonesville will protect the town from flood waters, and will provide a haven for refugees from low sections of Catahoula and Concordia parishes during time of high water. A total of $482,000 has been approved for its construction.

The world's total peanut production in 1948 was nearly 11,000,000 tons.

REV. J. W. GREEN IS NEW PASTOR

Accepts Post In Newly-Formed Fair Park Church, West Monroe

Rev. John W. Green, former pastor of the Alto Baptist Church, has been called and accepted the Fair Park Baptist Church. This is the baby Baptist Church of the Twin Cities, which was recently organized on the White's Ferry Road, West Monroe.

The Rev. Green is a graduate of Louisiana College, Pineville, and the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. He won honors as a debater and after-dinner speaker in contests with other colleges of the nation.

Fair Park Church was organized a few weeks ago and will have the first service in their temporary building Sunday, May 15. They will have over 100 in Sunday school and will begin the first revival meeting the church has had at 11:00 a. m.

A number of years ago Rev. Green was youth evangelist for one of the first all out youth revivals ever held in the Twin Cities.

The Fair Park Baptist Church extends a most cordial invitation to the public to attend the services in the first revival and first building beginning Sunday. Services each evening at 7:30 p. m.

LAKE CHARLES FOOD COSTS SHOW DROP

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14.—(AP)—Lake Charles food costs have dropped 3.3 per cent since November, Louisiana State University's commerce research division reported today.

It was the second consecutive six-month period in which retail costs of food declined in Lake Charles, the report said. The 12-month drop was recorded at 1.6 per cent.

The report listed decreases in costs of seven out of ten major groups of food items during the past six months. These ranged from an 18.1 per cent drop in fats and oils costs to a decline of 1.3 per cent in costs of canned fruits and vegetables. Other decreases noted were eggs, 12.8 per cent; dried fruits, 10.9 per cent; vegetables, 7.1 per cent; meats, poultry and fish, 4.3 per cent and cereals and bakery products, 2.6 per cent.

Increases were found during the period in costs of fresh fruits and vegetables, up 9.5 per cent; coffee, 6.8 per cent higher, and sugar, up 1.8 per cent.

The decline brought Lake Charles' over-all increase in food costs between December, 1941, and the current month to 86.7 per cent.

Today pin money usually means small amounts; in the days of Athens and Rome, it meant money for expensive pins and other jewelry.

Delinquency Of Juveniles Termed Big Crime Problem

Red Shield Clubs One Solution, Says Colonel Herbert Young

"A new crime wave of dangerous proportions and an alarming increase in traffic fatalities are grave problems faced by police . . . and the greatest single one, perhaps, is the matter of juvenile delinquency. Juvenile delinquents are spear-heading an army of six million law breakers in a crime wave which threatens to rival the gangster era of the 'roaring twenties.'"

These startling words of J. Edgar Hoover, national director of F. B. I., were quoted yesterday by Lt. Col. Herbert Young, divisional commander of the Salvation Army, while on a visit to Monroe. Coming from headquarters in New Orleans, he was guest speaker at the rally of the Red Shield Community Center building fund appeal, now in progress.

Delinquency, juvenile or adult, said Colonel Young, is a dangerous and growing threat to every single citizen of a community where it exists. Delinquency results in neglected children, desertions, divorces, loss of self-respect, alcoholic excesses, cruelty and disease.

"These are the ills that hurt a city. They will hurt you and they will hurt me," he said.

Big, red haired and kindly, Colonel Young typifies the spirit of devotion which characterizes Salvation Army people. Colonel Young comes from a Salvation Army family. His parents, early converts to the movement started by William Booth to help the poor in London nearly ninety years ago, gave to their children much of the fire and zeal of the Salvation Army's founder with the result that two of his sisters and a brother also became officers.

The dominant passion of the colonel's career has been the youth of the territories to which he has been assigned. His thirty-five Salvation Army years have included four posts in New York state, including the tough colored area of Harlem in New York City and he has also served as Young Peoples' director of Illinois, Michigan, Virginia and Florida. Prior to his present post, he was divisional commander in Tennessee, Kentucky and Arkansas.

"Few people realize the purpose or the extent of the Salvation Army Red Shield Clubs," continued Colonel Young. "From its beginning, the Salvation Army accepted aid to the poor as its responsibility. The Salvation army has fed the hungry, housed the homeless and clothed the destitute over scores of years and in ninety-three different colonies and countries. It will continue to serve mankind in this way.

"At the same time, it realizes that many of the world's ills are due to ignorance. It holds that young people in wholesome surroundings can be taught sound ethical principles and that adult crime can be prevented by youth training."

In support of that contention, Colonel Young said that the Red Shield Club in Louisville, Ky., is "the pride and joy of the crime prevention bureau of the Louisville police department." He said that prior to the organizing of the Red Shield Club, the Fortland area of the city was thickly covered by black pins on the police map, indicating it as a source of daily juvenile crime. The section was recognized as a festering sore in Louisville.

Today, that area is without a single black pin. In state speeches throughout Kentucky, Captain Keiffer of the police department has presented this map and he says that it is the strongest single motivating influence in the creation of the "Save the Child" movement which has received national prominence in numerous magazines. The Association of Sheriffs of Kentucky has adopted the Red Shield Club idea because "it has demonstrated it as a power in changing the lives of the young people it serves."

Colonel Young also touched upon the work of Red Shield clubs in the late war, saying: "An estimated one hundred and ten million meals and snacks were served to men and women of the armed forces by Red Shield clubs, operated solely by the Salvation Army. Over three thousand Red Shield clubs were set up in improvised huts on beachheads, in jungles and in desert outposts. They ranged from snow-covered mountains in Syria to caves in Sicily and tents in Iraq."

COL. HERBERT YOUNG

Colonel Young explained "It is the conviction of the Salvation Army that prevention of crime is far more effective than investigation and prosecution of crimes after they have been committed and," he added, "the Salvation Army is constantly striving to organize and expand its Red Shield work everywhere so that boys and girls may be steered away from the downward paths which lead to ruin."

CALLS POLIO CASE NO ALARM CAUSE

JONESVILLE, La., May 14.—(Special)—One case of poliomyelitis was reported in Catahoula parish last week end, but there is no cause for "undue alarm," according to Dr. J. A. Coleman, director of the parish health unit.

Victim of the disease is Joanne Patten, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Patten of the Lake Lily community. The child was taken Sunday to the Jonesville Clinic of Dr. N. G. Nasif, who sent her to the polio center in New Orleans. A report from the center later confirmed the diagnosis.

As news of the case spread, a number of children were kept out of school in Jonesville and Harrisonburg, but any such measure in unnecessary, according to Dr. Coleman, explaining that little is yet known about how polio is spread.

He advised parents to follow the rules of safety set forth by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and especially to remain calm.

"There is certainly no need to close the schools unless an epidemic were to develop," he said.

16-YEAR-OLD GIRL'S SON 10 YEARS OLD

LIMA, Peru, May 14.—(AP)—Little Gerardo Medida and the mother who gave him birth when she was only five years and eight months old, celebrated his tenth birthday today.

Medical science was amazed when on Mother's Day, May 14, 1939, Dr. Gerardo Losada performed an operation delivering a son from a mother not much beyond babyhood herself.

Today they are sturdy, healthy children, leading the normal, poverty stricken lives of a million others on the western Andean slopes.

The son's half-breed grandfather has taught him to herd goats, but the child also attends the same school as his mother, Lina Medina, now nearly 16 years old.

Lina now knows that the boy is her son, and not a brother, as he first had told her. The boy, however, believes she is his sister.

Dr. Losada, who saved both mother and son with a Cesarian operation, is far from popular with the children's grandparents. He says they resent the fact he overruled their desire to send the children abroad for exhibition, hoping to reap a fortune from those who would pay to see.

It was the doctor who convinced authorities that the trip should not be allowed.

Losada, now owner of a swank clinic, said he plans some day to write a book about the case, and that he cannot understand why it did not draw sustained interest from the medical profession abroad.

He said the child-mother is sensitive about the case, and weeps if people question her about it.

The birthday observance will not disturb the meek life of the little goat herd, who lives in his grandparents' hut at the little Andean village of Ticrapo, south of here. It was school as usual this morning, but work among the goats in the afternoon, when school closes for the Saturday half-holiday.

Legislature Faces School Fund Problem

By Edmond Le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14.—(AP)—It's a safe guess that the 1950 legislature will be hearing plenty about this week's decision of the state supreme court on the distribution of school funds.

Schools come close to the top of the list of things in which legislators and their constituents—are interested. Bills to provide school funds for specific purposes, like vocational education, teacher retirement, a guaranteed wage scale, have always made up a big proportion of the landslide of legislation that pours on the assembly during the opening weeks of its sessions.

But whenever the legislature has tried in the past to earmark part of the public school fund for a specific purpose, it has run into a limiting factor. This is a state constitutional provision that three fourths of the public school fund must be distributed among school systems according to the number of children of school age in the jurisdiction of each system, one fourth as equalization to help parishes that have smaller local tax revenues.

This limitation has caused uncounted legislative projects for special educational programs to come to grief. As an indirect result it has made the compiling of the "equalization formula" an almost unbelievably intricate undertaking.

Reflecting a fear of inadequate school support that is almost funny in these days of huge school appropriations, the constitution provided that least $10,000,000 a year must be provided for this purpose. (By contrast, the appropriation for the fiscal year now nearing its end is about $45,000,000).

As appropriations for public education grew, the mandatory 25 per cent for equalization got to be a huge sum. The tendency was for the department of education, in setting up the minimum educational program on which equalization assistance was to be based, to include more and more factors, raising the minimum and spreading out the equalization fund to more and more school systems. Finally all but a handful of parishes came to be classed officially as "poor" parishes—eligible to receive equalization funds. And the "minimum" program came to include more and more of the special projects, all of which had to be financed in conformity with the equalization formula.

But the supreme court, though the case before it concerned directly only the latest of the special funds—$8,000,000 for guaranteeing a minimum pay scale for teachers—has taken wholly new view of the constitutional requirement.

What its decision said, in effect, was:

The legislature must provide at least $10,000,000 for the public schools, to be divided according to the per educable - equalization requirement. But on any sums the legislature appropriates above $10,000,000 the lawmakers can write their own ticket, provided only the sums are to be used for real school purposes.

So the legislature now has a much freer hand in determining what kind of school program the state shall have. And it also follows that the "basic" per educable and equalization funds can by anything the legislature chooses to make them, provided only they do not fall below the respective minimums of $7,500,000 and $2,500,000.

It isn't hard to imagine how a number of legislators—those on the education and appropriation committees especially—will be spending their time come the summer of 1950.

UNEMPLOYMENT FUND SURPLUS IS HIGHER

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14.—(AP)—Louisiana's surplus unemployment compensation funds climbed to $102,000,000 during his first year as state commissioner of labor, Edwin I. Soule reported today.

Commissioner Soule compared the gain with a $92,000,000 increase the previous year. He said it had been made despite a jump in unemployment benefits paid, from $6,260,000 to $8,835,000. An additional $7,500,000 was paid as readjustment to veterans, he added.

In his aniversary report, Soule said that job placements had increased more than 100 per cent to 125,687. Of this, he explained, 22,508 were veterans and 58,604 were agricultural workers.

Soule said the $102,000,000 would be used as a "cushion" against possible future unemployment.

The report also listed several 1948 acts, successfully sponsored by the department. These included acts which set up a labor mediation board, broadened workmen's compensation to include minors, raised unemployment compensation payments from $20 to $30 weekly, and prohibited employers from charging employes for medical examinations.

Other department accomplishments. Soule reported, were:

Approval of 1,774 apprentices, of whom 90 per cent were veterans, and graduation of 262 apprentices as qualified craftsmen.

Organization of the Southern States Apprenticeship Conference.

Issuance of 9,889 work certificates to children.

Settlement of 200 labor-management disputes.

Inspection of 3,446 boilers, with no boiler fatalities or major explosions.

As "possible areas of future expansion," Soule listed extension of unemployment compensation coverage, payment of dependent allowances, employers' experience ratings, and sickness and disability benefits.

DELHI P.-T. A. HAS SUMMER ROUNDUP

DELHI, La., May 14.—(Special)—The Delhi P.-T. A. held its annual summer roundup for pre school children this week. Mrs. C. T. DeLoach and Mrs. Jarvis Gordan acted as co-chairman in the absence of the health chairman, Mrs. Jack Womack. The co-chairman had a well organized group of room mothers as helpers. Fifty-nine children were registered for the inoculation, dental and physical checkup.

There will be a follow up in the fall to determine if the defects found have been corrected. Doctors giving their time for this worthy cause were Dr. W. C. Cookston, of Monroe; Dr. Lorenz Teer and Dr. Travis Gilliland, both of Delhi. With the cooperation and help of P. B. Mangum, principal of the Delhi High School, and the primary grade teachers, the roundup was very successful.

FRANK PERKINS NOW HOME

Frank Perkins, porter for the News-Star—World, where he has been employed for many years, suffered a slight injury to a kidney when at work the past week. He has been confined to his home for several days but is hopeful to be able to resume his duties this week.

The average automobile engine is fitted with as many as 11 gears.

DELHI P.-T. A. HAS SUMMER ROUNDUP

DELHI, La., May 14.—(Special)—The Delhi P.-T. A. held its annual summer roundup for pre school children this week. Mrs. C. T. DeLoach and Mrs. Jarvis Gordan acted as co-chairman in the absence of the health chairman, Mrs. Jack Womack. The co-chairman had a well organized group of room mothers as helpers. Fifty-nine children were registered for the inoculation, dental and physical checkup.

There will be a follow up in the fall to determine if the defects found have been corrected. Doctors giving their time for this worthy cause were Dr. W. C. Cookston, of Monroe; Dr. Lorenz Teer and Dr. Travis Gilliland, both of Delhi. With the cooperation and help of P. B. Mangum, principal of the Delhi High School, and the primary grade teachers, the roundup was very successful.

FRANK PERKINS NOW HOME

Frank Perkins, porter for the News-Star—World, where he has been employed for many years, suffered a slight injury to a kidney when at work the past week. He has been confined to his home for several days but is hopeful to be able to resume his duties this week.

The average automobile engine is fitted with as many as 11 gears.

ALICE, RELAX!

I MUST HAVE LEFT OUT PART OF IT. EVERYBODY ROLLED ON THE FLOOR WHEN MAC TOLD IT DOWN AT THE OFFICE

THE WAY I HEARD IT, THERE WERE ONLY TWO GIRLS AND THEY WERE IN THE PARK!

SO-LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD PUT THE FRENCH PASTRIES ON THE BACK SEAT AND DROVE OVER TO HER GRANDMOTHER'S APARTMENT

MAYBE THIS IS A DIFFERENT STORY.

IT WILL BE WHEN FREDDIE GETS THROUGH WITH IT!

I HOPE SHE LOCKED THE CAR DOORS AND HAD PLENTY OF GAS!

SO THE GREAT BIG BEAR WITH THE GREAT BIG VOICE ATE UP THE WICKED OLD WITCH AND THE THREE LITTLE PIGS LIVED HAPPILY EVER AFTER!

BUT HOW DID RED RIDING HOOD GET A DRIVER'S LICENSE?

AND WHY DID THE COP SIT ON THE FRENCH PASTRIES?

ALLEY OOP

by V. HAMLIN

I HAVEN'T HAD SO MUCH FUN SINCE I WAS A KID!

WHERE DO WE SPEND THE NIGHT?

HERE'S A NICE PLACE!

THE FIRST DAY'S TRIP IN DR. WONMUG'S NEW CAR HAS BEEN A GREAT SUCCESS.

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

IT'S ONLY FOUR-THIRTY! WE CAN MAKE ANOTHER HUNDRED MILES BEFORE DARK!

OKAY, BUT FINDING A PLACE TO STAY MIGHT BE TOUGH!

ADELO'S A GOOD TOWN-- LOTS OF PLACES THERE!

100 MINUTES LATER...

THIS WILL BE ADELO!

YES, AND I'M GETTING PRETTY TIRED!

THERE'S A NICE COURT!

COURT

VACANCY

AW, WE CAN DO BETTER THAN THAT--KEEP GOING!

NO VACANCY!

NO VACANCY!

COURT

NO VACANCY! OH, DEAR!

MOTEL

GEE, DOC, NOT ANOTHER VACANCY IN TOWN!

I GUESS WE'D BETTER GO BACK TO THE STAR!

OH, OH!

NOW IT'S FULL, TOO!

COURT

NO VACANCY

WE'LL JUST HAVE TO KEEP ON DRIVING!

Awww...

OH, WE'LL FIND SOMETHING ALONG THE HIGHWAY!

CITY LIMITS ADELO

5-15

SOME TIME LATER...

YOU LOOK BEAT, DOC! IF WE STOPPED A WHILE YOU COULD GRAB A FEW WINKS!

ALL RIGHT-- I SURE CAN'T SLEEP IN THIS BOUNCING JALOPY!

LOOKS LIKE A GOOD SPOT JUST AHEAD!

POOR DR. WONMUG! IN SPITE OF ALL HIS BRAINS, HE'S JUST A VICTIM OF CIVILIZATION!

YEH, AT TIMES BRAINS ARE AN AWFUL HANDICAP!

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

EGAD! AN IRRESISTIBLE WANDERLUST PERVADES MY RESTLESS SPIRIT!

THE OPEN ROAD CALLS TO THE OLD ADVENTURER--MY VERY TOES TINGLE!

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

MAJOR HOOPLE

OLD SCENES OF MY GLOBE-TROTTING DAYS KEEP CALLING--MY SOUL IS IN CATHAY

AHOY! CHINA!

IT IS NOT EASY FOR A MAN WHO HAS CLIMBED THE MATTERHORN TO BREATHE IN THIS ATMOSPHERE OF STAGNATION=

IN MY BREAST BEATS THE INDOMITABLE HEART OF THE EXPLORER--MARCHING FROM POLE TO POLE!

ONWARD, VILHJALMUR! ONLY 182 MILES MORE!

EGAD! I MUST FLEE THESE FOUR WALLS OR GO DAFT!

IDEA!

WELL, HE FINALLY MADE IT OUT TO THE YARD--NOW I CAN SEE THAT BIG BLOB OF SUSPENDED ANIMATION THERE ALL SUMMER!

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

AT DAWN, TRIS BAGLES'S NELITONGA ISLAND EXPEDITION PUZZLES OVER THE FLAMING-HAIRED GIRL VISITOR OF THE NIGHT BEFORE

DIDN'T YOU SAY THIS PLACE WAS UNINHABITED, TRIS?

I THOUGHT IT WAS WHEN I WAS MAROONED HERE DURING THE WAR!

SHUCKS! EVERYBODY BUT ME HAS SWELL DREAMS!

I WASN'T DREAMING! LOOK AT THESE FOOTPRINTS!

WELL, WHAT ARE WE WAITING FOR? LET'S FIND HER!

NOT MUCH CHANCE OF TRAILING HER THROUGH THIS LAVA BED!

YIPE! HEADHUNTERS!

WE'D BETTER HURRY BACK TO CAMP AND FIGURE OUT WHAT KIND OF A PLACE WE'VE GOTTEN INTO!

YOU'RE RIGHT, EASY! WE DON'T HAVE A GUN WITH US!

I DON'T UNDERSTAND WHY THIS GIRL, IF SHE'S BLOODTHIRSTY, DIDN'T KILL US WHILE WE WERE SLEEPING LAST NIGHT!

MAYBE YOU WOKE UP IN TIME TO SCARE HER OFF, EASY!

MORE TRACKS! SHE'S BEEN BACK!

RUMBLE!

CRASH!

MUMBLE!

EARTHQUAKE! AND THE VOLCANO'S ACTING UP!

SEE WHAT HAPPENED AFTER YOU KILLED THAT ALBATROSS! WE GOT HEADHUNTERS, A VOLCANO, AN EARTHQUAKE AND A REDHEADED WOMAN!

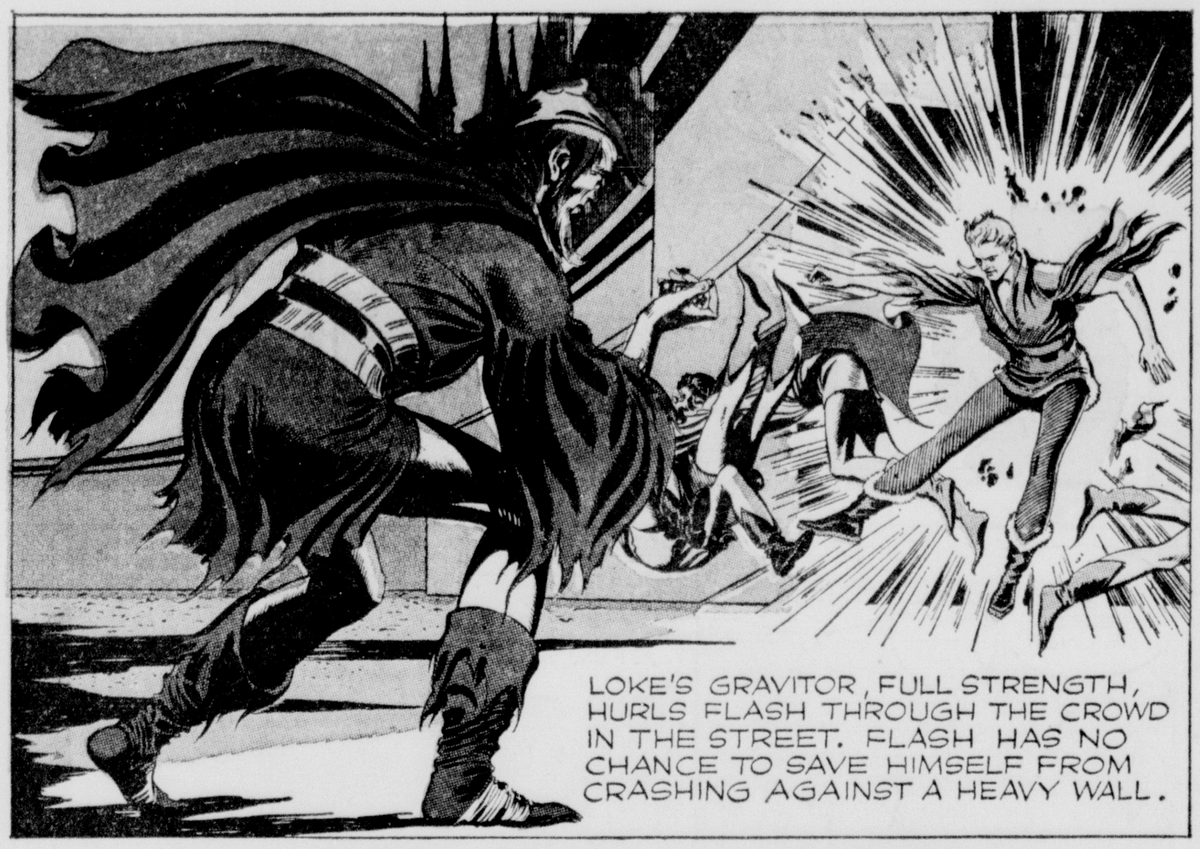
FLASH GORDON

by MAC RABOY and DON MOORE



LOKE'S GRAVITOR, FULL STRENGTH, HURLS FLASH THROUGH THE CROWD IN THE STREET. FLASH HAS NO CHANCE TO SAVE HIMSELF FROM CRASHING AGAINST A HEAVY WALL.

LOKE AROUSES THE CROWD AGAINST THE UNCONSCIOUS MAN: "HE INJURED YOUR FRIENDS! HE TRIED TO ESCAPE AFTER KILLING KING TOR!"

LOKE THINKS FLASH IS DOOMED. BUT DALE, UNABLE TO BREAK THROUGH THE MOB, LEAPS FROM THE DAMAGED BUILDING TO REACH HIS SIDE.

BEFORE LOKE CAN ATTACK AGAIN, DALE USES THE GRAVITOR LIKE A ROCKET, TO ESCAPE WITH THE BATTERED FLASH.

NEXT WEEK: SPY
